Wingin' It!

"We Learn Our Wings Every Day"

Holding his own and showing all his brute strength, Wayne Jones hits the sled hard after a little encouragement from Coach Marc Funderburk.

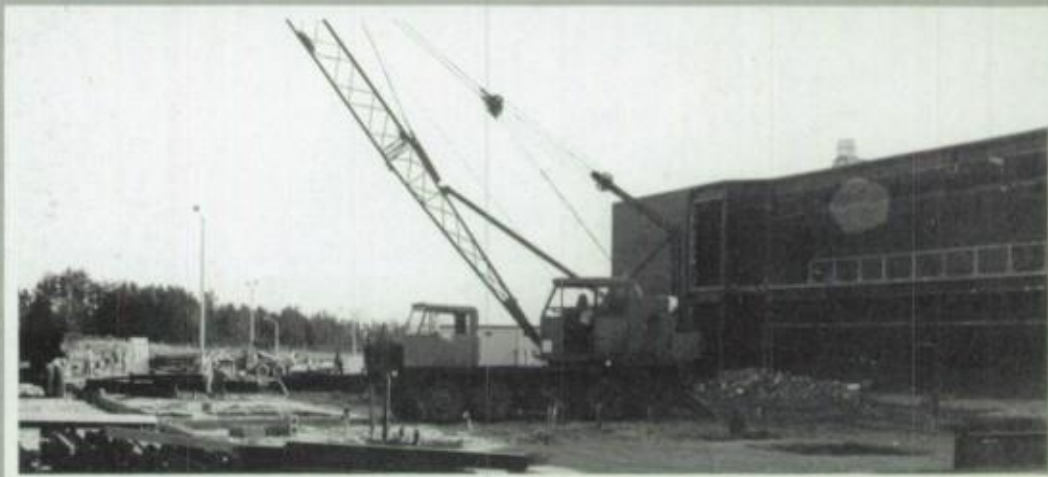

The Palmetto Tournament of Bands keeps all band members busy for the weekend. Pouring drinks for thirsty band members is Anna Johnson.

Managing the soccer team is oftentimes a heavy job. Chris Africano and Gina Nivens manage to accumulate a few muscles during the season.

Obviously the two prettiest football players at CHS, Steve Barber and Trusty Hicks add a little humor to the homecoming pep rally.

This is a familiar sight to most CHS students. The new wing took a while to construct, but the wait is well worth the extra space.

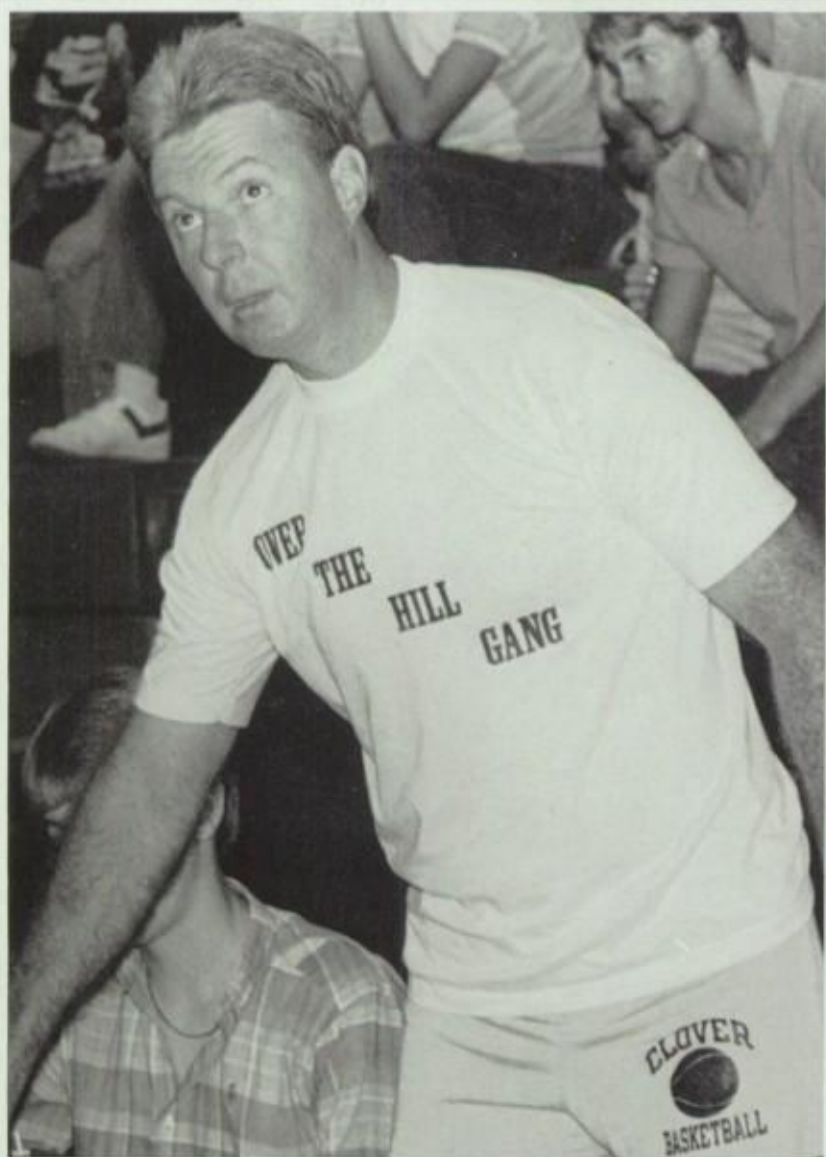

Year to Wing It

If there was one thing that all high school students could relate to it was taking an impossible situation and making it a profitable venture. Conservatives called it the resilience of youth. We, the students, preferred to say that we were wingin' it.

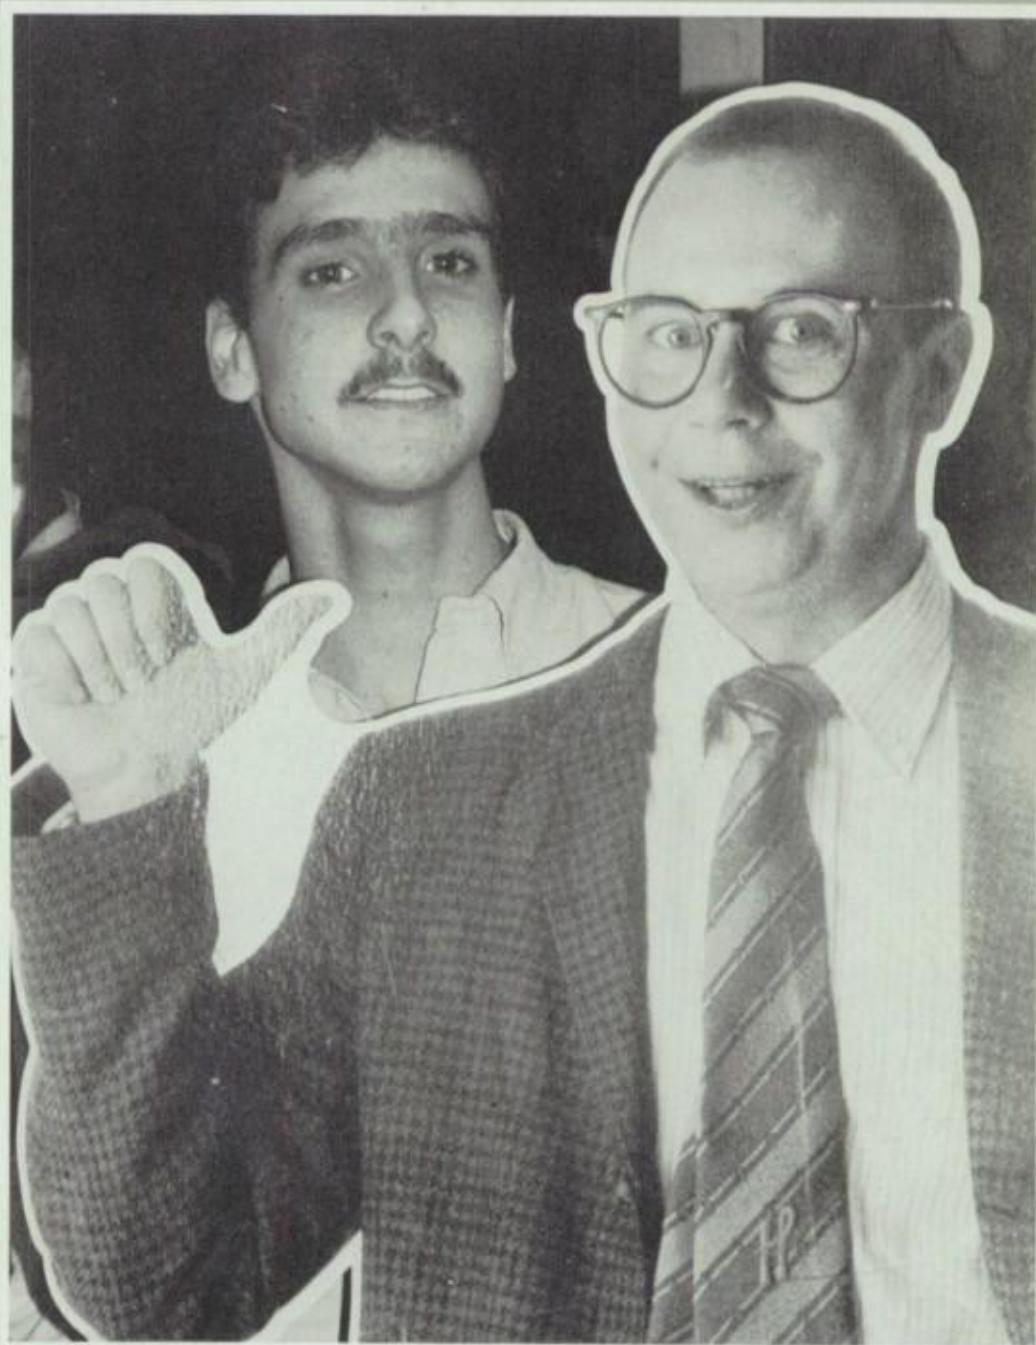

Wingin' it was when you came to school half prepared for a test and crammed during lunch, when you sight read a piece of music you were supposed to have learned a week before, or when you enter a game without having practiced enough. Wingin' it had a literal meaning this year because of the addition of the new wing to CHS which made even the seniors feel like freshmen as they fumbled through the halls looking for new rooms with familiar teachers.

The key to surviving at CHS this year was to stay on top of things and not get behind. If things just got to be too hectic and everything seemed to fall down around you, however, it always helped to know how to wing your way out of it.

Always willing to support the home band, Mr. and Mrs. David Douglas enjoy the entertainment.

The student-faculty basketball game is always an eagerly awaited event at CHS. Correcting the score board in the "Over the Hill Gang's" favor is Mr. Paul Pratt.

The search is over! Mark Huffstetler has found the much sought after Herb while at the Mu Alpha Theta convention.

Smiling from ear to ear, D'Etta Ridley and Jennifer Davis show off their original costumes

Wingin' It Into

To raise the spirit of Clover High's student body was the ultimate task for 1986-87. Last year was a record year with the reinstatement of the motorcade and a television appearance on "Let's Dance." What could top it? The student council executive officers and the faculty entertainment committee set out to answer this question and succeeded.

1986 brought several new presentations to Clover High, such as the North Carolina Opera. Also, annual events such as spirit week, the prom, homecoming, and the Palmetto Tournament of Bands kept everyone in the thick of things.

Always anxious to release their great excesses of energy and to lead the school in spirit before the big homecoming game are the varsity cheerleaders, Lori Blanton, Michelle Camp, Toni Michaels and Shanna McNeel Flappers are definitely in this year. Kara Anderson and Chris Africano pose behind the school.

Enjoying the great view of the dance floor are Keith Montgomery and his date.

Another Record

With spiked hair and torn jeans, Robert Buckley is the ultimate punker.

Trying to keep an eye on all the band members at the Palmetto Tournament of Bands are drum majors, Donna Moses and Ritchie Brandon.

The trio of Samuel Stevenson, David O'dell, and Stephen Aiken sing "Abbondanza" from the MOST HAPPY FELLA.

Enjoying the moment, David O'dell playfully covers Susan Harris' eyes in a scene between two paramours.

Soprano Susan Harris and baritone Stephen Aiken sing "If I Loved You."

There's trouble in Tahiti as Stephen Aiken, Susan Harris, and David O'dell are singing "Island Magic."

Only two of a quartet, Kathryn Weld and Susan Harris use their beautiful soprano voices to sing the "Sid Quartet Demo."

Opera Extravaganza!

While being sung to, Mr. Paul Pratt appears to swoon from the sheer joy of being the object of Susan Harris' attention.

EXTRAVAGANZA! was the name of a musical potpourri that came to CHS on May 8, 1986. Directed and designed by Robert Swedley, it presented the best of Broadway, operetta, and opera.

Some of the more popular tunes featured in the show were "There's no Business Like Show Business" from ANNIE GET YOUR GUN, "If I Loved You" from CAROUSEL, "I Got Plenty of Nothin'" from PORGY AND BESS, and "Ease on Down the Road" from THE WIZ.

The North Carolina Opera was founded in May 1978 and had its first major tour with the BARBER OF SEVILLE in 1979. It has since become the Southeast's largest musical theatre touring company. EXTRAVAGANZA! exemplified the purpose of the North Carolina Opera: to tailor productions for students and adults.

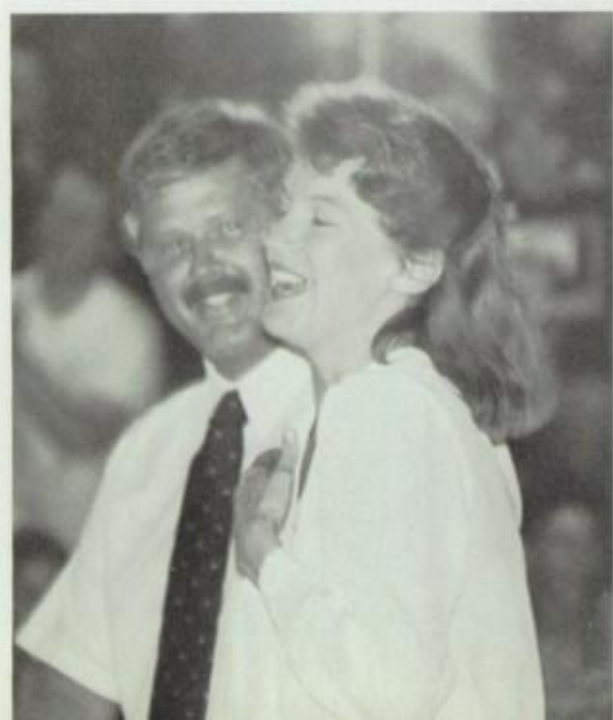

Backstage, Stephen Aiken jokingly puts a lace veil on Jeana Neal's face.

While singing "Ease on Down the Road," Stephen Aiken does just that.

Sharing a laugh, Mr. Mickey Peake and Kathryn Weld entertain the audience.

Accompanist Jeana Neal concentrates on playing "There's No Business Like Show Business."

Clowns, Ghouls, Other Fools

Clowns, ghouls, and other fools made Spirit week one of the best yet. The five days of festive fun saw students break every conceivable dress code rule. Events included: Punk-nerd Day, 20's & 50's Day, Halloween Day, Jams & Shades Day, and Blue-gray Day. Sponsored by the Student Council, the celebration coincided with homecoming this year.

The award for the best pirate costume of the year goes to James Johnson for this buccaneer rig.

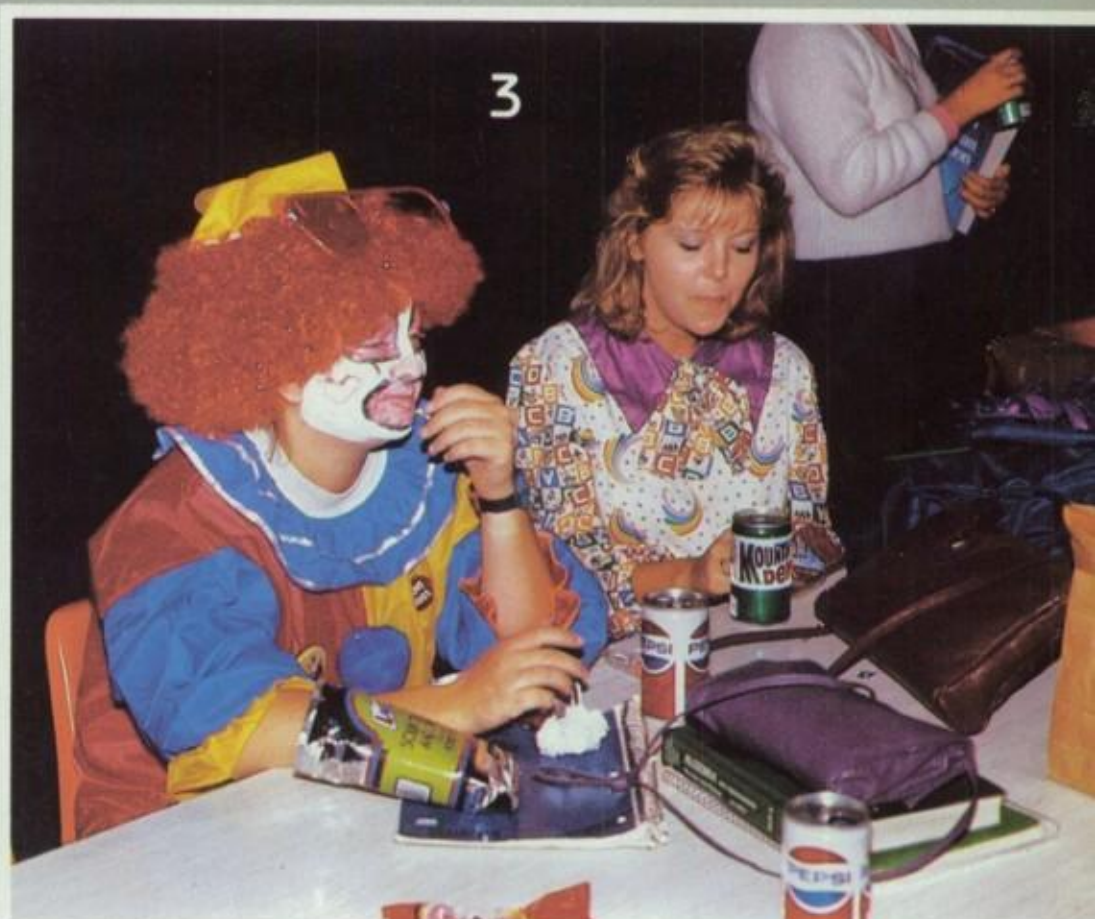

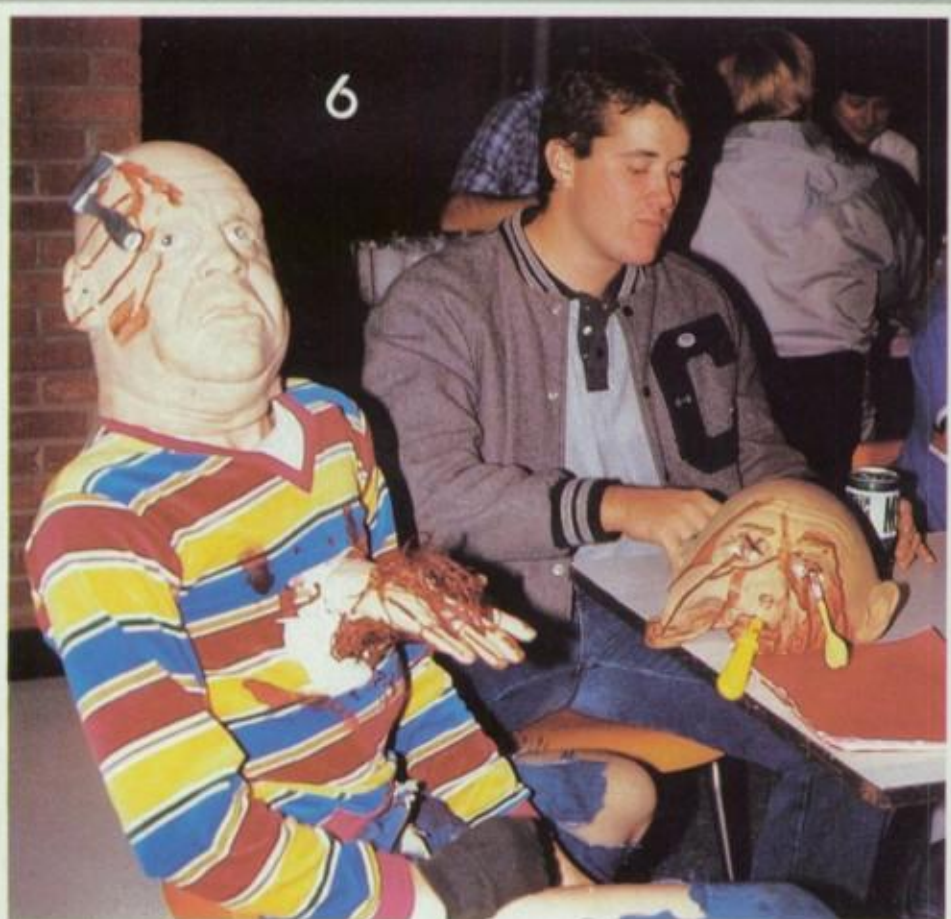

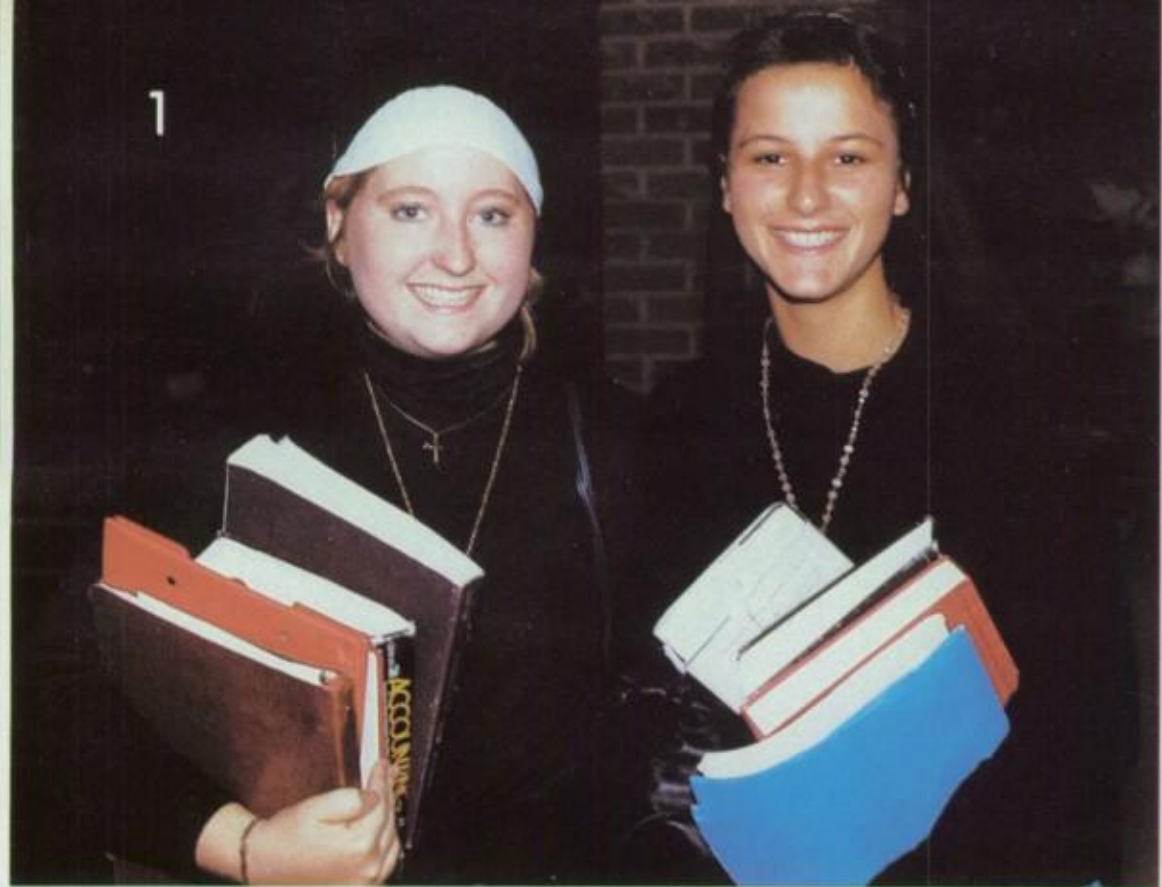

Nobody knows more about spirit than Kara Anderson and Chris Africano seen here on 20's and 50's Day.

So much for the theory that clothes make the man. April Berry pulls off a pretty good impersonation.

"I thought it was 'Grow Up' Day," said Robert Buckey. Of course, he wants to be a wino auto mechanic. That accounts for his costume of grease and rags.

Star Struck

Singing up a storm, Dodie Ewing shows CHS what she is made of.

Doing what she does best, Christie Johnston sings "All At Once."

Singing about "love in the sunshine," Erica McGill, Marianne Norman, Sandra Gaines, and Kim Anderson show us how they shine.

Putting rhythm into music, James Burrell sings "Where Are You Now?"

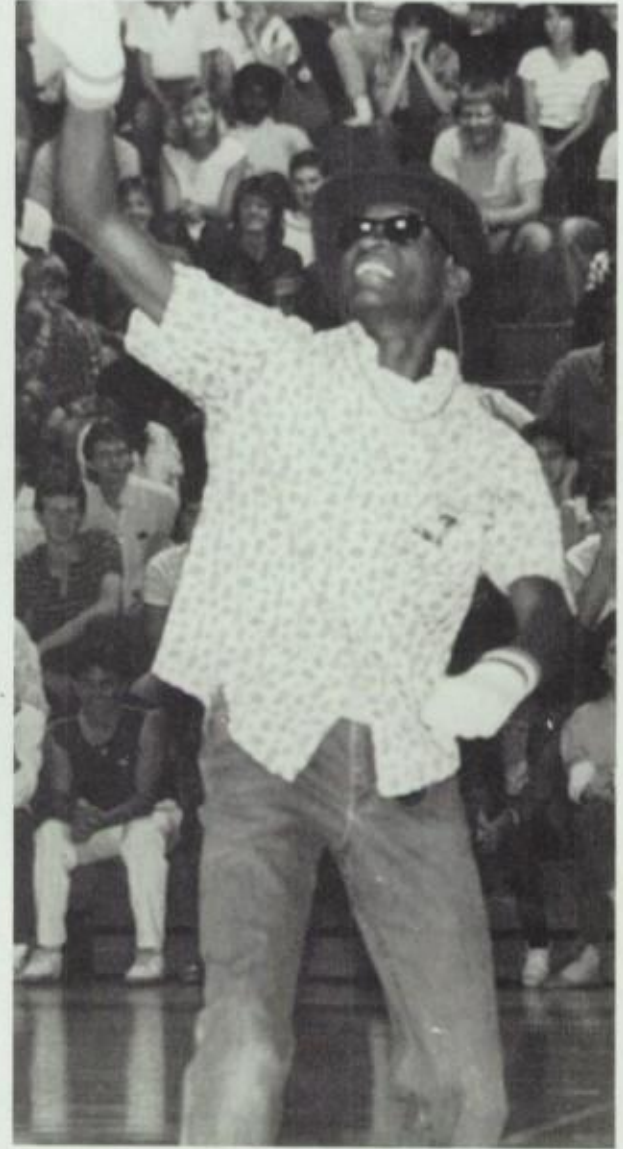

"The Rose" has never sounded so good. Eva Adams, Sarah Adams, and Hezekiah Adams enthrall the entire student body.

Singing about a "Fairy tale" romance, Lewis Tate, Hezekiah Adams, Mike Adams, and James Rainey give a grand performance.

Jamming to the beat, John Barnette captivates the audience in his enthusiasm.

The panel of judges: Kent Earl, Brad Harvey, Jenny Burrell, Kara Anderson, Miss Ernestine Wright, and Mrs. Pat Lowe concentrate on the final scores.

Introducing the next talent, Marc Weingrad addresses the audience.

Spectacular talents from CHS got their chance to perform for the entire student body during the 1986 talent show. First place ended in a tie between a group headed by Eva Adams including Sarah Adams and Hezekiah Adams and a quartet containing Lewis Tate, Hezekiah Adams, Mike Adams, and James Rainey. Dodie Ewing, a little girl with a big voice, took third place. The annual talent show was sponsored by the Student Council and gave all participants their chance to shine.

A Single Night's Reflections

Much preparation was spent on a single night's reflections. Anyone who attended the prom would have said it was worth the effort.

Under the guiding hand of Mrs. Brenda Garver, the Junior Class hosted a beautiful night of dancing at the Tega Cay Clubhouse on Saturday, May 3, 1986. The couples were entertained by the band, "Xenon." The reflections of this one night lingered in the memories of Clover High students for many nights afterward.

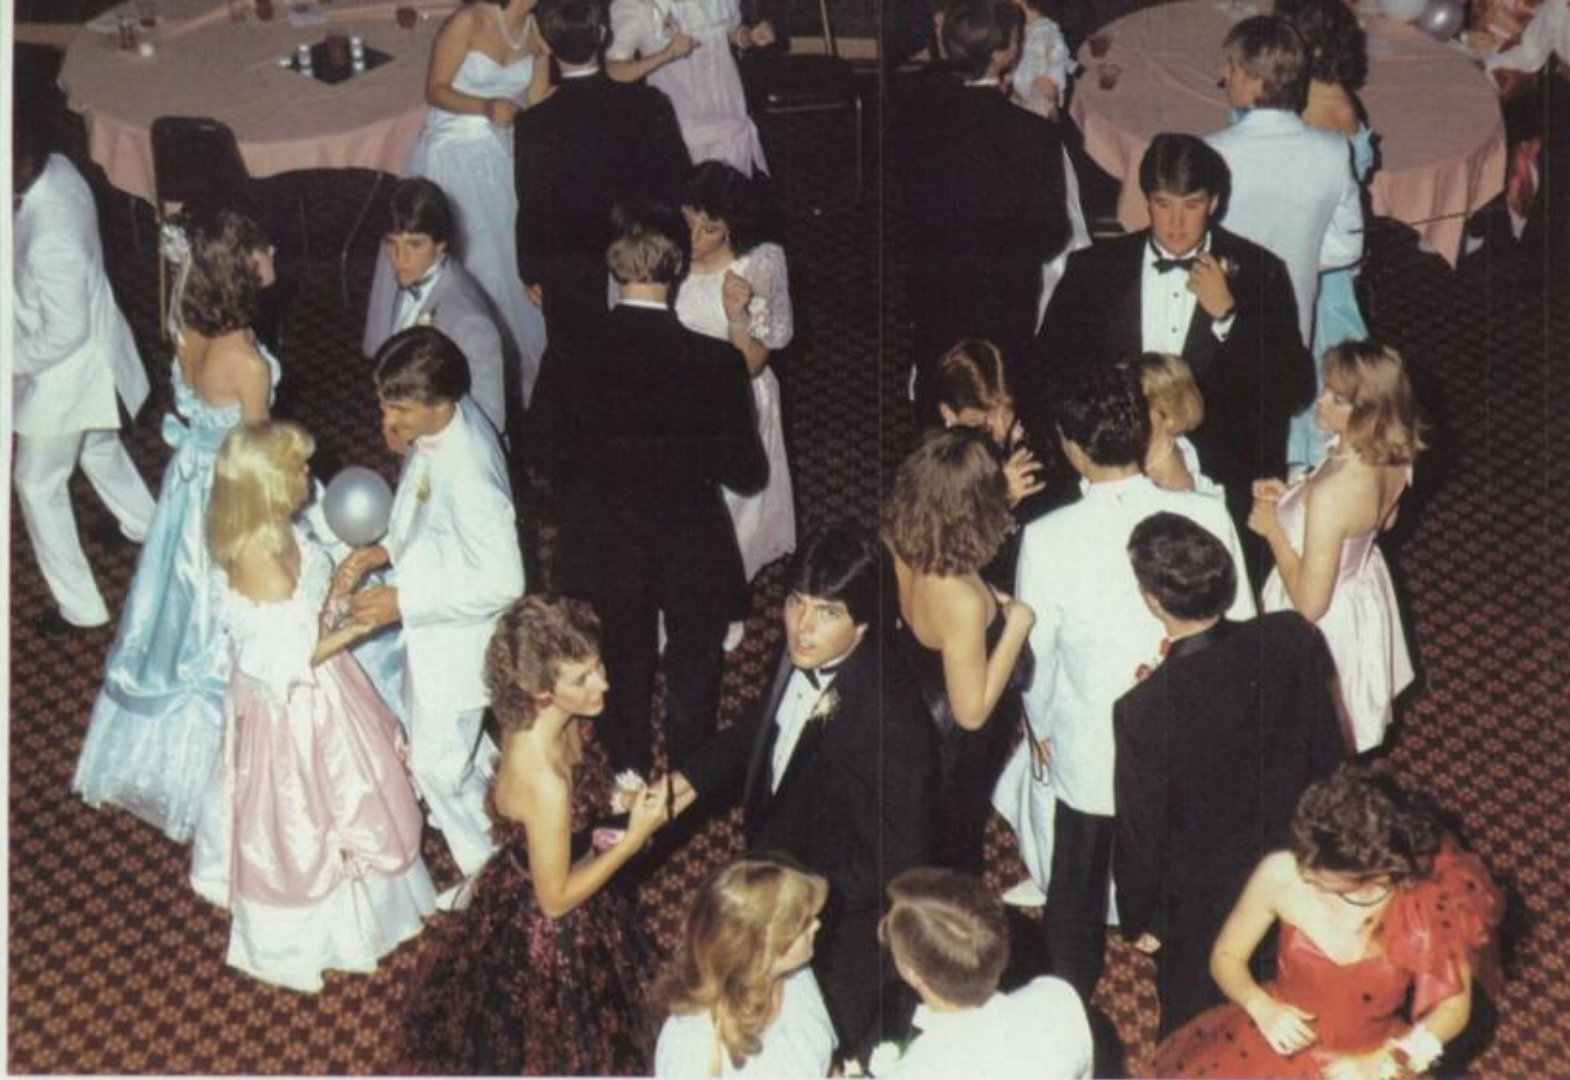

Getting there is half the fun. Deanne Phillips and her escort, John Dubil, arrive in style.

Obviously laughing at one of Mrs. Pam Winders' comments are Mr. Mickey Peake and Mr. Paul Pratt. Chaperones can have fun, too.

The upstairs sitting area provides a fantastic view of the dance floor. Taking it all in are Joe Anderson and Gloria Sanders.

Trusty

From a bird's eye view, the dancing couples seem to be enjoying their night to remember.

Xenon's lead singer puts feeling into the latest soul hit.

Sitting down to drink some punch and to socialize are Thelma Adams, Carolyn Sanders, and James Young.

Dancing to one of the many slow songs played, Todd Smith and Julie Vinson make some humorous conversation.

A 'Doll' Is Born

A new star lit the CHS stage when Stephanie Colvin, with her dark hair and ivory China doll complexion, proved once again that students can master the use of dialects while performing a musical. With a Brooklyn brogue that would stop a subway, Miss Colvin led a cast of talented performers in the Quinn-Winders production of "Guys and Dolls," the Damon Runyon Broadway tale of gambling, romance, and redemption.

Singing praises of the "oldest established floating crap game," Scott Sadler, Lewis Tate, and Eric Davis harmonize with a group of notorious gamblers.

Holly Smith again gave a solid performance as Sister Sarah Brown, the "mission doll," who is out to save the souls of the gamblers but falls in love instead.

Singing the introduction to "Marry the Man Today," Sarah Brown (Holly Smith) sings about her troubles to Adelaide (Stephanie Colvin).

Danny Harvell gave his usual superior performance in the leading male role of Nathan Detroit, Adelaide's gambler boyfriend. The part of high roller Sky Masterson was well engineered by Robert Olmstead. New-comer Dylan Strohl provided some comic relief with his interpretation of Big Jule, the tough guy from out of town.

Getting caught in another excuse about the mysterious floating crap game, Nathan Detroit (Danny Harvell) sings to Adelaide, "Sue me or shoot bullets through me, I love you."

Informing New York's best known gamblers of the location of the crap game, Nathan Detroit (Danny Harvell) discovers a gun hidden in Big Jule's (Dylan Strohl) coat.

Telling a story his father once told him, Sky Masterson (Robert Olmstead) makes a point of not getting cheated out of a thousand dollars.

Waiting around for a simple band of gold, Adelaide (Stephanie Colvin) sings about how "a person can develop a cold."

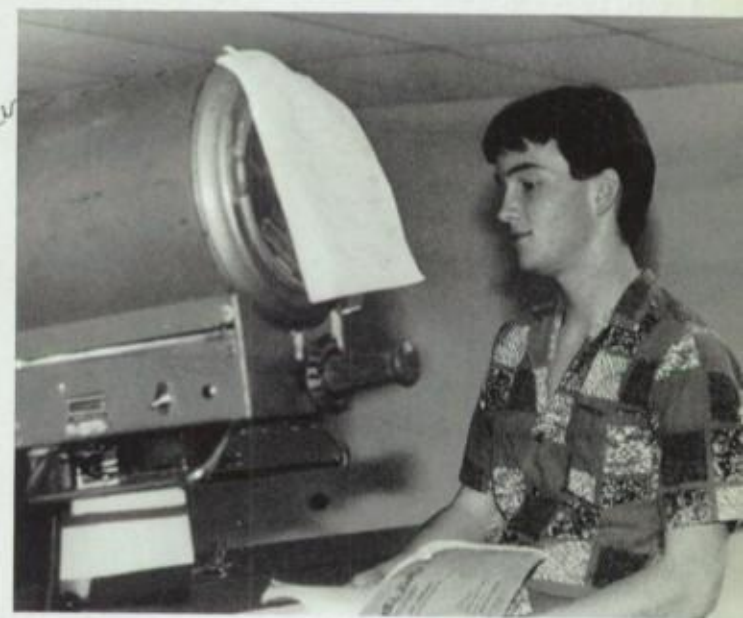

Singing about how she will know when her love comes along, Sarah Brown (Holly Smith) explains to Sky Masterson (Robert Olmstead) that her man will not be a gambler.

Making arrangements for the crap game, Nathan Detroit (Danny Harvell) speaks to Joey Biltmore about using his garage for the big event.

Singing and dancing with the other Hot Box dancers, Julie Baker and Jennifer Boyd sing "A Bushel and A Peck."

Waiting for his next cue, theatrical lighting specialist Bob deRosset operates one of the spotlights on the balcony.

Gambling in the sewer in order to get his chronies to go to church, Sky Masterson (Robert Olmstead) bets Harry the Horse (Bryan Armstrong), Benny Southstreet (Brian Eddy), and Nathan Detroit (Danny Harvell) $1,000 against their souls.

More Than a Football Game

"Team Sponsors," Michelle Knox, escorted by Chad Knox, and Paige Melton, escorted by Skotty Smith, listen to the alma mater after being presented roses by the principal at halftime.

Homecoming activities at CHS included more than a football game this year. The renewed tradition of the motorcade saw the French Club take first place in the float competition with their poster, "Let's French Toast the Panthers."

Under the direction of Ms. Valerie Williams, Ms. Denise Hammett, and Mrs. Jackie Hicks, the halftime ceremony went smoothly as Danny Harvell led the singing of the alma mater and the national anthem.

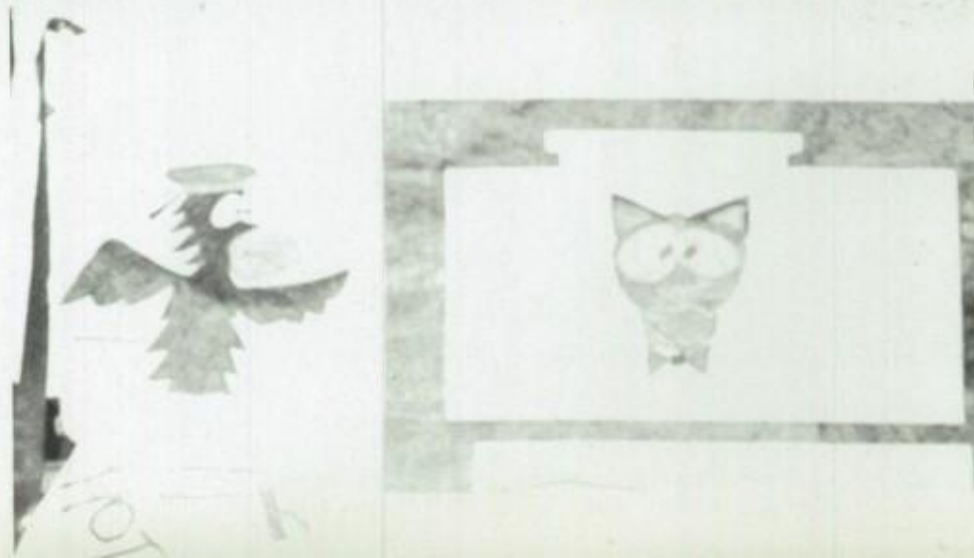

Picked by the team to represent them, Paige Melton and Michelle Knox led the entourage onto the field.

Waving to her family and friends, Caroline McLean marches off the field with her escort, Mark Stanton.

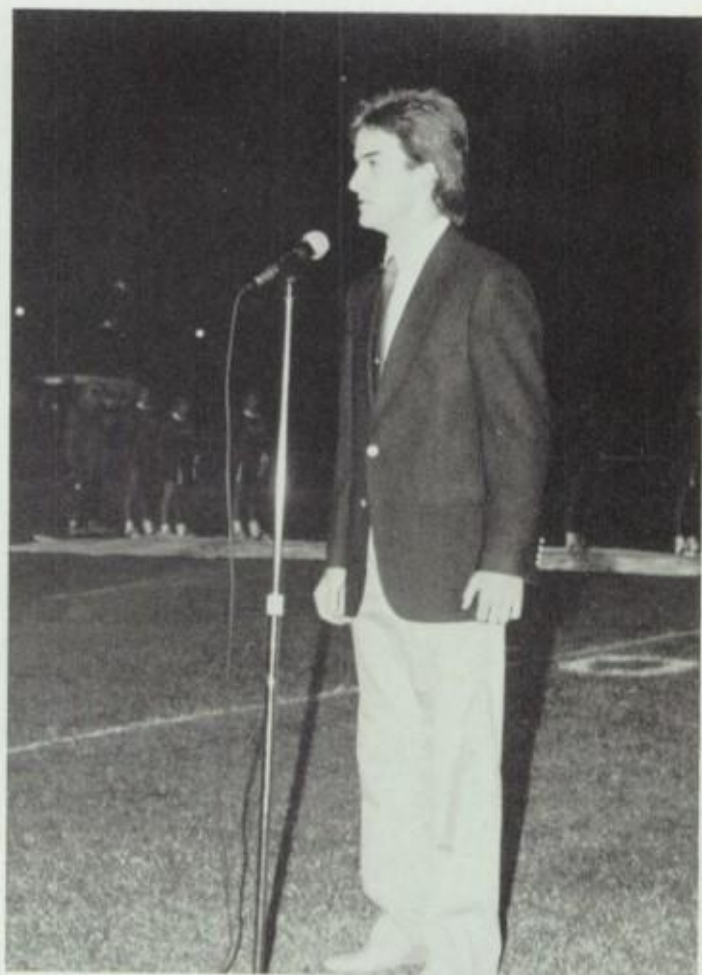

The homecoming court enjoys the football game sitting behind the French Club's winning poster.

Trying to elude a Chapman defender, quarterback Hansil Knox scrambles around the right side in the homecoming loss to the Panthers.

Joining in the festive occasion, Danny Harvell sings the alma mater and the national anthem.

Senior band members Cathy Crisp, Ginny Murphy, Catherine Myrick, and Nicki Nichols are recognized at half-time with a presentation of roses from the senior boys.

Sponsored by Eric Norris and escorted by Mike Duke, Gina Nivens flashes that million-dollar smile.

As the band shows its championship form, Kim Anderson and escort Joe Brown take their position.

To Your Health

Giving CHS students a chance to keep up with developments in the health fields, the 1986 Health Fair hosted many York County organizations.

A full day of education and fun, sponsored by the Bi-Sci-Chem Club, allowed CHS inhabitants to visit the exhibits in the gym during their study halls. Booklets and information sheets were handed out by participating organizations.

Mr. Steve Shillinglaw answers Donna Moses' questions about the Clover Rescue Squad.

Showing interest in York Tech, Angie Gibson, Michelle Carroll, and Shannon Byers watch slides on the school's health curriculum.

Taking charge of the York County Hospice table, Dawn Eastman and Ted Mitchell discuss plans for the rest of the day.

Excitement in the Air

The outstanding senior in agriculture, Billy Stroud, presents FFA adviser, Mr. Russ Carter, with a plaque.

On Awards Day and election days, there is a sense of excitement in the air. Everyone is wondering who will get the awards and who will be elected. Will it be me? Will it be my best friend?

Last minute speech changes, campaign buttons, and political posters add to the urgency of two of the most exciting days of the year.

Accepting the W. Blair Moore Male Athlete Award from Head Coach and Athletic Director Mickey Peake is Dan Love.

Accepting an award for participation in the Biology Merit Exam from Ms. Mary Brown are Catherine Myrick and Rená Dixon.

Dunking his way to the presidency, Matt Maxwell works the crowd as the other candidates wait nervously before his big "stuff shot."

At the inauguration ceremony, Mr. Theodore Pearson installs the new Student Council officers: Mark Stanton, Reporter; Bev Williams, Secretary; Trapp Lewis, Vice-President; Matt Maxwell, President; Shelley Price, Treasurer.

With a look of confidence, Mark Stanton makes his successful bid for Reporter of the Student Council.

Cabarrus Storms PTOB

The two Central Cabarrus drum majors accept the Mayor's Trophy from Clover Mayor Bill White after taking first place in the overall competition.

Central Cabarrus stormed into Clover's Memorial Stadium, blew away the competition, and swept up the Mayor's Cup for overall excellence in the 9th Palmetto Tournament of Bands sponsored by the Clover Band Booster Club.

Central's excellent drums and band front added to its visual superiority to give it the edge over Union, 93.7 to 90.5 points. J.F. Byrnes High School took third place in class I, only .05 of a point behind Union.

Gaffney took first place in Class II, and Athens Drive High of Raleigh, N. C., took first place in Class III band action.

A touch of red added a touch of class to the performance of the Chester High School Marching Band.

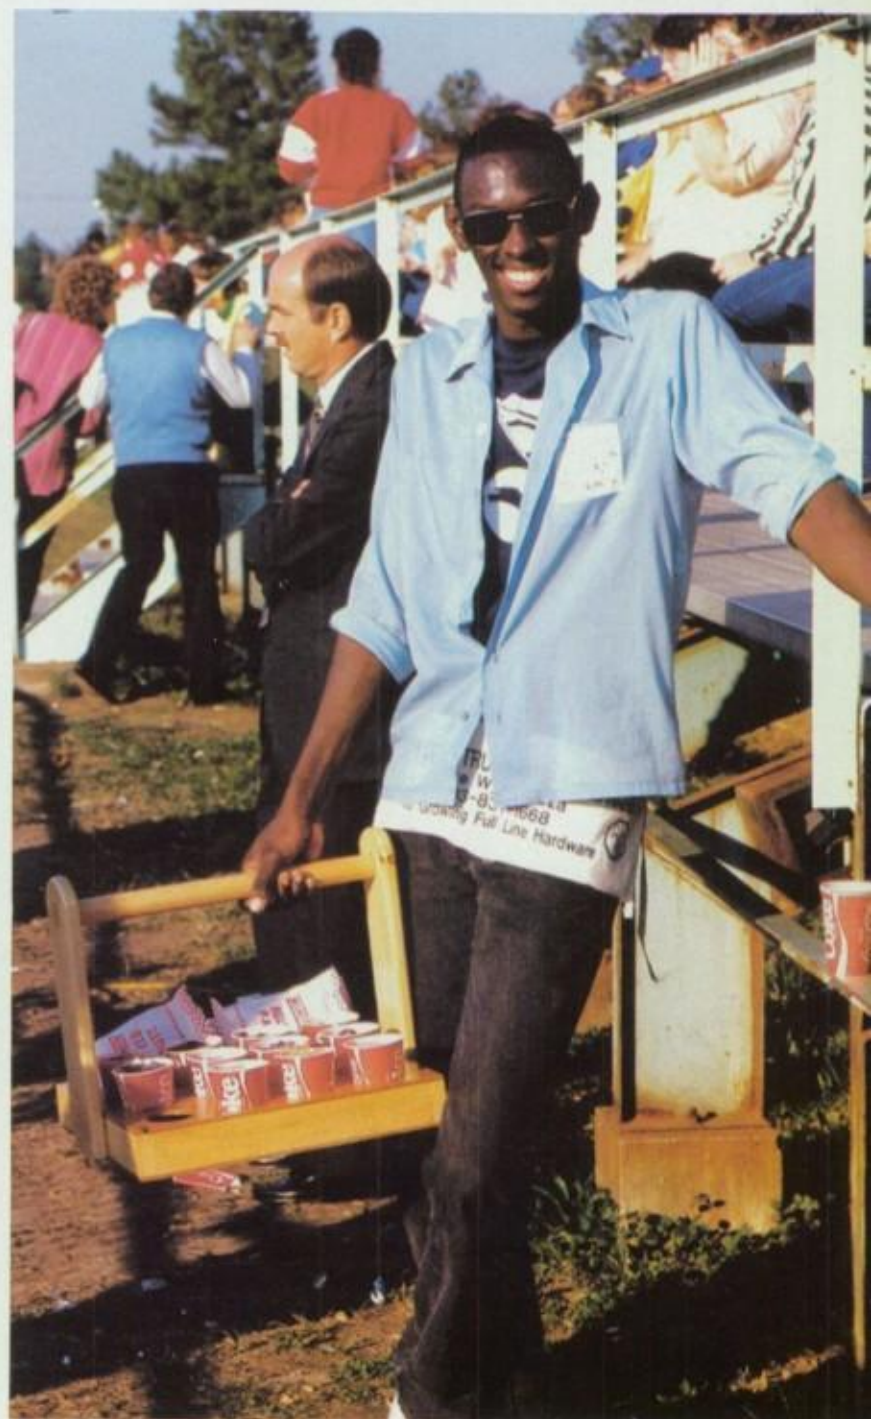

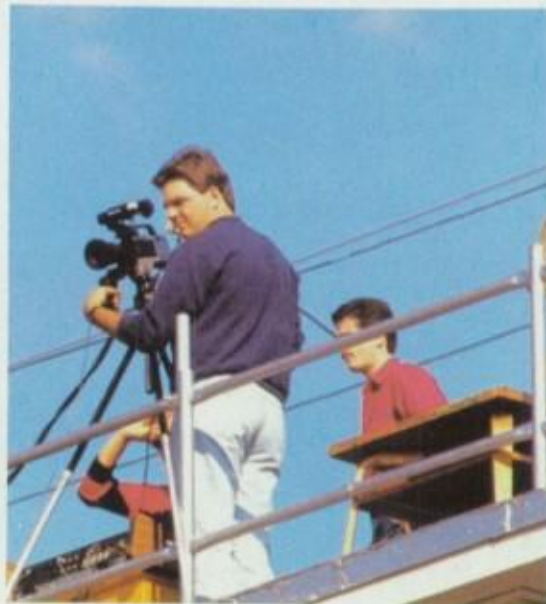

Gopher extraordinaire, Scott Coyne climbs down from the press box after delivering one of the countless messages required for communication between workers and PTOB officials.

Founder of the PTOB, CHS Band Director Ron Wright, speaks with the judges.

A former CHS Band member, Trent Gardner, films the proceedings for posterity.

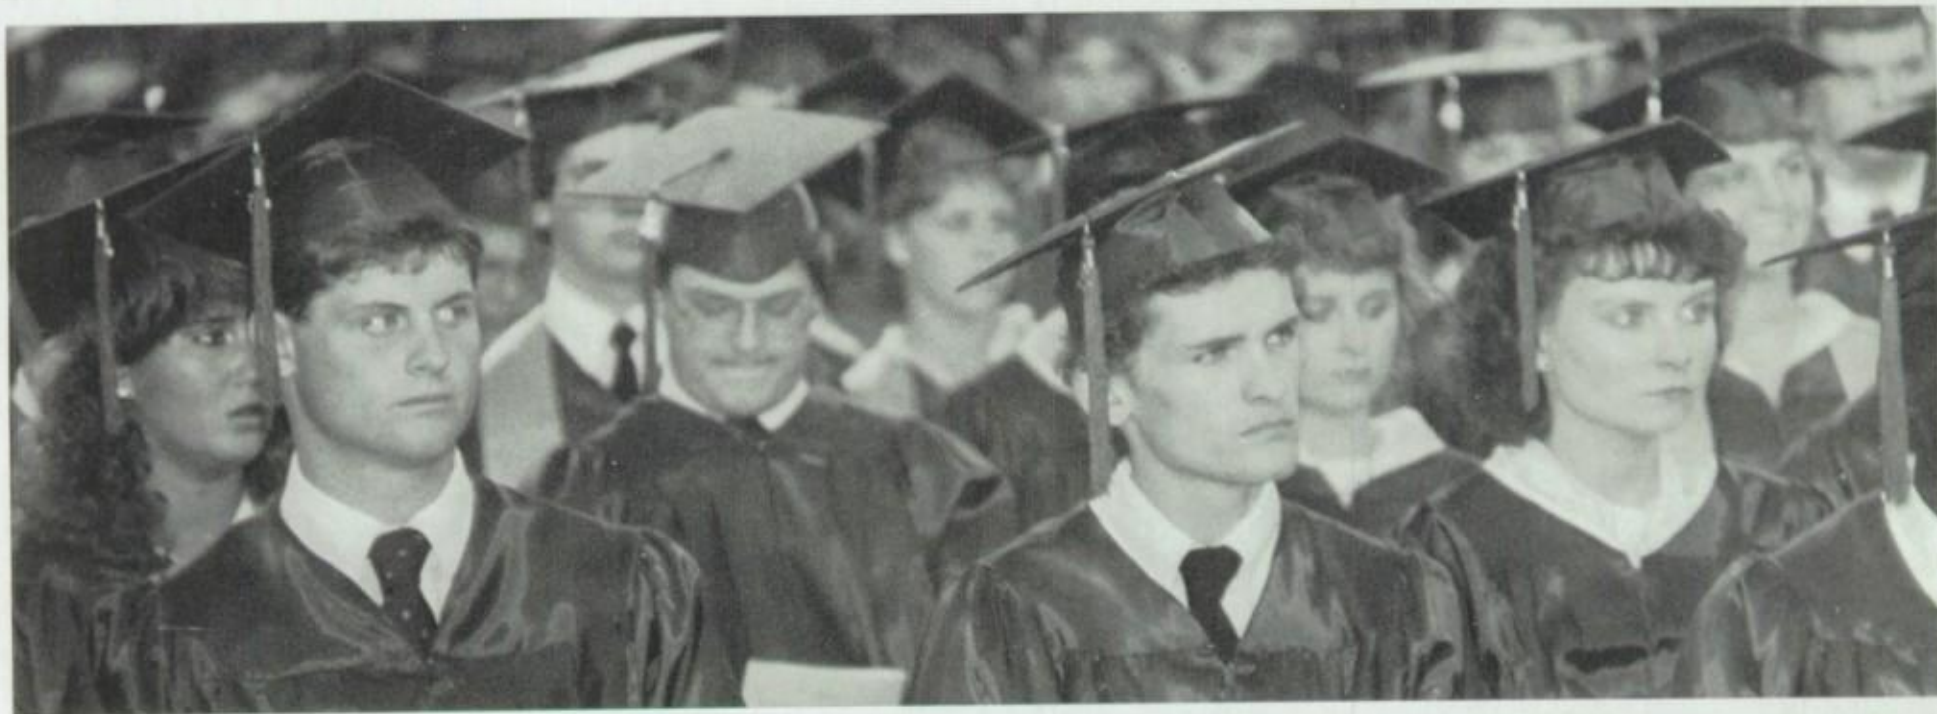

Taking a short break from selling soft drinks, John Lowery takes his turn working in the band rotation.

A percussionist for the Union High School Marching Yellowjackets concentrates on her music.

Singing the class song, "That's What Friends Are For," the voices of Katie Moore, Holly Smith, and Tami Geohagen crack with emotion.

Administrators and guests included: Mr. Mason D. Davison, Superintendent; Mr. Pat Harvey, Clover School Board; Rev. Gene Jester, River Hills Community Church; Rev. Calvin Draffin, Clover ARP Church; Mrs. Janice Harding, Vocational Coordinator; Mr. Paul Pratt, CHS Assistant Principal; Mr. Ashley Hinson, CHS Assistant Principal, and Mr. Theodore Pearson, CHS Principal.

At the front of the line to graduate, Alan Abernathy and Robbie Adams take the proceedings seriously.

Trying to start a senior tradition of his own, Bruce Bridges snuggles up to the closest pretty face (Ginny Murphy) during practice.

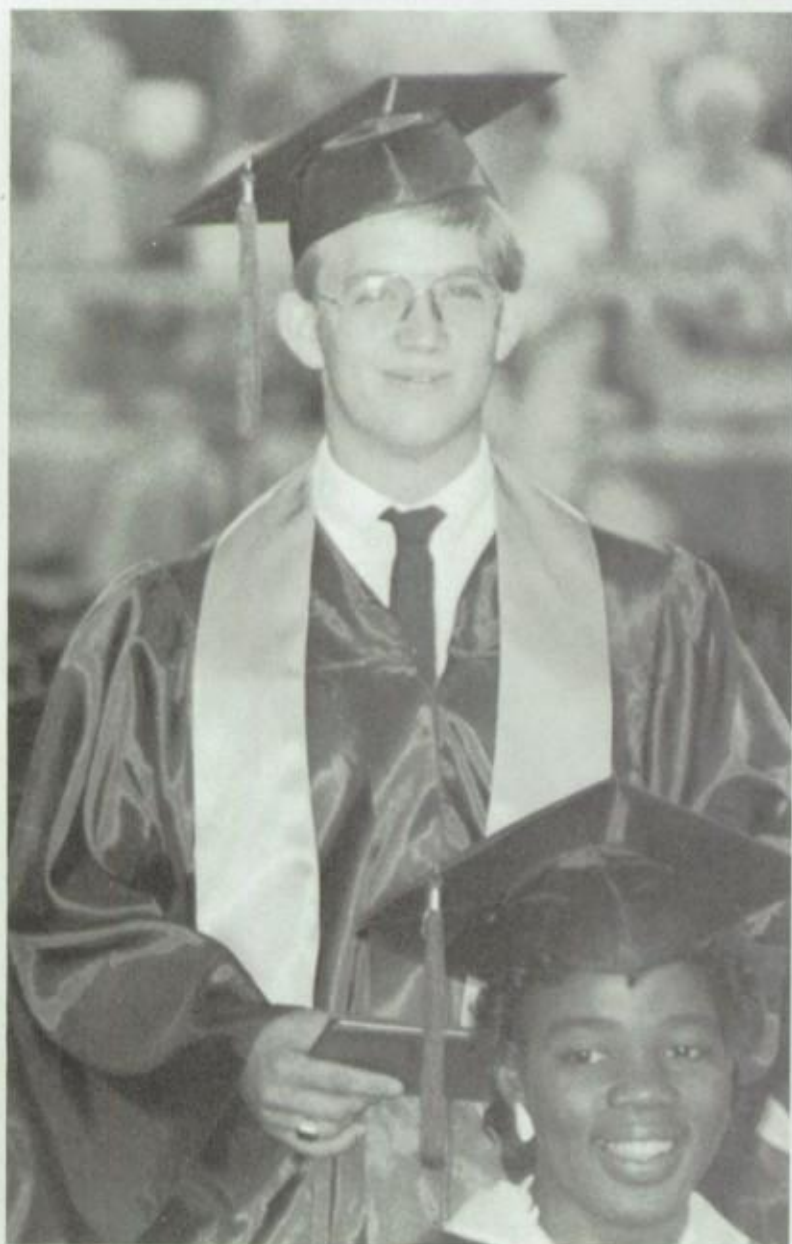

Leaving the Nest

Challenging her classmates to look forward to the future, Valedictorian Susan Bell speaks.

Recognizing fallen comrades and fighting off an onslaught of zealous photographers, 183 seniors graciously accepted their diplomas on June 4, 1986.

Salutatorian Matt Fulton calls upon his classmates to face the harsh realities of years to come.

As one of 27 honor graduates, Jeff Brodmerkel stands to be recognized during the ceremony.

The Bloodletting Continues

Yes, the bloodletting continues. No, it is not Nicaragua nor Beirut but right here at CHS.

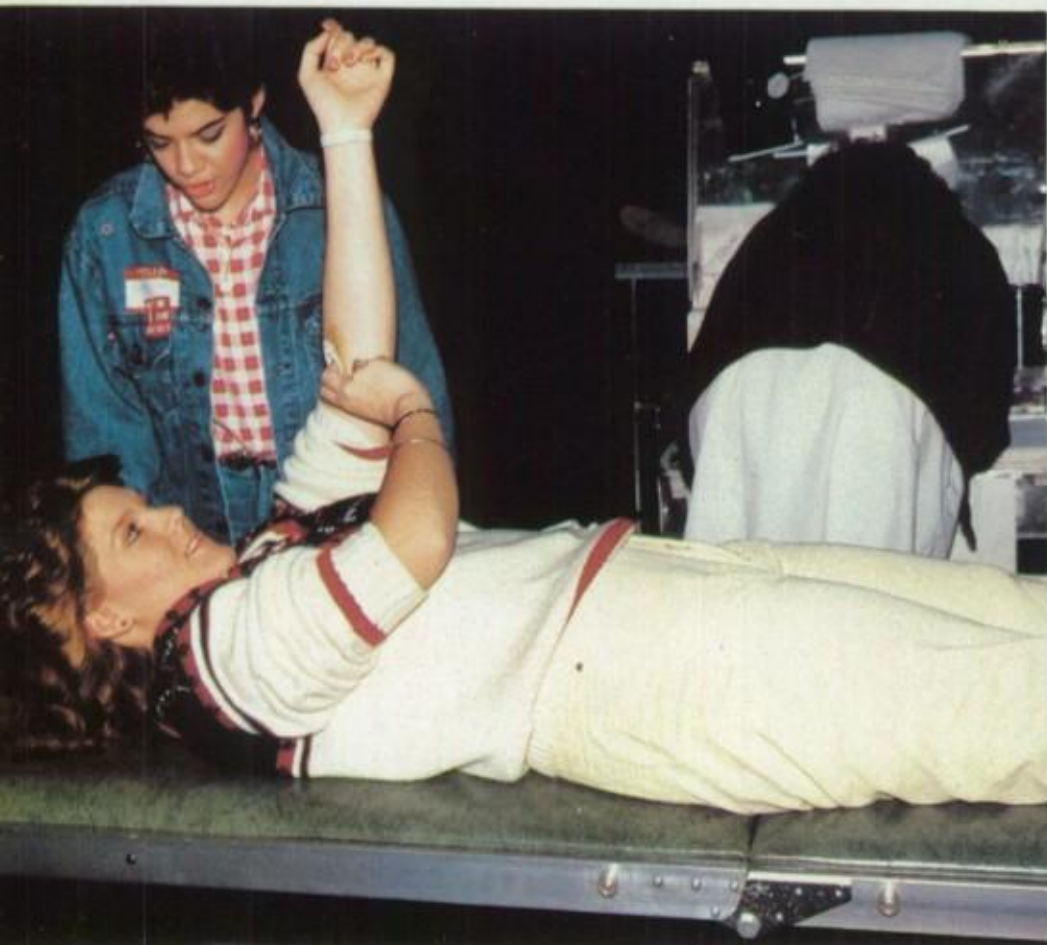

The Student Council Blood

Blood Give-in worker Tommy Jackson watches as Mrs. Dolores Adams has her temperature taken.

About to get stuck, Catherine Myrick appears to react positively to the needle's sting.

Give-in collected a record 79 pints of blood for the Red Cross from students and guests, exceeding its goal.

After completing her donation, Sherry Hall is attended to by Paige Melton, senior class treasurer.

Making blood donation a family affair, Marie and Butch Cartee fill out some of the required paperwork.

From a Red Cross volunteer, Jamie McMackins finds out what that blue stuff is in those tiny vials.

Putting labels on the bags of red stuff, Carter Miller does his bit to help the blood drive.

Concentrating on getting into the rhythm, Frank Young exhibits the nervous anxiety typical of first-time donors.

Serving up the goodies to donors afterwards, Rankin Smith nurses them back to normal.

Assisted by a Red Cross nurse and Mrs. Wendy Bartee, a member of the Clover School Board, Lisa Kitts musters up enough nerve to give blood.

Taking a break during the Palmetto Tournament of the Bands, Mr. Joe Gordon, Assistant Superintendent, is glad that this is one time a school desk is found where it should not be.

Planners Have

Socializing at the prom, Mr. Bobby Smith, District Accountant, speaks with chaperones, Mrs. Susan Wright, Mrs. Jane Gilfillan, and Mrs. Julia Turner.

Good planning means that administrators are not forced into situations where they have to "wing it." Clover students are fortunate to have leaders who set and follow goals.

Holding an informal conference, CHS Principal Theodore Pearson and Clover Superintendent Mason D. Davison stop for a quick chat after an assembly program.

While Julie Wilson fills out some forms, Mr. Ashley Hinson, Assistant Principal, checks some paperwork at registration.

The Heartbeat of America

Ready for Halloween, Mrs. Pat Ballard, CHS nurse, gets ready for another busy day.

With apologies to Chevrolet, we hereby nominate the high school office as the "heartbeat of America."

Taking the brunt of student activity, Mrs. Peggy Burton holds down the front desk.

Checking shot records, Mrs. Pam Glenn, nurse, keeps students up to date.

During spirit week Mrs. Frankie Walker and Mrs. Yvonne Patton count lunch tickets.

At registration Mrs. Maxine Black and Mrs. Elizabeth Killian discuss a problem.

Not able to escape doing his own typing, Mr. Ron Grant, CHS Guidance Counselor, slaves away on the selectric.

Taking a break from her usual mountain of paperwork, Mrs. Nina James, CHS Guidance Counselor, has her official portrait made.

Guidance Department Secretary, Mrs. Ada Pursley, and Mrs. Maxine Black, Secretary to the Principal, work at registration.

Helping out in the guidance department, office helper Michelle Knox looks up some information from some old student records.

Answering Mr. Grant's call for help with some typing, Sherry Hall hovers over the home keys.

Dishing It Out

Stowing materials at the end of the day is Mrs. Louise Berry's job.

A smile helps Mrs. Lillian Shipton do the daily chore of wrapping the eating utensils.

Planning meals and cooking for over 1000 hungry mouths every day is no picnic!

But when it comes to fixing school lunches Mrs. Peggy Bolin and her crew can really dish it out. Most of us would absolutely croak if we had to go a whole week without some of their special pizza.

Ready to use the meat slicer, Mrs. Sarah Phillips speaks to a co-worker.

Carefully pouring a pitcher of tea, Mrs. Geraldine Wyatt makes sure the teachers do not run out of liquid refreshment.

CHS Dietician, Mrs. Peggy Bolin, decides whether CHS inhabitants might like fruit cocktail today.

Cleaning It Up

Cleaning a school which increased its size by almost one-third is no problem for Super Charlie Campbell and the super crew.

Super vacuuming is Mr. Neal Hall. CHS students thank all custodians for caring.

Having fun with some props at the magic shop are Elliott Blackwell, most talented; Rena Dixon, most likely to succeed and most intellectual; and John Wilson, most intellectual.

Talent plus intellect plus hard work equal success. This was the formula which typified the high school careers of Elliott Blackwell, Rena Dixon, and John Wilson.

Elliott's cartoons have appeared in the Cloverleaf, "The Eagle," and the Charlotte Observer. He performed in puppet shows using Muppet-like creatures which he created. After majoring in graphic arts in college, Elliott hopes to become the next Walt Disney.

Rena has been Editor-in-Chief of CHS' newspaper and yearbook. Academic honors for Rena include National Honor Society, Bi-Sci-Chem, French Club, Mu Alpha Theta, and the Winthrop Challenge team. A Governor's Scholar, Rena hopes to attend Harvard and major in molecular biology.

John's club activities included Mu Alpha Theta, Bi-Sci-Chem, Spanish Club, and the National Honor Society. He was a member of the track team throughout his high school years. John plans to attend M.I.T. and major in aerospace engineering.

For Michelle Knox and Keith McClure the 3:00 bell signaled not the end of the day, but the beginning of the second phase of their school day. Both were very involved in after school activities.

Michelle played basketball, softball, volleyball, and ran track to earn membership in the Athletic Block "C". She was elected to the student council and served as a junior and senior class officer. For two years, Michelle has been a school bus driver. She plans to attend college.

Keith has been an outstanding athlete throughout his high school years. He was on the football and basketball teams for four years. In his sophomore and junior years, Keith also played on the basketball team. He hopes to continue his pursuit of athletic excellence in college.

Just "winging it" are Michelle Knox, most dependable; and Keith McClure, most athletic.

Action Set

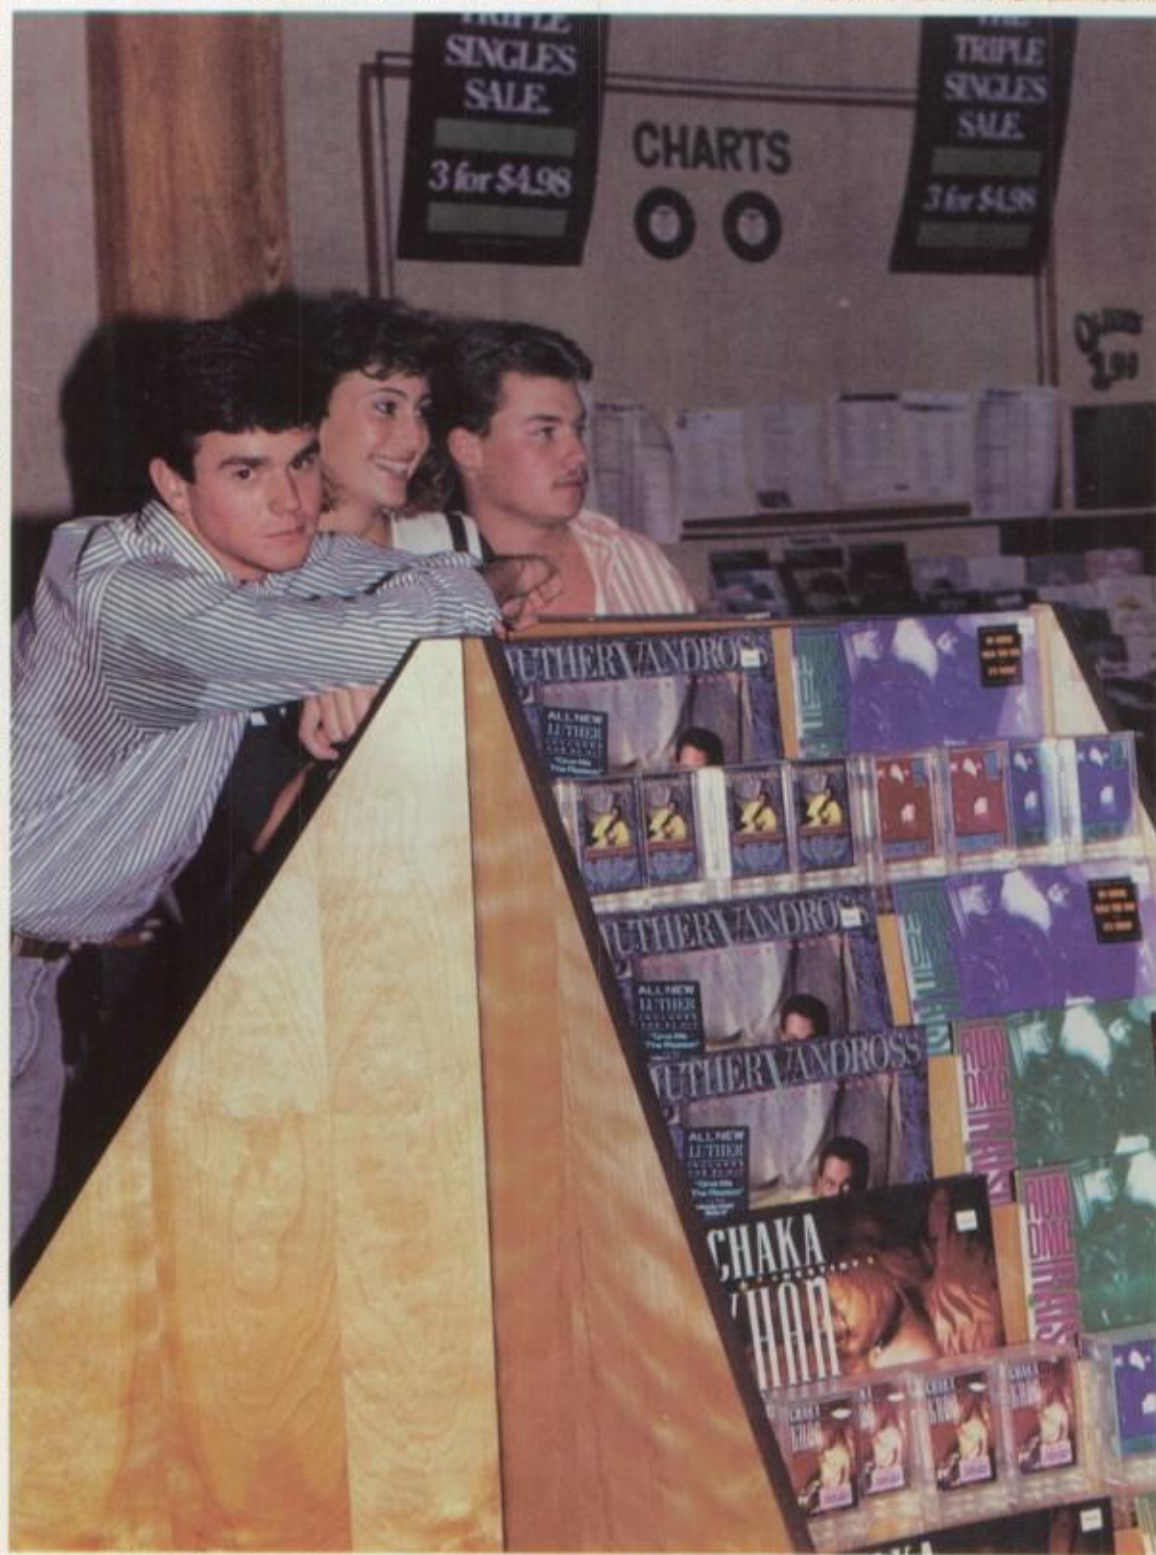

Anyone who wanted to go where the action was would have been wise to look for Skotty Smith, Kara Anderson, or Stan Johnson. It would not be dull or quiet for long if one of them were on the scene!

Skotty earned his Athletic Block "C" by being on the tennis team for four years. He was elected president of Mu Alpha Theta and was also a member of the National Honor Society.

Kara was chosen captain of the cheerleaders her senior year after being a member of the squad throughout her high school years. She was elected vice-president of her freshman class and president of her junior and senior classes. Kara was also a member of the student council and the French club. She plans to attend college, majoring in elementary education.

Stan was a member of the National Honor Society and the French club. He served as a Junior Marshall. Stan plans to attend college to prepare for a career in business.

Skotty Smith, best looking, does not appear very happy to have his picture taken while Kara Anderson, most school spirited and most talkative, and Stan Johnson, most school-spirited, find something off-camera rather amusing.

Taking time out of their busy schedules to have their picture taken are Bill Turpin, most talkative; Joy Davis, most talented and most athletic; and Steve Barber, most likely to succeed and best all-around.

Sports! Bill Turpin, Joy Davis, and Steve Barber were involved in Eagle teams from kick-off time in the fall until the last strikeout of the spring. The qualities this trio acquired on the playing fields were carried over in their other school activities.

Bill earned letters in tennis, football, and basketball. While serving as a junior class Vice-president, he helped organize the 1986 Junior-Senior Prom. He was elected Vice-president of Mu Alpha Theta. Bill plans to attend Clemson.

Joy has been an outstanding member of the basketball, softball, and volleyball teams. Her sports achievements earned her membership in Athletic Block "C" for four years. Joy hopes to remain an active participant in sports in college.

Steve was a standout in the classroom as well as on the playing field. He was Vice-president of the National Honor Society and President of the Spanish Club. He earned letters in soccer and football. Steve hopes to attend Dartmouth.

Academics, sports, music, politics. Roger Good, Paige Melton, and Bryan Bell each participated in a wide-ranging variety of activities during their CHS years.

Roger was a four-year member of the Winthrop Challenge team. He also belonged to Mu Alpha Theta, Bi-Sci-Chem, National Honor Society, and French Club. During his freshman and sophomore years, Roger was on the track team and in the band. The Citadel has recognized Roger's outstanding high school record by awarding him a full scholarship.

Paige's leadership ability and popularity proved to be a winning combination for school politics. She was also a four-year member of the Athletic Block "C" and a varsity cheerleader. Bi-Sci-Chem, Spanish Club, and the National Honor Society were a few of her academic achievements. Paige plans to attend college and major in business.

Bryan has earned membership in both Music Block "C" and Athletic Block "C". He participated in the school play as well as the choral ensemble. Football and track were Bryan's sports. He was elected vice-president of his freshman and sophomore classes. Bryan intends to major in architecture at Clemson.

Friends Forever

Lisa Wine
Tammie Wright

True friends, Kara Anderson and Chris Africano, are all smiles as they recall all the memories they shared while at Clover High.

What can be said about the people one has spent one's entire life with? Coming from a small town, everyone knows everyone else. School chums become more than just friends. They become almost family. The Class of '87 was no exception to this rule. We laughed, cried, and winged it through two semesters of Pam Winders together. Being eighteen and invincible was tough for every senior. We were always there for each other, however.

A close friend once said that having friends was the most important thing in her life. This sounded rather absurd at the time because I felt that being successful in life was much more important. Popularity was fickle and placed far down on my list of priorities. Then, I realized that popularity was not what my friend was talking about. She was referring to true friends. She meant the people whom you tell your most hidden secrets to with no fear of the truth spreading into rumors; the people who tell you what a great job you did when no one else bothered to notice; and the people who, above all others, really care. She meant true friends, the ones who are forever.

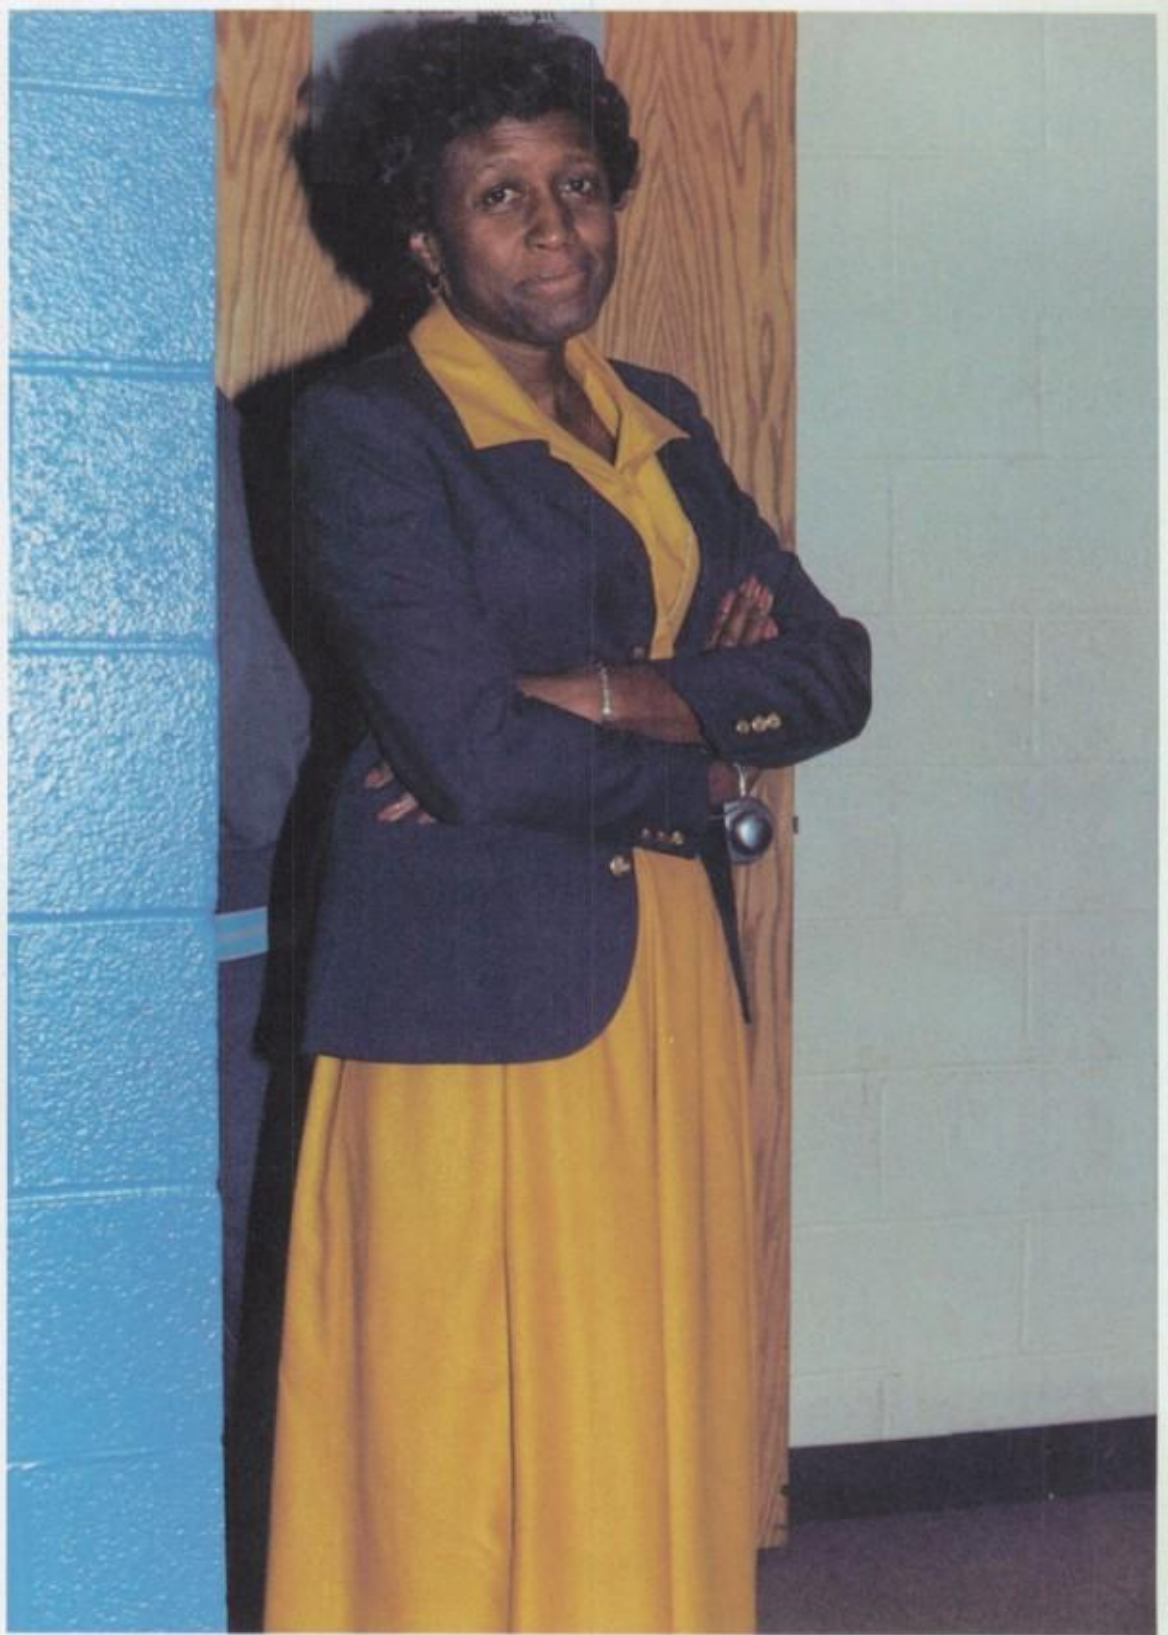

The Class of '87 had its share of leaders, scientists, athletes, builders, politicians, philosophers, and comedians. We managed to wing it through the new building with ease and to lead the underclassmen well. We have contributed both our minds and our bodies to Clover High for four years. Now, at the end of our beginning, we take only two things from our alma mater . . . our knowledge and our true friends . . . as we wing it into the future. (Rena Dixon)

Because she's so nice

After thousands of hours teaching math and working with the Math Team and the Mu Alpha Theta, a certain math teacher is held in the greatest esteem by her students. A quiet confidence her greatest asset, the serious teacher inside her patiently assists students who deserve much less at times and who could earn no better than her confidence and respect. The Class of '87 proudly dedicates this edition of The Eagle to Miss Ernestine Wright because she's such a great teacher. And because she's so nice.

Smiling faintly at the end of another exciting day, Miss Ernestine Wright makes herself available to students needing extra help.

Greeting a parent at an open house, Miss Wright breaks the news gently about grades, misbehavior, and other student problems.

Along with co-advisor, Mrs. Sarah Burrell, Miss Wright listens during the election of Mu Alpha Theta officers.

Meanwhile back in class, Miss Wright puts some oldies but goodies on the board in geometry.

Guess who's in the army now? Would you believe Nort Pendergrass, Homeroom 11-G?

A tear falls from the eye of Cathy Crisp as Sam Sourrier presents band awards to her, Gin Murphy, Kate Murick.

Too busy to show for picture taking, Scott Mackle got this one made on his own.

Waiting on the homecoming festivities to start, Paige Melton and Skotty Smith appear relaxed.

Disquise? What Disquise?

Spirit week gave everyone — including the supposedly "sophisticated" seniors — an opportunity to relax and let the old hair down. After all, nobody but nobody outdoes a high school senior when it comes to having fun.

Disguised as a beach bum, Josh Gross takes a break from the heat.

Not too happy about the present assignment, Laura Hall gives a very distressed look before starting to work.

Obviously not using the library for its intended purposes, Eric Norris and Frank Davis discuss the details of last weekend's party with Gina Nivens.

Dwayne Gettys begs for some cash on bum day during spirit week.

Grinning from ear to ear Wayne Bolin readily displays his finest 20's outfit.

"... And goodnight Mrs. Calabash wherever you are," replies Scott Bozeman as the lunch bell rings.

John Wilson helps prepare the drinks for the rowdy new Bi-Sci-Chem members.

Showing their school spirit by entering a decorated truck in the homecoming motorcade are FHA members, Donya Beasley, Tonya Chariker, Mrs. Joy Melton, Mrs. Louise Rhyme, Buffy Lowery, Mandy Nivens, Alfreda Robinson, Tonya Sanders, and Sherry Johnson.

Wingin' Our

Many Clover High students prolonged doing their homework in order to wing their way into a varied array of clubs. Clover High had organizations to fit everyone's abilities. Participation in clubs went up even though no new clubs were formed.

Clover stayed with its three categories of clubs: academic, fine arts, and vocational. Academic clubs included Bi-Sci-Chem, Student Council, Chess Club, NHS, Math Team, Mu Alpha Theta, Delphi Brotherhood, French Club, and Spanish Club. Fine arts clubs were listed as newspaper staff, yearbook staff, band, and chorus. Lastly, vocational clubs consisted of FFA, FHA, and Auto Mechanics Club.

Clover High's organizations accomplished a lot this year and represented our school only too well.

Patently waiting to be judged, Rahaleh Nasri and Teresa Evans prepare to face the ultimate showing of humility, the Bi-Sci-Chem initiation.

Stretching to grasp an uncut limb, Jon Kale is used to working hard for his favorite club, FFA.

Mr. "Smiles" himself, Matt Maxwell, performs his duties as chef during French Club initiation by showing the proper way to dispose of trash.

Way Through

The school is always decorated with the Student Council's handiwork. Members dressed a Christmas tree to display in the commons and sponsored a door decorating contest in which everyone got a chance to participate.

The 1986-87 members of the FFA spent a lot of long hours doing their daily duties as members of the club. They had to feed the livestock and keep the grounds of Clover High neat.

In addition to their daily duties, the FFA sponsored a float in the Clover Parade.

FFA JUNIOR OFFICERS: William Hubbard, Reporter; Garland Veasey, Secretary; Paul Cook, President; Patrick Glenn, Vice-President; Michael Hershman, Treasurer; and Mark Blackmon, Sentinel.

Doing his duty as Sentinel, Brad Falls stands at rest during a FFA meeting.

Charlie Rhyne, Randy Chambers, Michael Humphries, Marvin Stephens, and Mr. Edge concentrate on eating their food from Hardee's.

Working on one of the two new agriculture computers are Jack Huskey and Jamie Bullard.

FFA: Living to Serve

FFA CHAPTER OFFICERS: Andy Chambers, Parliamentarian; Jon Kale, Secretary; Charles Rhyne, President; Jamie McMackins, Vice-President; Michael Humphries, Treasurer; Marvin Stephens, Reporter; and Brad Falls, Sentinel.

Using one of Mr. Clint Boyd's tractors, FFA members participate in an experimental wheat planting project.

Explaining to Beau Calhoun which trees need to be pruned, Mr. Chris Edge points the way.

A familiar sight to most FFA club members, the Heifer Hunter hangs in Mr. Chris Edge's office.

The Float Wins

The French Club was an organization open to any student enrolled in a French class. While devoted to providing a greater enrichment in the French language, the club also helped to strengthen its members' knowledge of the French culture.

The club participated in the Homecoming Parade and received a cash award for the best float. In December the club had their initiation and also went to the Biltmore House.

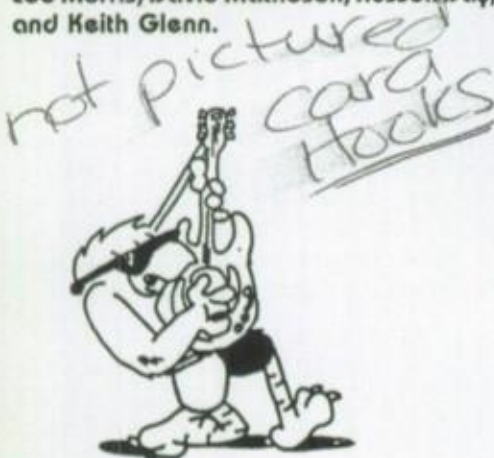

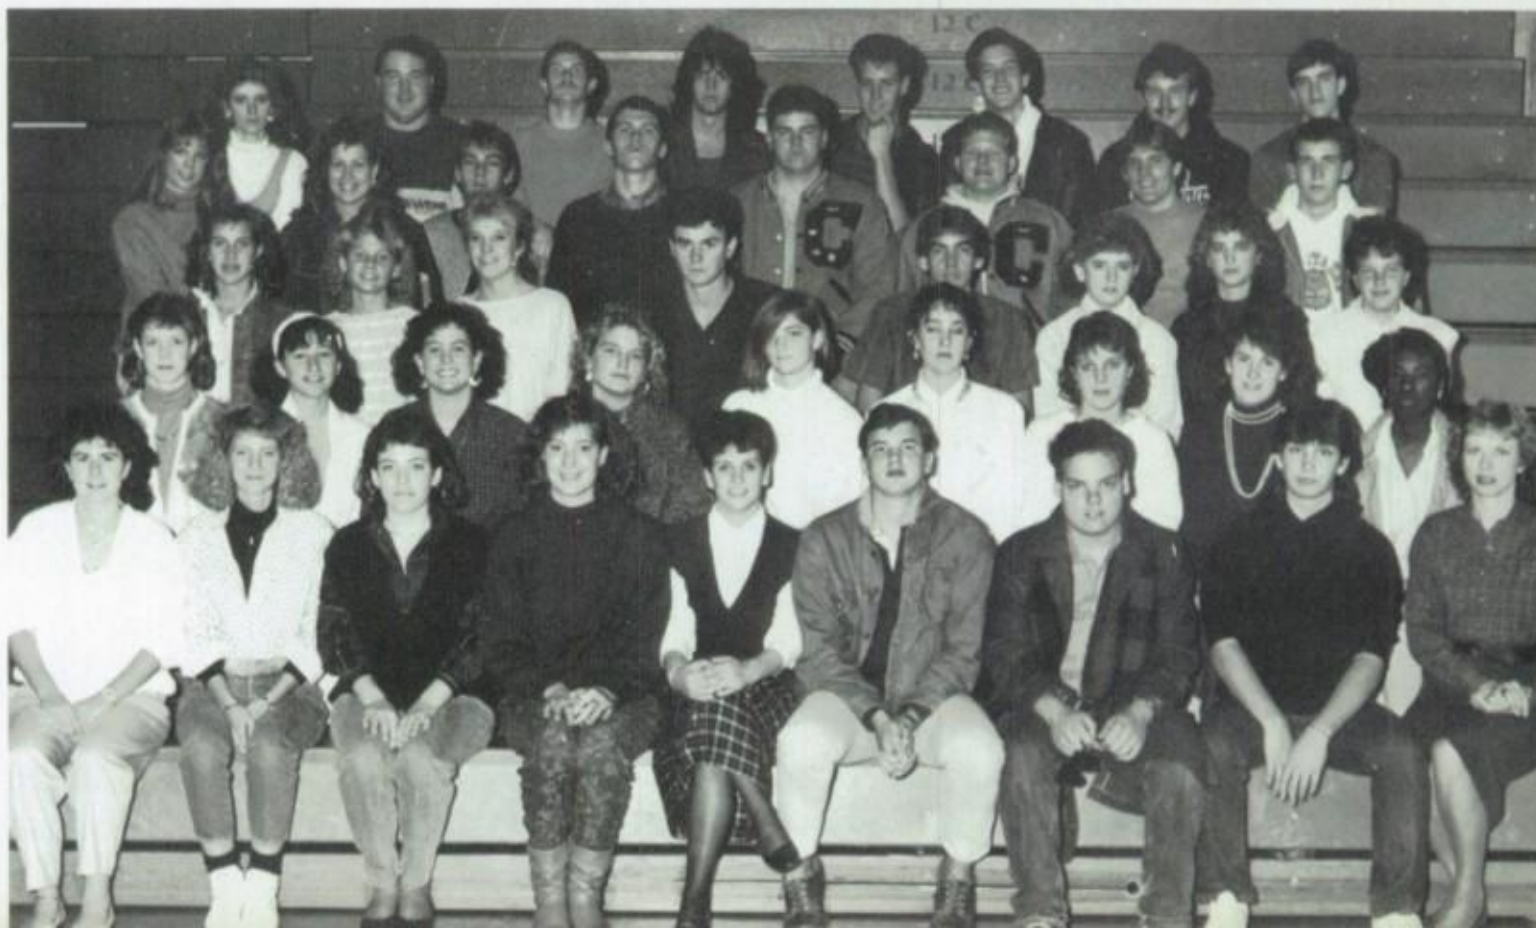

Posing for a picture at the Biltmore House are Roger Good, Kim Bauer, Tammie Wright, Anna Johnson, and Leslie Watts.

Demonstrating their Three Amigos' salute are Bob deRosset, Scott Bozeman, and Charles Hurt.

Picasso Was Here

Last fall the Spanish III class members had the privilege of going to see some of the works of Pablo Picasso. Spanish III and the Spanish Club were both honored by having an exchange student from Mexico, Alejandra Martinez, join them in their activities during the year.

The Spanish Club had its initiation in February in which over 50 new members joined. The club also went to eat at several restaurants in Charlotte. The school year ended with the annual Spanish Club picnic.

Spanish Club Officers: Trapp Lewis, Vice-President; Bryan Armstrong, Reporter; Bill Bartee, President; and Rankin Smith, Secretary/Treasurer.

Auto Mechanics Club Adviser, Mr. Clint Boyd, instructs Allen Robinson and Mike Sanders in the art of computer tire balancing.

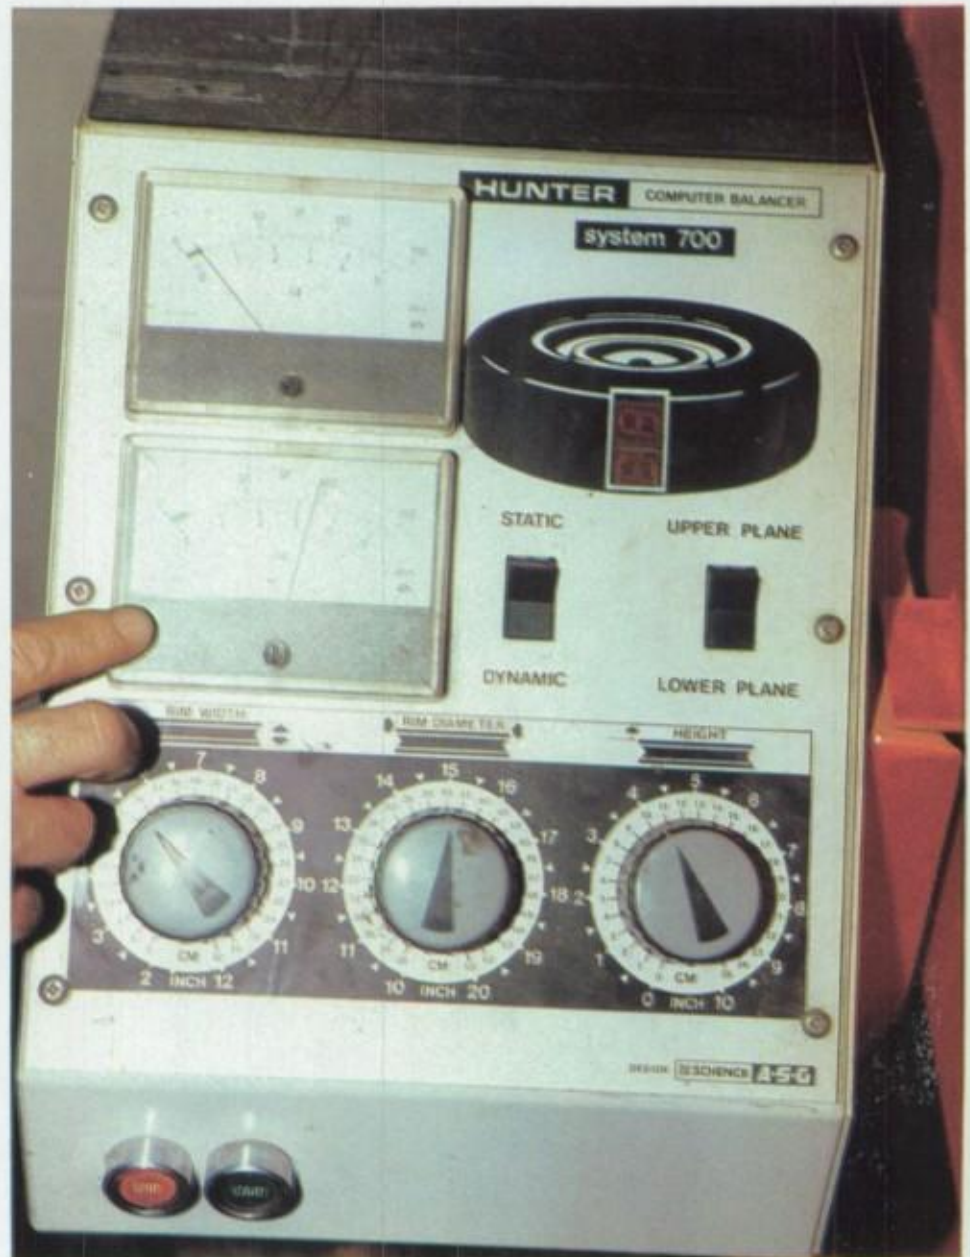

Replacing piston rings is a job every mechanic must tackle sooner or later. Jody Varalli cleans the piston assembly.

Working with the Sun computer tune-up machine, Wayne Bolin, Tracy Bumgardner, and Jimmy Glenn check the tach and dwell on the talking equipment.

Checking out the electrical system, Junior Rogers replaces the distributor wires.

The Hunter Computer Balancer System 700 enables the auto mechanics student to become familiar with the latest front end equipment.

Grease is not a dirty word to a mechanic. "It smells like money to me," says Mr. Clint Boyd.

Master mechanic Zeb Starnes claims he can even fix a Ford.

Working on the old red tractor again, Mark Johnson reaches for a wrench.

Auto Mechanics Club Officers: Zeb Starnes, President; Ronnie Ramey, Vice-president; Tracy Bumgardner, Secretary; Robert Harris, Treasurer; Wayne Bolin, Reporter.

With clenched teeth, Jimmy Mason strains to lift the housing from the speedometer complex.

A Group of Rising Stars

The Drama Club was an organization whose main goal was to promote a greater interest in the dramatic arts. Under the direction of Mrs. Quinn and Mrs. Winders, the club was able to participate in more activities than in the past. Among the activities the club was involved in was a drama workshop at Winthrop College. The group also went to see the play, "My Fair Lady."

Drama Club Officers: Lorrie Hurley, Secretary; Arnie Marr, President; Dylan Strohl, Treasurer; Stephanie Colvin, Vice-President.

Wild About Numbers

Mu Alpha Theta old member Rena Dixon "taps" new member Millicent Whitener into the club on Tap Day.

Mu Alpha Theta Officers: Bill Turpin, Vice-President; Skotty Smith, President; Jennifer Davidson, Treasurer; Kathy Bolin, Secretary.

Mu Alpha Theta: (Front Row) Tosha Friday, Bill Turpin, John Wilson, Roger Good, Amy Mann, Rena Dixon, Mark Stanton, Heather Pasour. (Second Row) Greg Gaskey, Jennifer Davidson, Mark Adams, Angelia Smith, Scott Coyne, Christy Smith, Regina Moore. (Third Row) Julie Black, Daphne Friday, Melissa Payne, Julie Tenney, Lori Blanton, Debbie Simiril, Anna Johnson, Marnie Hamilton. (Back Row) Lani Smith, Rahaleh Nasri, Millicent Whitener, Theron McDaniel, Lisa Wine, Jenny Burrell.

Mu Alpha Theta was an organization devoted to broadening a student's interest in mathematics. To be "tapped" into Mu Alpha Theta, a student must have completed two years of college preparatory math and maintained a 90 or above average in these courses. A student must also be enrolled in a third college preparatory math class. The club attended the Mu Alpha Theta State Convention on March 27 and 28.

The Leaders of Our Tomorrows

Student Council is a group of people interested in our school. These people want to show school spirit by organizing different activities and fundraisers that will involve the whole student body. Dances, spirit week, and the bloodmobile are excellent examples of these Student Council sponsored activities. The enthusiasm of these 25 students has made Clover High School a fun place for learning.

86-87 Student Council: Mark Stanton, Matthew Maxwell, Trapp Lewis, Bev Williams, Shelley Price. (Second Row) Kara Anderson, Julie Wilson, Tiffany Armstrong, Susan Moore, Stephanie Shand, Heather Pasour, Michelle Camp, Lani Smith, Stephanie Stanton, Stephen Enright. (Back Row) Cheri Douglas, Shantel Walker, Paige Melton, Rankin Smith, Libby Jones, Stephanie Dover, Kim Anderson, Carter Miller, and Tommy Jackson.

86-87 Student Council Officers: Shelley Price, Treasurer; Matthew Maxwell, President; Bev Williams, Secretary; Trapp Lewis, Vice-president. Mark Stanton, Reporter, was absent when this picture was taken. One activity the Student Council organized for the first time this year was the Christmas door decorating contest. Here the Executive Committee stands with Homeroom 10-A's prizewinner.

Belonging to Homeroom 9-D, Room 209, Mr. Butch Windell's message is noteworthy.

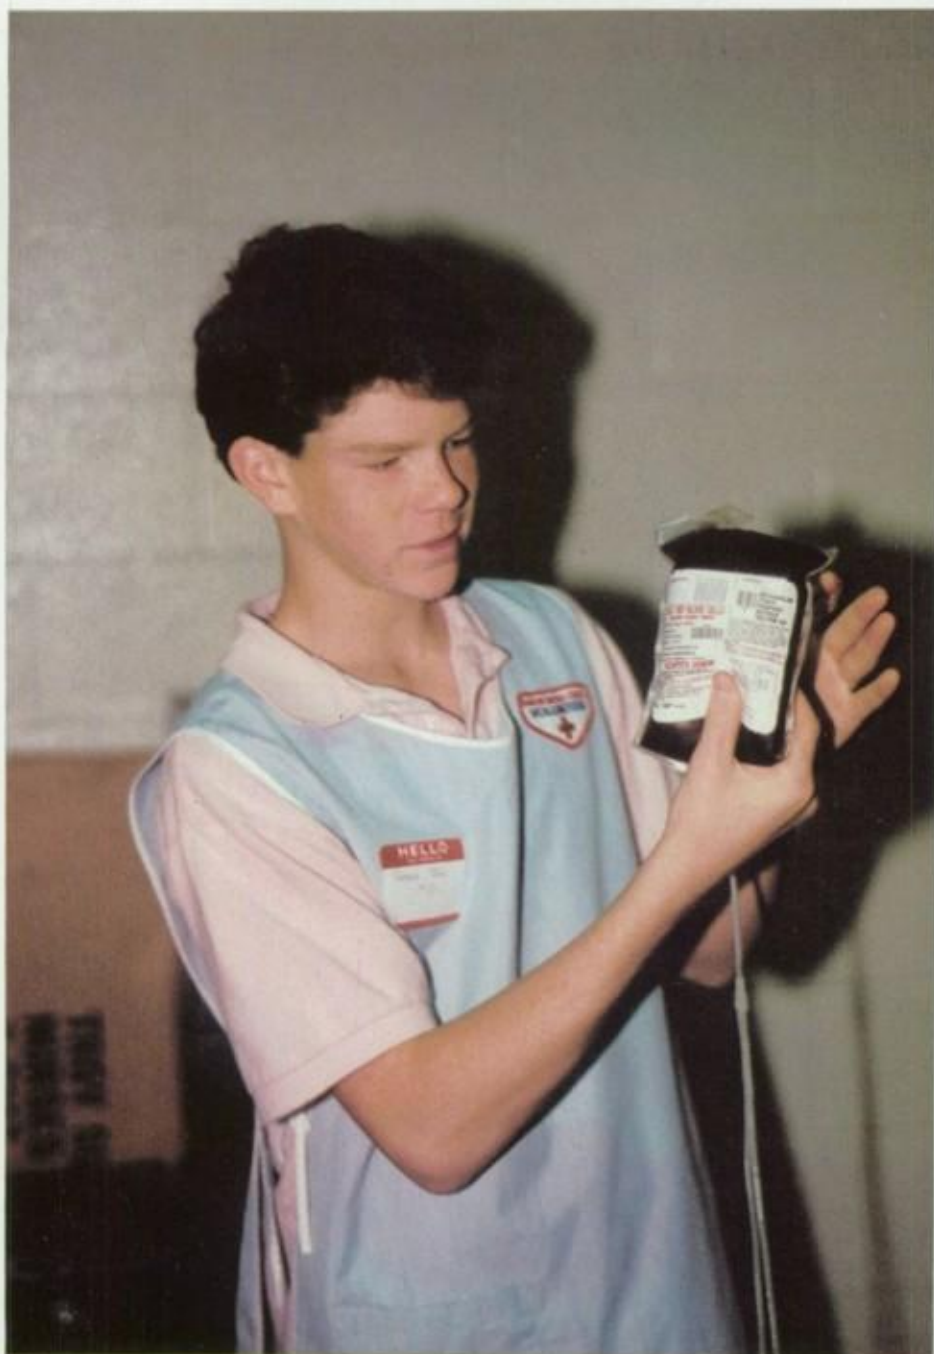

Homeroom 11-B, Mrs. Leigh Alexander's room 211, came up with a Disney Christmas.

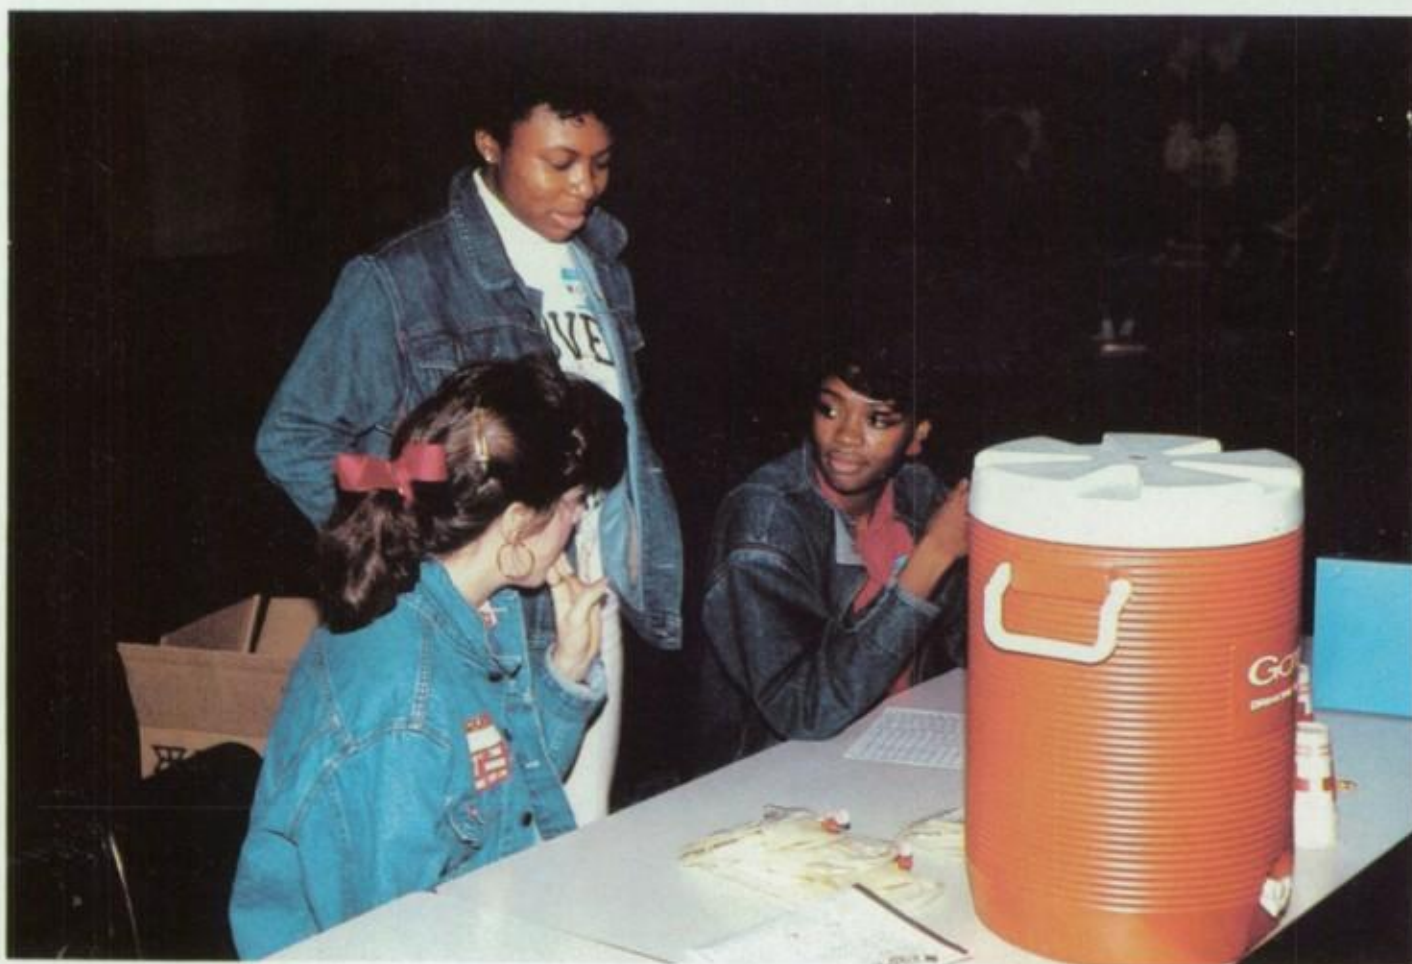

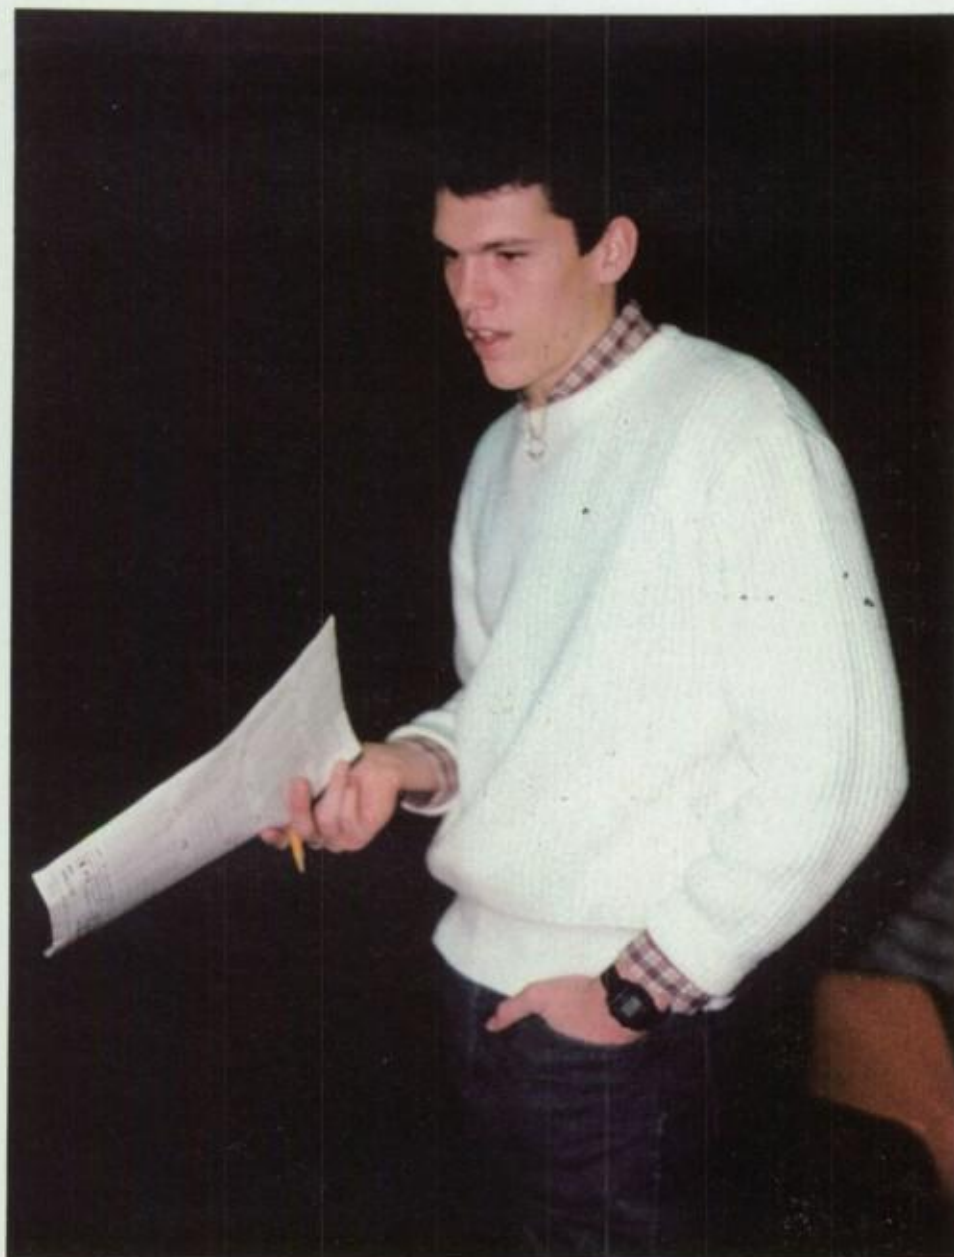

Last year the Student Council reinstated the tradition of the school Christmas tree. It became a schoolwide project, with FFA putting the tree in the stand, the art classes decorating it, and everyone admiring it.

Labelling bags of blood at the bloodmobile, Trapp Lewis works hard to do his part in securing over 75 pints.

As President of the Student Council, Matthew Maxwell provides the leadership needed to accomplish major goals.

The Student Council thanks everyone for making the door contest such a great success.

Working at a bloodmobile station, Paige Melton, Michelle Knox, and Kim Anderson confer.

Of course, the library always has great bulletin boards no matter what the reason or the season. This year is certainly no exception.

The Book Keepers

Pulling a television out of the audio-visual room, Marty Roberson is off to deliver it to a classroom.

Helping students find the books they were looking for was not the only job the library workers had this year. Under the guidance of Mrs. Nancy Ray and Mrs. Helen Barnes, the workers hustled.

Helping out at the desk, Angie Gossett checks books in and out with a smile. Angie appears to be in especially good form today.

Each of the 15 members, working one period of the school day, also checked students in and out of the library, warned of overdue books, delivered televisions and movie projectors to classrooms, and returned all books to the shelves. Providing a valuable service to students and teachers alike, the library workers deserve credit for their efforts.

'86-87 Library Workers: (SITTING) Tina Waldrop, Angie Gossett, Denise Boheler. (MIDDLE ROW) Christie Burns, Danell Cain, Jamie Bullard, Cindy Swanger, George Kingman. (BACK ROW) Kim Wiles, Mary White, Billy Ellis, Nicky Asbury, Gary Adams, Tina Walker, and Marty Roberson.

(STANDING ON HOOD) Charles Rhyme, Scott Jackson, Tommy Caldwell, Danny Tate, Scott Tiller, Keith Meares, Billy Ellis, Busty Smith, and Allen Black.

Bus drivers hold a very important job. Many students depend on them for their transportation. Those drivers that show patience, responsibility, and dependability deserve our thanks.

Made up of students with a 90 or above average, the Math Team attended meets at Winthrop, Columbia College, and the College of Charleston this year.

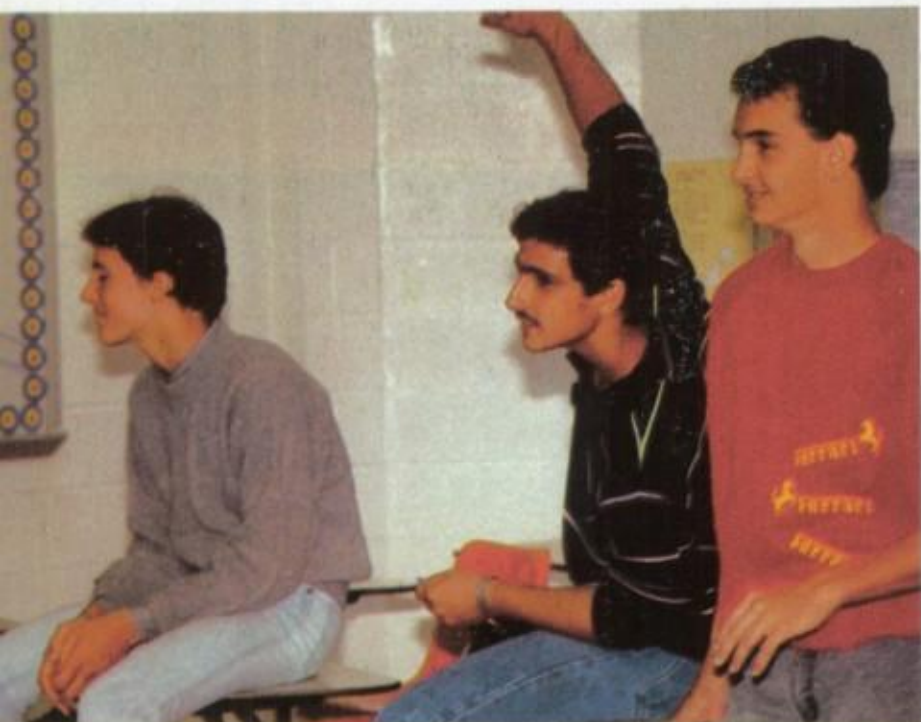

Preparing for the meets under the tutelage of co-advisers, Mrs. Sarah Burrell and Miss Ernestine Wright, the team members attended prep sessions every Monday afternoon.

Making Each Day Count

Forward Movers

Chess Club Officers: Bob deRosset, President; Charles Hurt, Vice-president; and Shantel Walker, Reporter.

Devoted to promoting greater interest in chess, the Chess Club had a record 60 members this year. Members held a chess clinic and a spring tournament under their adviser, Mrs. Dolores Adams.

At an organizational meeting, Chess Club members Bill Davis, Mark Huffstetler, and Charles Hurt make nominations for club officers.

Chess Club: (FRONT ROW) Bill Budnick, Laura Holman, Toni Michaels, Paige Melton, Skotty Smith, Cheri Plemmons, Sharon Shull, Michelle Wray, Bill White. A national organization of home economics students, the FFA teaches leadership skills while focusing on improved relationships.

Commercial Club: (SEATED) Buffie Carle, Linda Morrow, Melinda Merritt, Tammy McCarter. (STANDING) Mrs. Mary Howze, Adviser; Belinda Berryhill, Merlene McCaskill, Kristi Crawford, Bea Rollins, Angie Lamm, and Patricia Miller.

Promoting interest in business oriented careers, the Commercial Club was made up of seniors who maintained a minimum average of 85 in all of their business courses. Through the operation of the pay station and the sale of school supplies, the Commercial Club provided an invaluable service to the school.

Commercial Club Officers: Buffie Carle, President; Merlene McCaskill, Reporter; Linda Morrow, Secretary; Kristi Crawford, Vice-president; Patricia Miller, Treasurer.

The "Wright Stuff"

Graciously accepting the runner-up trophy at the State Marching Band Competition, Cathy Crisp, Donna Moses, Ritchie Brandon, and Ginny Murphy accept the congratulations of a South Carolina Band Directors Association official.

Hustling to set up his drums, Mark Smith gets ready for another performance in front of the home crowd at a football game.

Keeping a close eye on the drum major, Ginger Perkins takes a special pride in her playing.

Giving the number one sign while waiting on state results, Travis Clarke shows weariness.

Wherever it goes, the CHS Band displays the "Wright Stuff," the teachings of its mentor, CHS Band Director, Mr. Ron Wright.

The big thrill of the year came when the band upset the defending state championship band on their home field to become the AAA Upperstate Marching Band Champions. A classy group, the band never failed to rate superior in every competition during the year.

Concentrating on the music, Shane Harvell leads the low brass section.

Victory at Fort Mill

Two members of the Rock Hill High School Band congratulate CHS drum majors Ritchie Brandon and Donna Moses on their impressive showing.

Trying to outguess the judges, Sandra Lane and Becky Jones compare their performance with that of the other bands.

Rigidly standing at attention, Lisa Cogdell prepares to change to a different banner.

With a Touch of Brass

Earning his trip to Disney World, Eddie Cales blasts off into a Magical Kingdom of his own.

With a touch of brass, the band slid onto a sea of mud otherwise known as the Ft. Mill Stadium and took home the Upper State Band Championship.

Through the mud and rain they came prepared to meet the champion on its home field.

With a horns in their faces, flutters in their hearts, and determination in their souls, every member knew that this was the big moment. Then triumph! Delirium! Joy!

Savoring the moment, Lisa Wine enjoys sweet victory!

With trumpets blaring Tommy Jackson and Ginny Murphy toot their way into the CHS Marching Band parade of history.

Rapidly becoming a legend in his own time, Scott Gardner blurts out some boss tuba sounds.

With a final oom-pah, Shane Harvell, Eddie Cales, John Lowery, and Scott Gardner take a bow at the end of another successful competition.

The Famous "Ordeal"

Bi-Sci-Chem is a club for those students who wish to further their science knowledge. Anyone who wants to do so, and has had at least two years of science, is a good candidate for this club. Since Bi-Sci-Chem is a very active club, any prospective member should be willing to actively participate.

This year, a record number of candidates qualified to join the club. These victims dressed up as body parts for the old member's entertainment. Later, at the famous initiation, the new members went through one of the messiest events of their lives while the old members enjoyed watching them squirm.

Forming a human chain to entertain old members are Millicent Whitener, Julie Black, Theron McDaniel, Ginger Gibson, and Tully Gibson.

Waiting anxiously to begin the initiation process are new members Jennifer Gordon, Anna Johnson, and Melissa Payne.

Modeling their Bi-Sci-Chem costumes are body parts Tully Gibson, Troy Thompson, and Lorrie Harris.

Bigger Isn't Always Better

This year's newspaper staff began as the smallest ever. Mrs. Elizabeth Tigler, the new adviser, started the year with only two members. Things picked up, however, and more members joined as the year progressed. None of this year's members had any previous experience at newspaper publishing. The staff planned to publish at least four newspapers this year. They released special editions for both Christmas and Valentine's Day.

1986-87 Newspaper Staff: (FRONT ROW) Tanya Sanders, Cindy Skidmore, Tracey Baucom, Chrystal Michaels, Mrs. Tigler. (BACK ROW) Terry Goins, Sharon Littlejohn, Tosha Friday, and Mark Montgomery.

'Smarts' Run in the Family

GLIDE this year consisted of an honors English class of freshmen and sophomores taught by Mrs. Pat Lowe.

The members hoped to form a club, take field trips, sponsor a May Day booth, and raise money for a scholarship fund.

'86-87 GLIDE: (FRONT ROW) Chris Doggett, Susan Moore, Kim Geohagan, Rahaleh Nasri, Lani Smith, Heather Pasour, Mark Orrill, Theron McDaniel, Mandy Baskin. (ROW 2) Mrs. Pat Lowe, Candace Johnson, Garland Veasey, Kim Bauer, Mornie Hamilton, Bev Williams, Millicent Whitener, Ryan Brennerman, Camie Sherrill. (ROW 3) Allison Brooks, Mark Adams, Keisha Nivens, Ginger Gibson, Robbie Marr, Daphnie Friday, Regina Moore, Rob Richards, Jamie Flynn. (BACK ROW) Julie Black, Anna Johnson, Melissa Payne, Tammy Jones, Jennifer Gordon, Sammy Wray, Greg Babayak, Ralf Seibt, and Phillip Strohl.

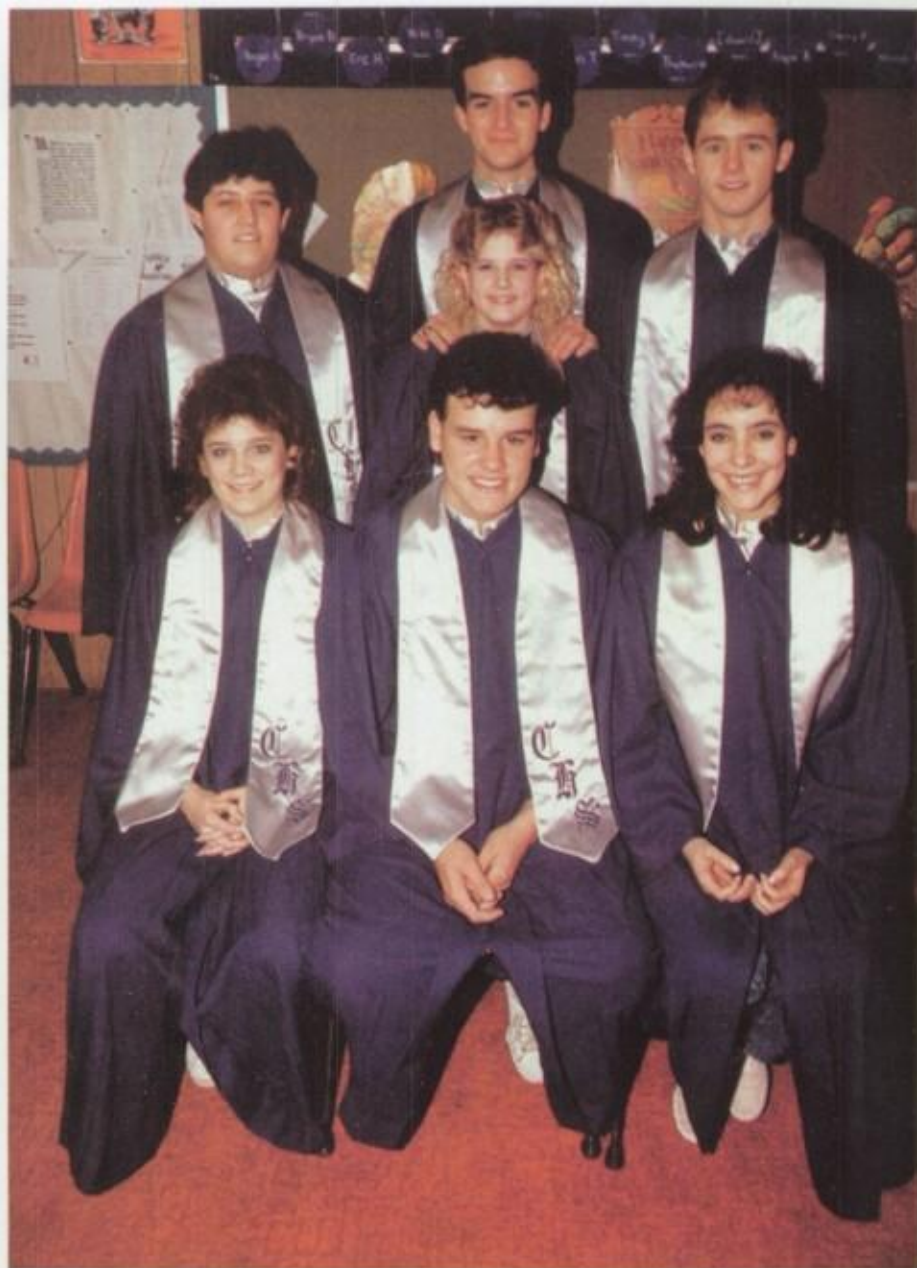

The Winthrop Challenge Team, made up of Mark Stanton, Philip Strohl, Rena Dixon, and John Wilson compete during this year's TV academic broadcast.

Advised by Mrs. Susie McLean, the Delphi Brotherhood selects students to compete with other schools via computer. Winthrop Challenge, the original CHS quiz team, goes head-to-head with other schools in a TV match shown on ETV.

86-87 Choral Ensemble Officers: (SEATED) Jennifer Davidson, Treasurer; Mark Montgomery, Vice-president; Stephanie Colvin, Librarian. (MIDDLE ROW) Danny Duncan, Secretary; Julie Baker, Librarian; Bryan Bell, Historian. (IN BACK) Danny Harvell, President.

Leading the Choral Ensemble during the Christmas Concert, Mrs. Barbara Quinn, Choral Director, also accompanies them on the piano.

Second Period Chorus: (SEATED) Allisan Carter, Martha Bratton, Pam Archer, Cindy Britt, Tammie Thomas, Kathie Ames, Carol Henson. (STANDING) Samuel Phillips, Samuel Turner, Joseph Floyd, Dwayne Gettys, Keith Meares, Cam Duke, Paul Cook, Samuel Lee, and Chad Sams.

Directed by Mrs. Barbara Quinn, the CHS Choral Ensemble participates and entertains at many events during the year. Travelling to such competitions as the South Carolina All-State Choral Auditions and the Solo Ensemble Festival, the group and its teacher have gained a reputation as being one of the best in the state.

Third Period Chorus: Dana Canipe, Tarsha Tate, Cathy Justice, Kristen Blackwell, Denise Lewis, Darla Baker, Sheila Hullett, John Barnett. (STANDING) Tammy Douglas, Tonya Chariker, Deborah Adams, Joseph Matthews, Karen Rowe, Kim Evans, David Taylor, and Brenda Currence.

Emptying trash after waiting on tables at the first-ever Choral Ensemble Christmas Dinner Theater, Arnie Marr switches from football to music with ease.

During the Christmas Dinner Theater, Peggy Martin, Pam Glenn, Candace Johnson, and Libby Rhyne sing "There's No Place Like Home for the Holidays."

Acting out the part of a spoiled brat, Danny Harvell wants to know who told on him as he joins the Choral Ensemble in singing "I'm Getting Nuttin' for Christmas."

Wingin' It Through Vol. 37

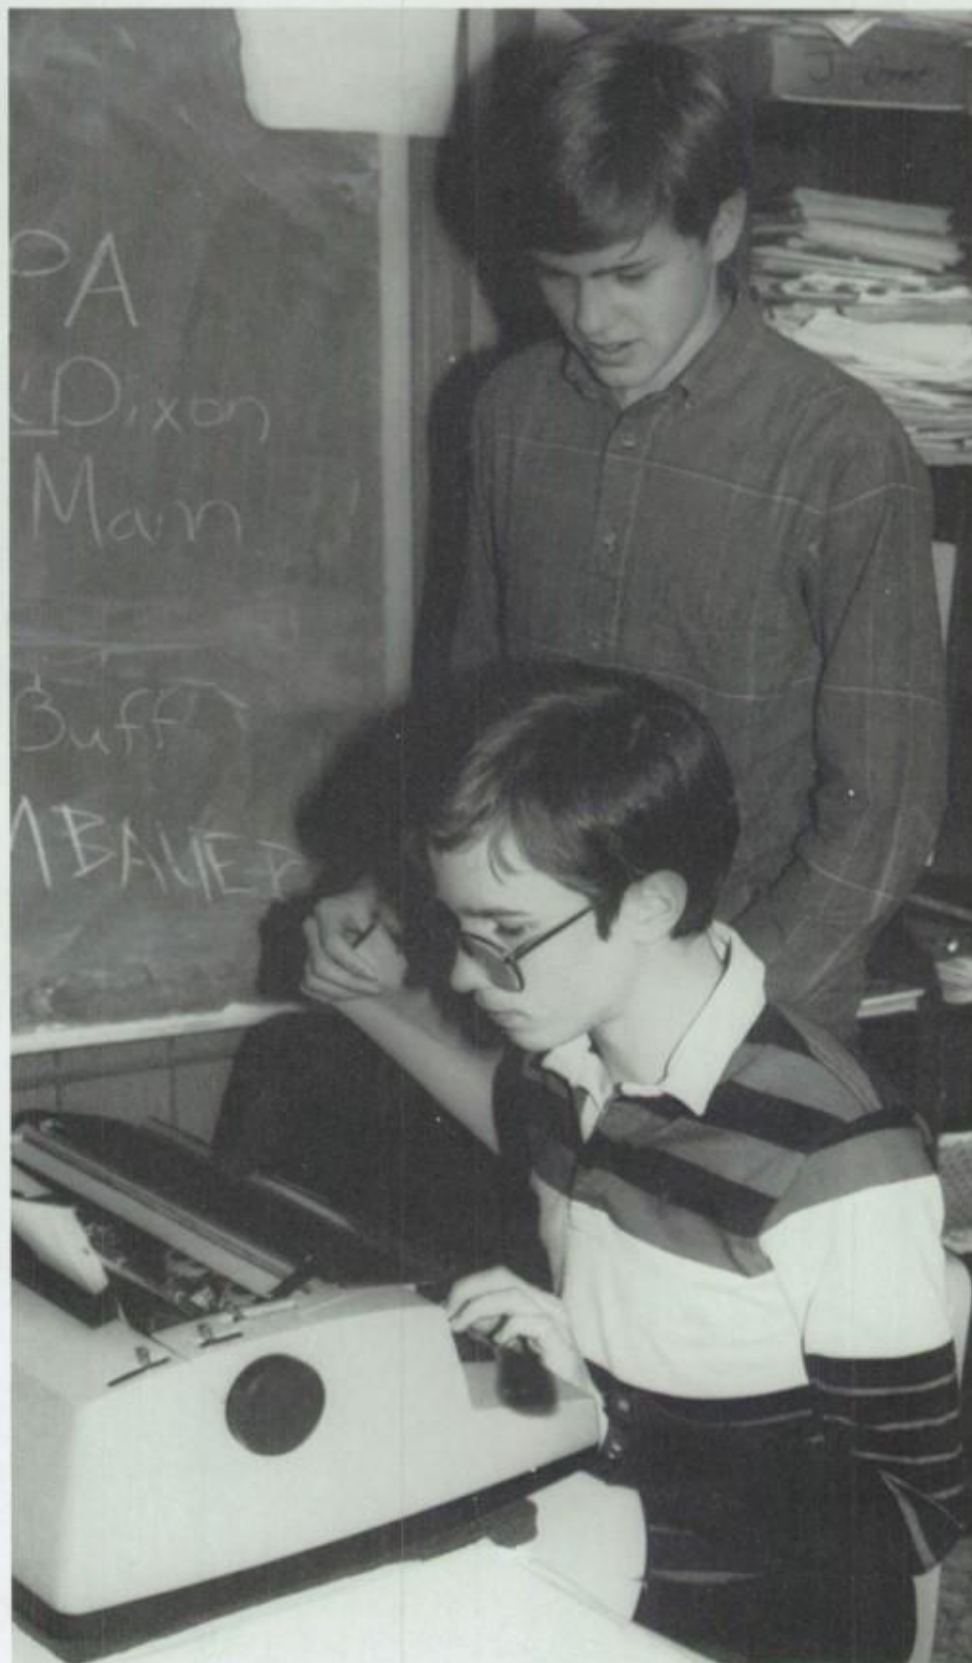

When the deadline is approaching and the work is only half complete, it's time to wing it. Thanks to those valiant few good men and women who couldn't resist the temptation to be the next Hugh Hefner surrogates, The Eagle, Vol. 37, was completed.

'86-87 Yearbook Class: Jamie Flynn, Philip Strohl, Nathan Beamguard, Mechelle Ferguson, Michelle Grant, Suzanne Stewart, Stephanie Dover, Tracy Bell, Paige Melton, Mr. Joe Grant, Adviser, Kim Osborne, and Jessica Newman. The class uses the construction class Christmas tree as a backdrop.

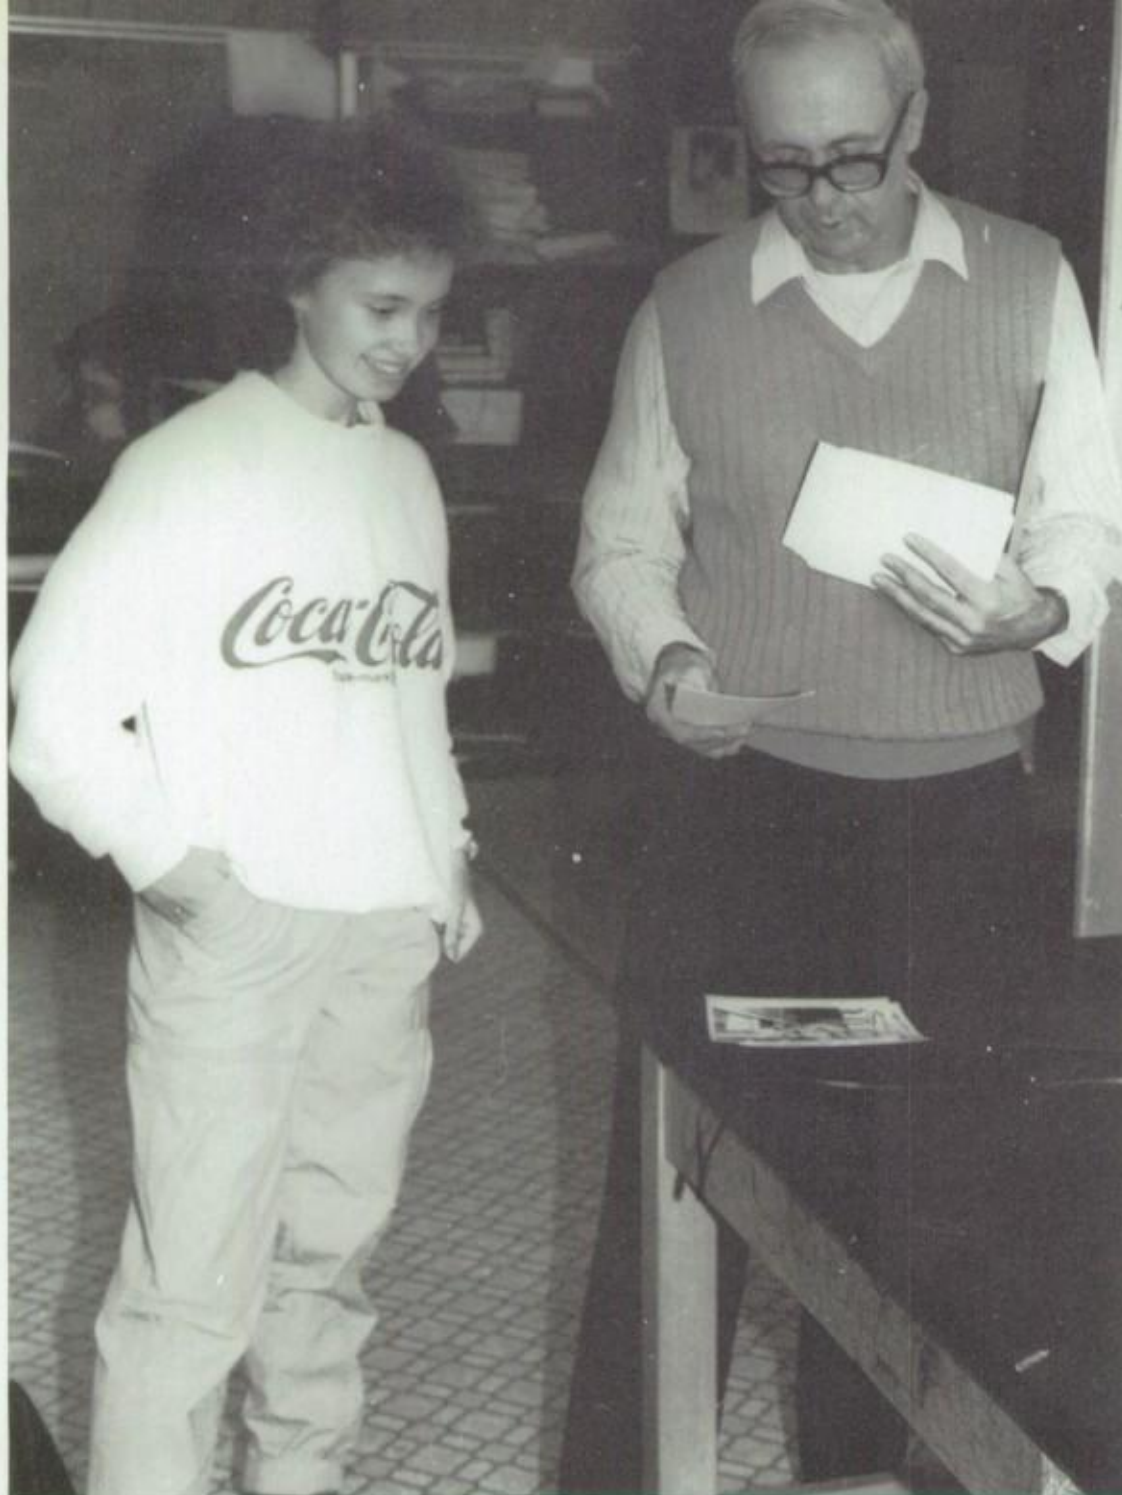

Discussing which pictures to use on their spreads, Jessica Newman and Tracy Bell seek each other's opinion. Tracy produced the fine arts and volleyball pages.

Designer/author of the varsity football and freshmen basketball spreads, Philip Strohl researches his topic before beginning his design.

With the pressure on, Jamie Flynn offers moral support to Nathan Beamguard as he waits for his turn on the typewriter. Nathan completed the science and math pages of the academics section and varsity boys' basketball. Jamie penned JV football and JV basketball.

Discussing the quality of the pictures printed for her academics pages with Mr. Joe Grant, Eagle Adviser, Stephanie Dover chuckles at the poor quality of some of the prints. Stephanie was responsible for the language arts spread, the study hall page, and the staff directory.

Proportioning pictures for the boys' tennis spread, Paige Melton also designed the vocational academic pages.

Working on the driver ed / phys ed spread, Kim Osborne also takes credit for the golf digest.

Listening closely to good advice, Michelle Grant and Mechelle Ferguson work to complete their deadlines. Miss Grant laid out the varsity cheerleaders and the Clover news spreads. Miss Ferguson completed the Health Fair, Awards Day, and elections spread and the library/new programs spread.

Interrupted by that mean old adviser, the lovely Jessica Newman gets ideas from an old yearbook. Jessica created the JV cheerleaders spread and spiced up the national news.

Thanks to a Great Staff

Senior Editor Amy Mann produced the Senior Section, senior statistics, the index, FFA, French & Spanish clubs — 35 pages.

Creating spreads on the North Carolina Opera, the Choral Ensemble, girls' track, and several clubs was Candace Johnson.

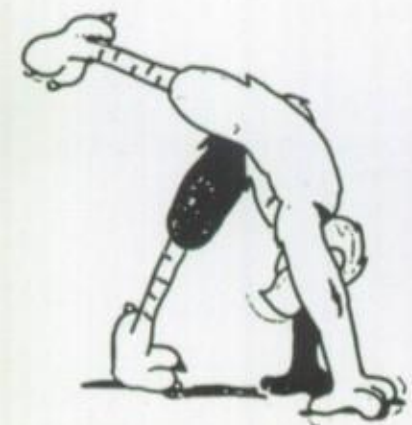

Since she is a Student Council officer, Shelley Price's favorite spread was the color Student Council layout. As Freshmen Editor she was responsible for the entire Freshmen Section, and she did pages on the band seniors and the NHS.

Underclassmen Editor Millicent Whitener penned the entire Sophomore Section, the Drama Club, the Mu Alpha Theta, the Chess Club, FFA, the Commercial Club, and the booster ads.

Advertising/Business Manager Regina Moore sold almost $2000 worth of ads this year, more than anyone in EAGLE history. She also designed all of the ads almost singlehandedly, 29 pages in all.

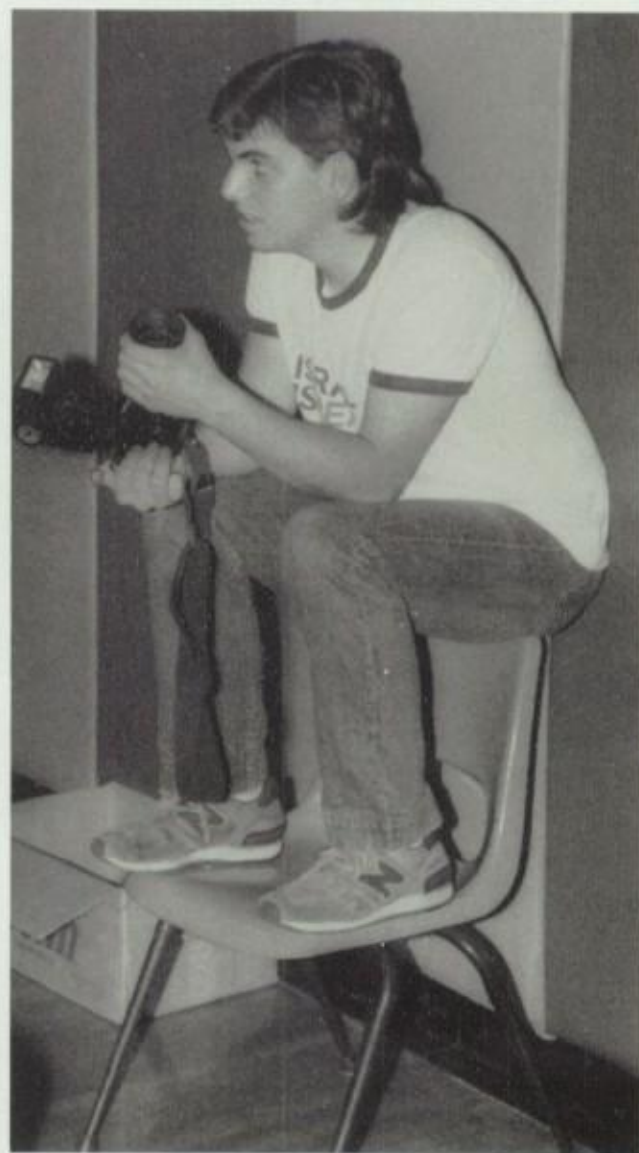

Trying to talk Scott Bozeman into buying his yearbook early and saving $2.00, Kim Bauer puts on that old salesperson charm.

As the last pages of this yearbook winged it through the postal service to Missouri, the advisor reflects upon the best staff in at least five years.

Hopefully, this year's edition will reflect the care, attention, time, and effort expended by people who volunteered their time, both in school and afterschool, to its production. This book has more color than any book in CHS history. This staff has more character than any in recent CHS history. We still do not have a perfect staff, or a perfect book, but we are in hot pursuit of both goals. Ladies and gentlemen, thanks for a great job.

Index Editor Stephanie Stanton co-authored the soccer spread and helped with the index. Junior Editor Jennifer Davidson did the Junior Section, the ad patrons, Bi-Sci-Chem, the newspaper staff, Delphi Brotherhood, and the Winthrop Challenge.

A photographer for three years, Eric Buff has been the mainstay of the staff, both in the darkroom and behind the camera. Here he takes a quick break between volleyball games.

The most effective female photographer in years, Kelly Sexton works hard to get film developed and prints made.

The most recent photographer to join the staff, Anthony Holman finds darkroom work interesting.

Deadlines, Commitments

What makes a top student like Rena Dixon want to be a part of a yearbook staff? Rena tells it best. "When I was a freshman, I made a commitment to become the best yearbook editor CHS ever had," she said.

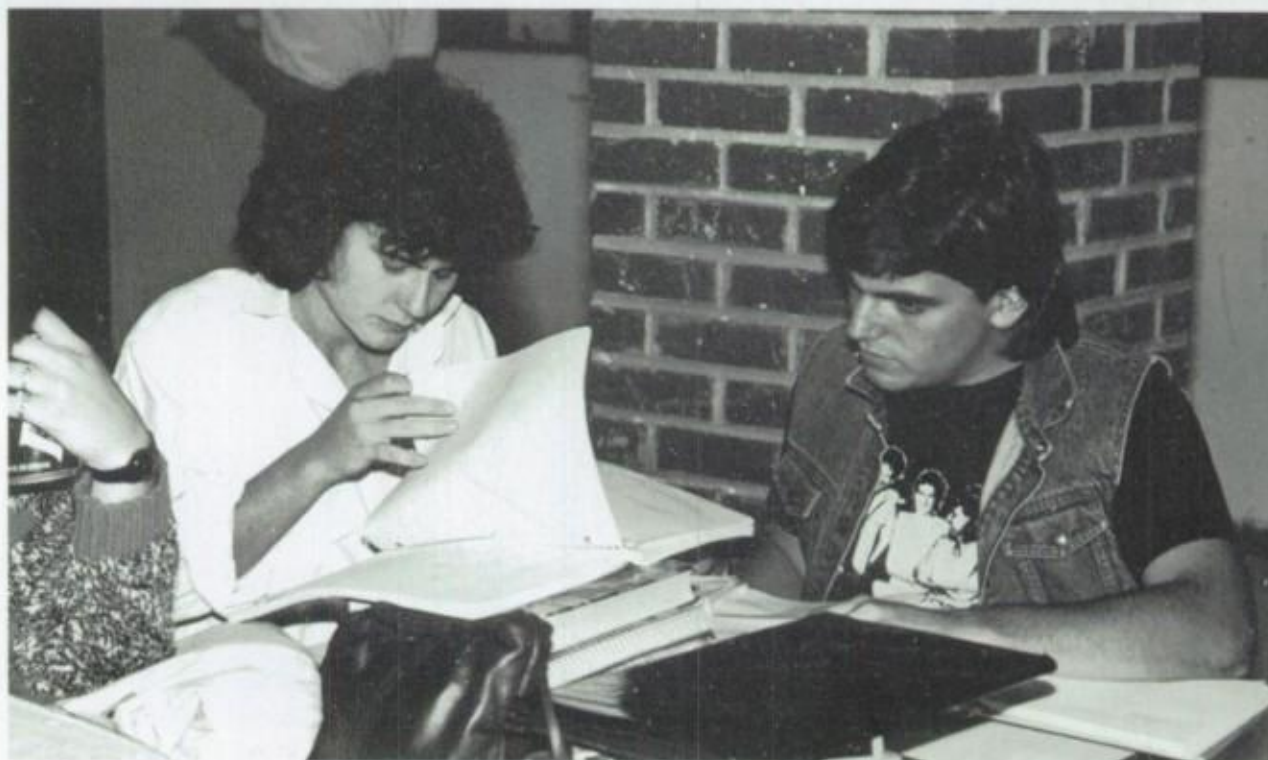

In her four years of involvement with The Eagle, the yearbook has received two ratings of "excellent" and one "superior."

Editor-in-chief Rena Dixon relaxes after another busy year. Accepting only the best, Rena hopes to attend Harvard, Bryn Mawr, Duke, or some Ivy League school.

Checking the SIPA workshop schedule, Rena tries to keep everyone on time for the sessions.

One of the few two-year editors of The Eagle, Rena accepted the position during her junior and senior years. Here with Photography Editor Eric Buff, Rena reviews some notes at lunch. Rena served as Freshman Editor and Underclassmen Editor before accepting the top position.

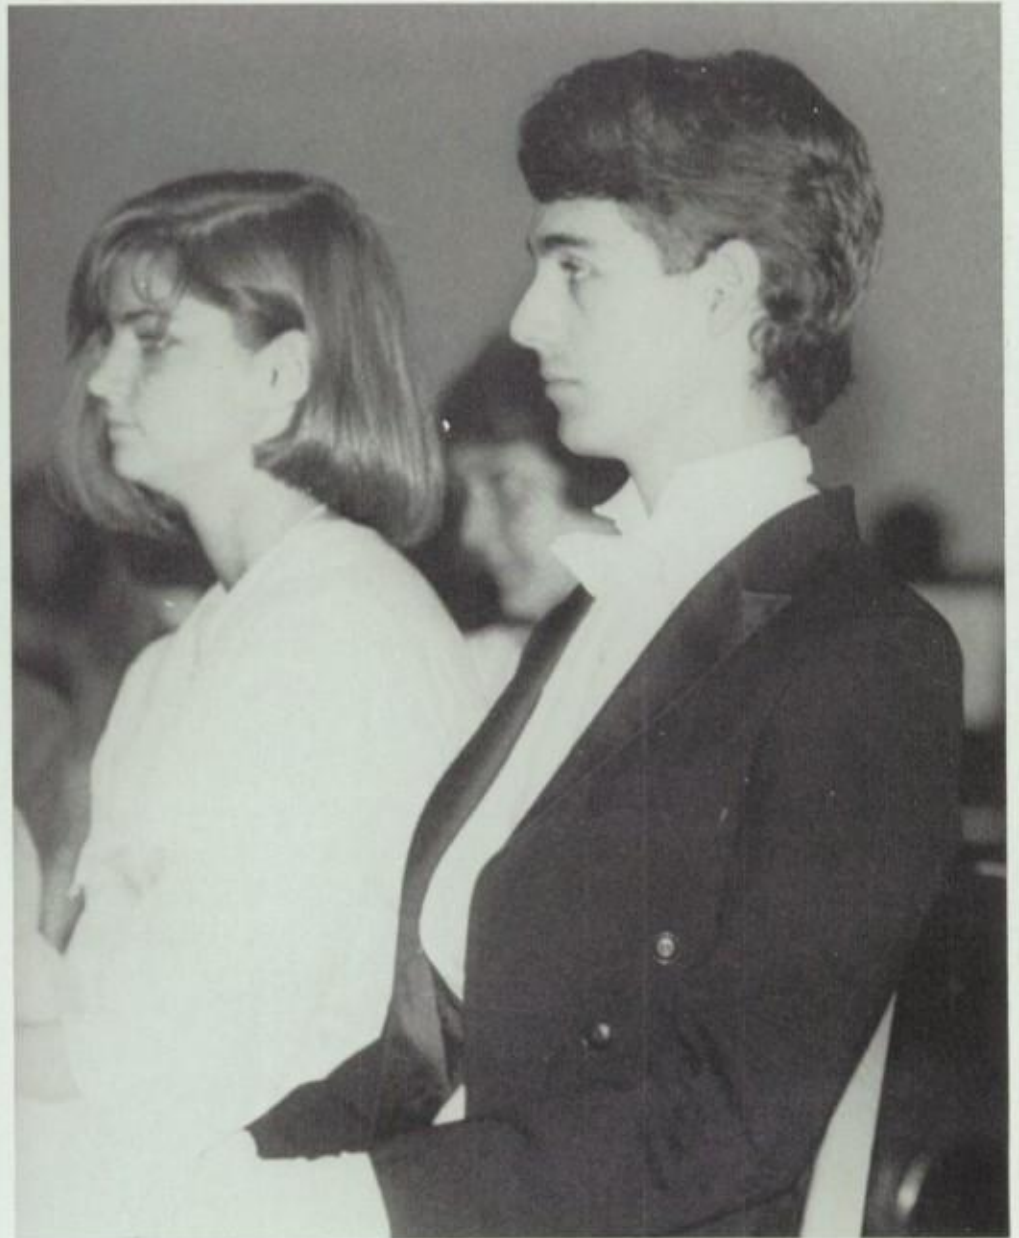

Between soccer and other numerous activities, Doug Collier found time to do several pieces of artwork, including the wings on the opening spread and the Eagle soccer player.

Over 750 copies of the '87 Eagle, published by Walsworth Publishing Co., Marceline, Missouri, will be distributed to students, advertisers, parents, and friends of CHS this year.

The cover was crafted by Mr. John Wine, CHS art teacher. Student artists included Elliott Blackwell and Doug Collier. Endsheets and division pages were produced by Editor-in-chief Rena Dixon. Cover ideas were conceived by Rena.

Most copy is in 10-point Bauhaus type with most of the captions in 8-point Bauhaus bold. Most headlines are in 42-point Bauhaus with special headlines in 72-point Bauhaus and Brush type. Paper stock is 80-point enamel printed by means of offset photolithography.

Blackston, Inc., and THE CLOVER HERALD provided all photographs not purchased from Associated Press or taken by student photographers or the adviser. Thanks to everyone involved in the production of this yearbook.

Lani Smith and contributing artist Elliott Blackwell are decked out for the presentation of the '86 Eagle. Elliott's Eagles are found throughout the yearbook again this year.

'87 Eagle Staff: (FRONT ROW) Amy Mann, Rena Dixon, Eric Buff. (ROW 2) Kim Bauer, Kim Geohagan, Rahaleh Nasri. (ROW 3) Jennifer Davidson, Millicent Whitener, Shelley Price. (ROW 4) Doug Collier, Jamie Flynn, Philip Strohl. (ROW 5) Stephanie Dover, Suzanne Stewart, Tracy Bell. (ROW 6) Candace Johnson, Michelle Grant, Regina Moore. (ROW 7) Stephanie Colvin and Mark Montgomery.

Dressed for a night out on the town, Tommy Jackson and Todd Alley entertain the Spanish Club with a skit at initiation.

Hungry after a full day of spirited fun, D'Etta Ridley and Donna Moses grab some lunch.

Juniors: Just

The junior year was a year of transition. Juniors' thoughts turned toward the future. Juniors thought about decisions that would change the rest of their lives, such as whether to go to college or to enter the work force. Accepting new responsibilities, juniors oftentimes were confused. The most important decisions were yet to come, however.

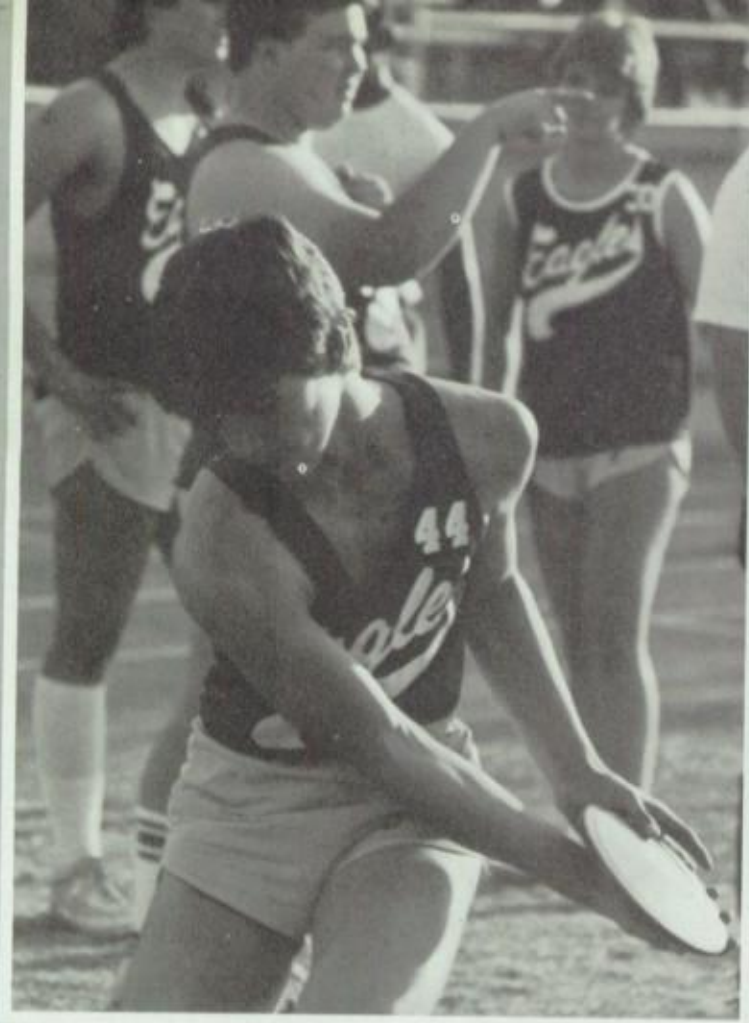

With many new responsibilities thrust upon them, juniors began to feel their upper-classmen status. Knowing that adulthood was just around the corner, juniors were not surprised when they finally got both their rings and prom invitations. Many juniors were distraught when they saw their senior friends graduate, however, because they were next in line.

Juniors looked with both fear and anticipation toward their final year to wing it. They will always look back on their previous years, however, with thoughtful remembrance.

Taking notes during an important lecture, Tina Howe smiles at the mistake she has just made.

Preparing to thrust the discus, Doug Collier shows off his muscles while winding up.

Waiting to be bamboozled by the magician and his assistant, Anna Johnson ponders what is to become of her at the yearbook ceremony.

Sophomores Are

The 1986-87 sophomore class was extraordinary in every sense of the word. This year's sophomore class possessed morale and was never afraid to reveal the spirit that Blue Eagles were made of.

After being excited about the return to school, sophomores settled down and viewed school life with skepticism instead of anticipation.

The school year brought sophomores the chance to show their "true colors." Not only did sophomores survive club initiations, but they were able to smile after being tortured by their upperclassmen antagonists.

As classes got into full swing, many sophomores asked the question, "When will this homework end?" Again, sophomores proved that they were tough and handled all the homework that was sent their way.

Finally, each sophomore was a true friend to all. As the year progressed, all sophomores felt a special closeness that set this class apart from the others.

Looking Forward

The freshmen class of 86-87 made it through another year. This was not just any school year, however. It was a year of endings and beginnings. After the freshmen left junior high, they knew things would never be the same.

The end of eighth grade was spent cramming for exams and choosing the right classes to take. Unsure freshmen set up a "four-year plan". Most found planning four years of life in advance a little difficult but necessary.

Upon their arrival at CHS, freshmen were pleased to discover that high school was not as bad as they had expected. After all, every freshmen year was downhill once its members were used to senior privileges and bottom lockers.

The freshmen definitely made it through another year and also managed to add their talents and school spirit to CHS's ranks.

Whooping it up at a pep rally, the Class of 1990 proves that it is one of the most spirited freshmen classes in recent years.

A veteran of Winthrop Challenge meets, Mrs. Susie McLean, along with the coach from T.L. Hanna High School, wait for their teams' chance to play.

Explaining one of geography's more difficult concepts, Mr. Butch Windell consults his notes.

Teachers:

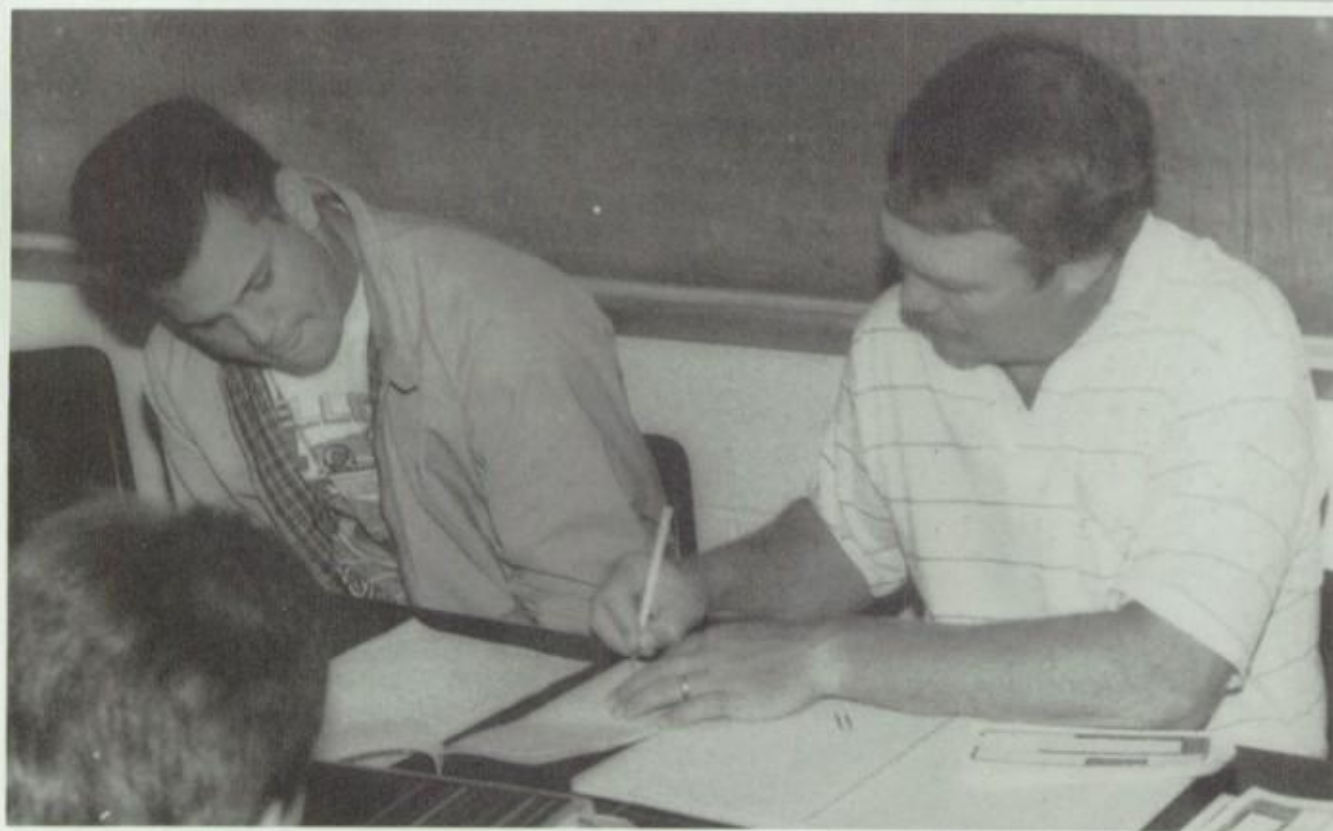

Clover High's teachers earned the title of "Professional Wingers." Teachers had the responsibility of teaching hundreds of students daily. The faculty members had to know their material well before they could present and explain it to students. Oftentimes, students did not realize how hard teachers had to work to relearn old material and understand new material. Teachers, like students, were constantly learning and going to school. For these reasons, teachers have earned the right to be labeled "Professional Wingers."

A new addition to Clover High's faculty, Mr. Scott Simpkins, helps Jeff Wilkins with a drafting problem.

While Coach Tommy Cook corrects his paper, Frank Jackson hopes for a good mark.

Teaching English with a smile, Mrs. Linda Harrell is happiest with an English book in her hand.

Common Denominators

One common denominator of the CHS math department is our hardworking faculty. All our teachers are skilled in math and use their skills to the fullest.

Another common denominator is hardworking students. No matter how hard the work may be, the students are always trying. (Not pictured are Mrs. Jan Ulewellyn and Mrs. Patricia Turner.)

Our Teachers Have Spirit

Showing her spirit during Spirit Week, Mrs. Leigh Alexander suddenly finds herself a 16-year-old in an 80-year-old body.

Not only do teachers at CHS have talent at what they do, they also have spirit. Their spirited class presentations are complemented by their involvements with students in sports, clubs, and other activities.

Showing how to make a picture frame, Mr. Wine explains the easy way to Shannon Byers, Amy McCall, and Teresa Collins.

Here at Clover High School, students involved in our Fine Arts Program work very hard each day to get the most out of what they enjoy.

Whether it be art, band, chorus, drama, or photography, they give it their best and eventually it pays off.

Tricks of the Trades

Taking a vocational class helps prepare those students for the future.

Whether one takes a business class, Home Economics, Auto Mechanics, Drafting, Building Construction, or Agriculture, one can acquire new skills and techniques which can come in handy on a real job.

A first year teacher, Mr. Scott Simpkins helps Jeff Wilkin complete an assignment.

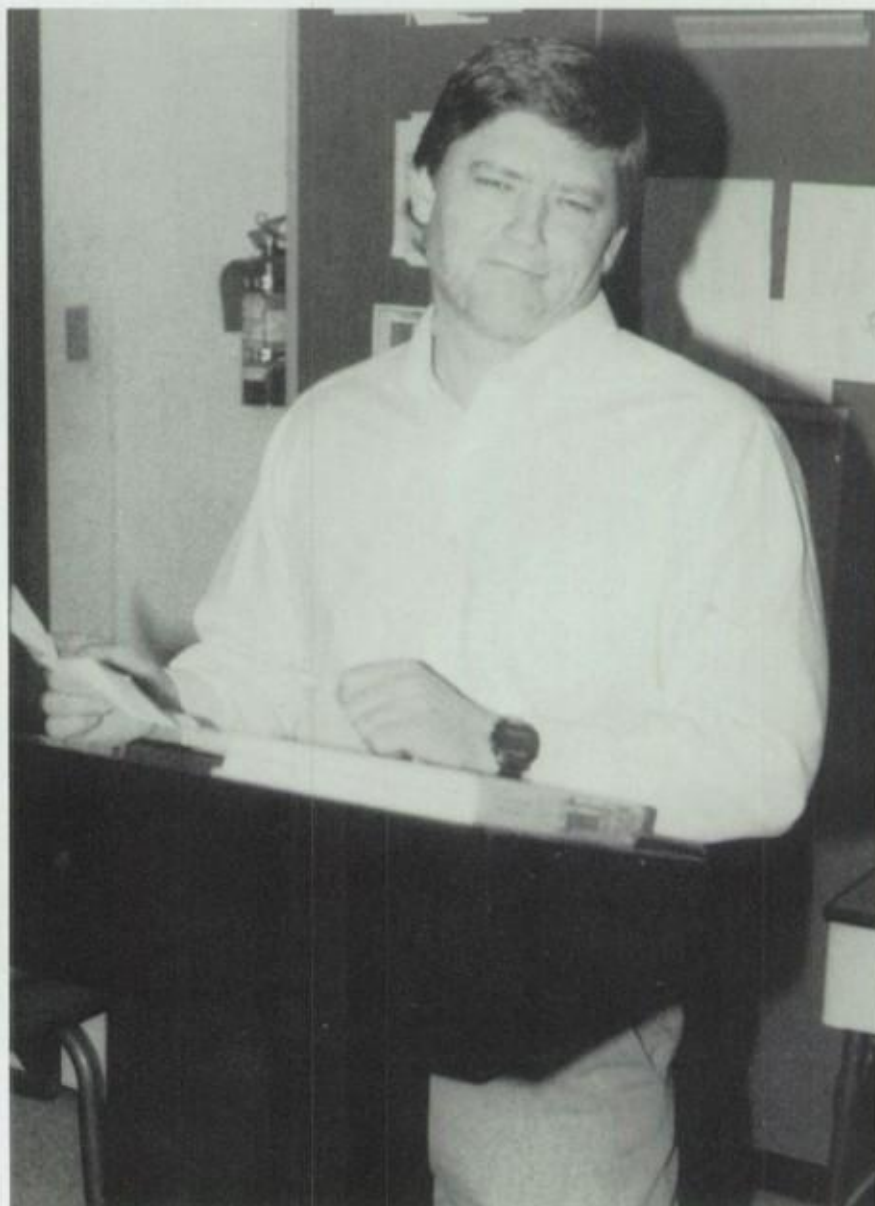

Caught in the act of teaching, Mrs. Joy Melton braces herself for the inevitable.

A newcomer to this year's staff, Mr. Chris Edge helped out during registration by handing out car registration forms.

Working together, Mr. Clint Boyd, auto mechanics instructor, and Chris Carter repair a torch.

Like always, Mr. John Hicks shows his dislike towards having his picture taken by mugging the mugshot.

Driving a car or taking a jog around the track can be very hazardous to your health at times; however, the faculty at CHS try to put their knowledge of these subjects to good use: teaching the students.

It is not unusual to see a driver education car cruisin' down through Clover, and it is definitely not unusual to see a group of students doing calisthenics in the gym.

Whatever it is that one may see, rest assured that Clover High School is on top of what is hazardous to your health.

Parents' Day was a big break for Mr. Joe Grant.

Staying on the ball during PE is not hazardous to Coach Sheila Stewart's Health.

The Cultures Club

There is a very unique group of people at Clover High School who can tell a person what makes the stock market work or who was the tenth president.

We call them the "Cultures Club." It includes all the social studies teachers at this school. Their in-depth knowledge of the world and its people make it a true learning experience to be in their classes.

Sit Down and Shut Up!

Discussing behavior problems, Miss Ruby Simpson and Mrs. Mary Fisher meet outside the door of Room 137.

Study hall is a place to go when you have nothing else to do. You can catch up on homework, study, go to the library, or catch up on sleep. Avoid the hall. Take a class.

Putting Karen Funderburk on her second semester roll, Miss Ruby Simpson gets set for another spring.

During Spirit Week, Mrs. Mary Fisher resembled the sister of Pocahontas as she called the roll. And we thought the students were the "wild Indians."

Look where talking in study hall got Miss Ruby Simpson. Actually she models the costume as a warning.

Former model, Whitney Houston, took the American Music Awards by storm this year by walking away with five statues. Whitney will always be remembered for her heartfelt love songs such as "You Give Good Love," "The Greatest Love of All," and "All at Once."

After losing their lead singer, Van Halen was in a desperate situation earlier this year. Fortunately, Sammy Hagar came to the rescue and put Van Halen back on the charts with 5150.

MUSIC TRENDS

Making a fantastic comeback after successful solo careers, the members of Genesis regrouped to cut a number one album, Invisible Touch and to go on a world concert tour.

"The Boss" had another great year. After marrying a top model, Julianne Phillips, Bruce Springsteen greeted his fans with the hottest Christmas gift this year, a collection of live concerts entitled Bruce Springsteen and the E Street Band Live 1975-1985.

DANG!

Declared the best all-female band since the Go-Gos, the Bangles had two number one hits this year, "Manic Monday" and "Walk Like an Egyptian."

Breaking away from Van Halen, David Lee Roth made his own mark on the music world with two top ten albums, Crazy from the Heat and Eat 'Em and Smile.

After hitting the charts for the first time in the early 80's, Madonna has had nothing but success. A marriage to actor Sean Penn and a top ten album, True Blue, were her accomplishments this year.

Scaffolds, beam debris, and loose wires mark the frame of the new wing's second floor.

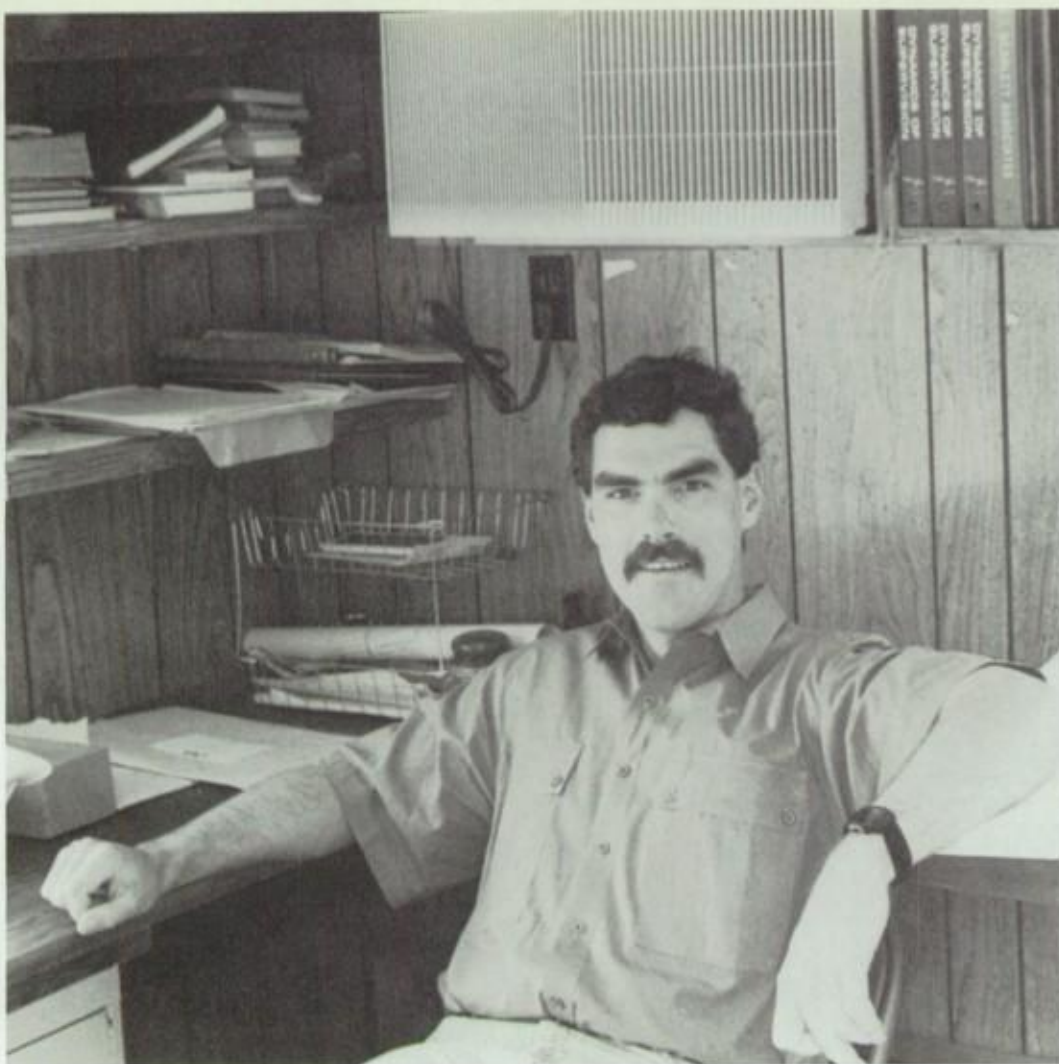

Wingin' It from the Ground Up

The beams that support the first floor are the materialization of the architect's vision.

Preparing to hoist steel beams high into the air, two construction workers ready the hooks.

Clover High's wing was a long time coming. Since the school's original completion in 1976, no major renovation or construction had been authorized. Recently, however, Clover's school board noticed large rises in school attendance. A growing population commanded more space in the form of a new wing. The addition gave the much needed elbow room that Clover High's students desired.

The construction of the new wing began in January of 1986 and ended the first week of August in the same year. A professional architect designed the wing to fit the cosmetic exterior of the rest of the building. Also, light was needed for the far wall, so it was constructed of glass panels. GMK, a construction company out of Columbia, SC, was responsible for the 26,000 square foot addition. When asked what he thought of the new wing, one of the main site managers, Mr. Ernet Nash, said, "We came out just about as planned with the construction. It was a pleasure working out here."

The students of Clover High could definitely say that they would be winging it for the next decade thanks to the space that the new wing provided.

One of several site managers, John Clark sees that everything is running smoothly and on time.

Grass begins to replace rubble after the completion of the new wing. The addition added sixteen rooms to the school and a magnificent glass paneled wall.

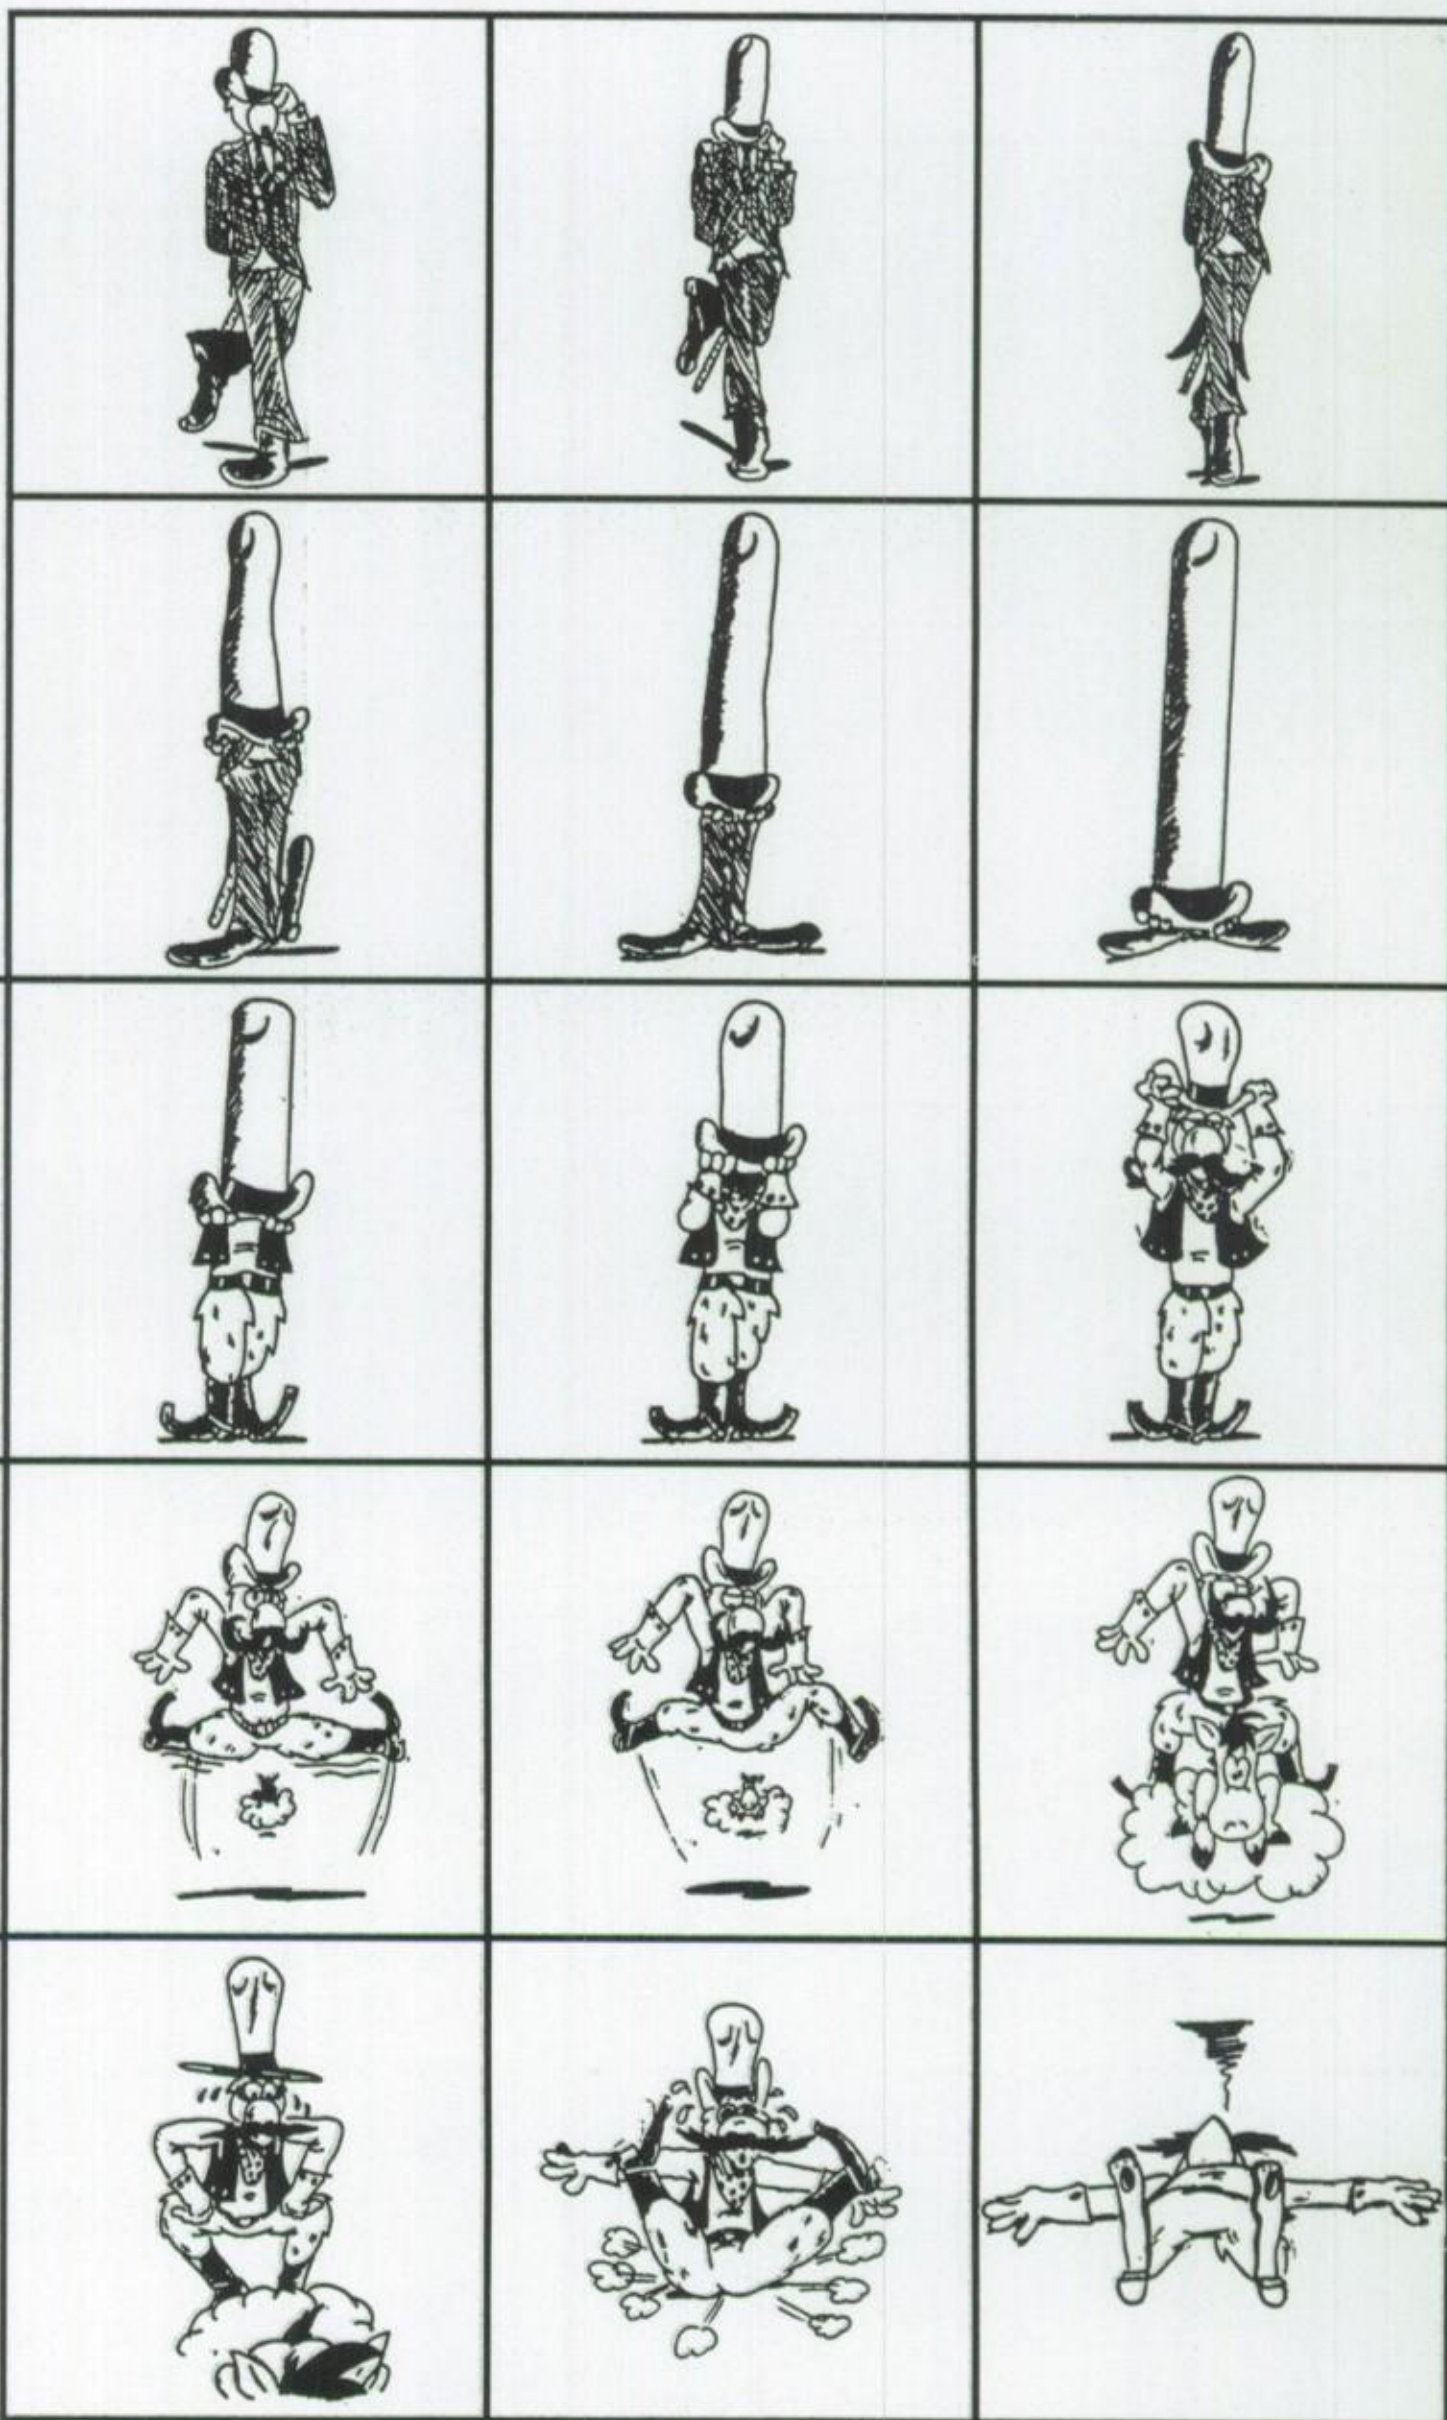

Large cranes are used to tear down old walls as well as to place new materials in their proper places.

Steel beams intertwine to create a sturdy fortress for education.

Elliott Strikes Again

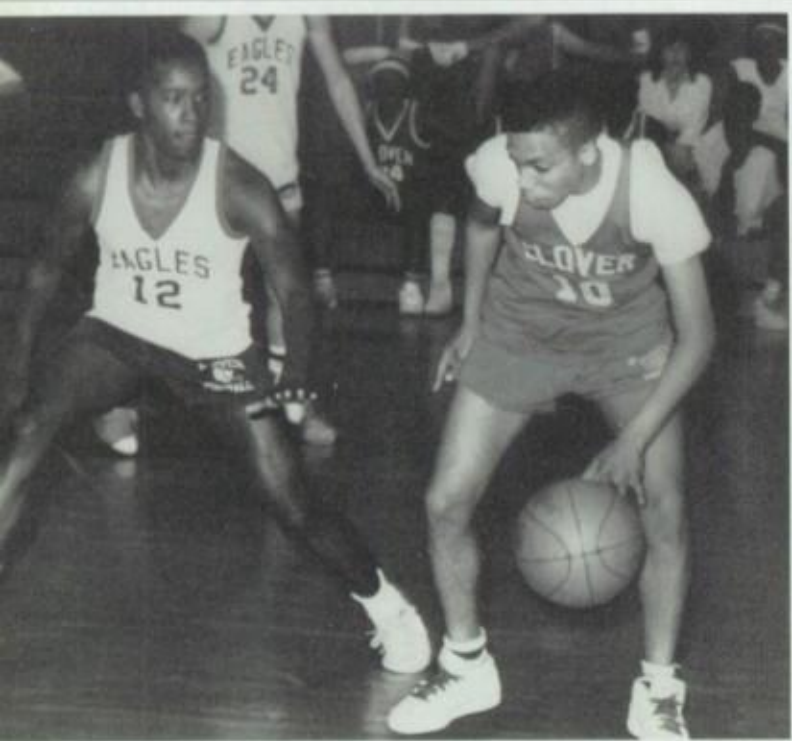

A cartoonist with the talent of Elliott Blackwell comes along about once in the lifetime of every other journalism teacher.

We hope you agree that talent like Elliott's is much too good to waste. In all Elliott drew 142 cartoons for The Eagle this year, including the 41 on these two pages, the 74 in our regular animations sequence, and the 27 we have not yet used. Once again, thanks, Elliott, for the time and effort you have donated to making our yearbook the excellent publication it is. Good luck in your art career.

During a class tournament, Jesse Sherer attempts to keep Lewis Tate from making a basket.

Working out some details before the end of the first half, Coach Butch Windell shows a play to Bob Faulkner and Robbie Millen.

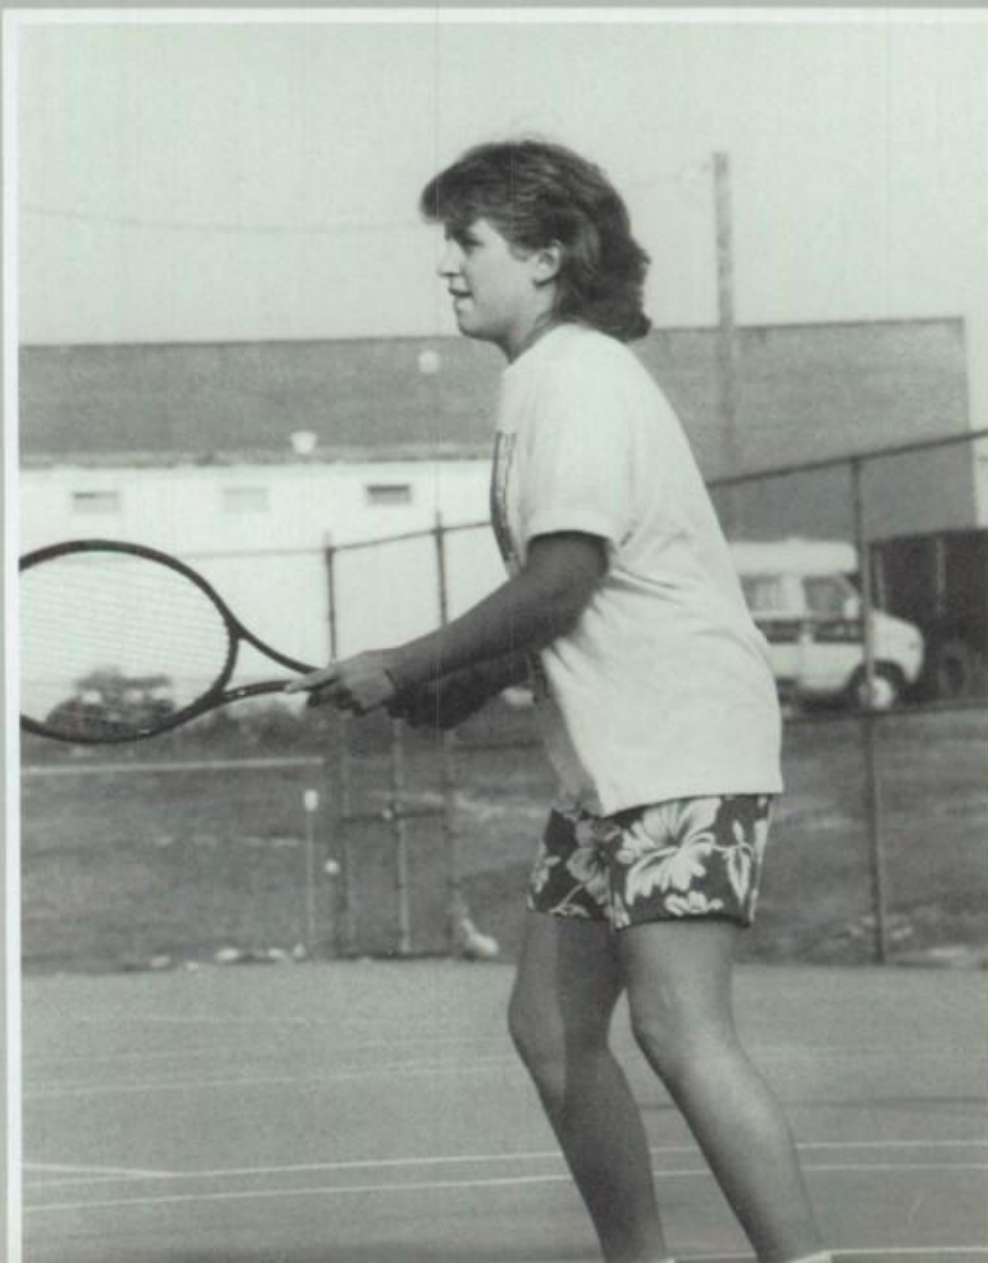

Sporting

Clover High had its share of athletes this year. As a matter of fact, many promising athletes strutted their stuff in several sports.

Clover High offered football, basketball, baseball, soccer, tennis, track, and golf for the guys and volley ball, softball, basketball, tennis, and track for the girls. Most students, however, just enjoyed being spectators. As usual, the cheerleaders led the school in spirit and encouraged the student body to turn out in record numbers for games and matches.

Working hard to keep her edge on the game, Julie Howell waits to return her opponent's serve.

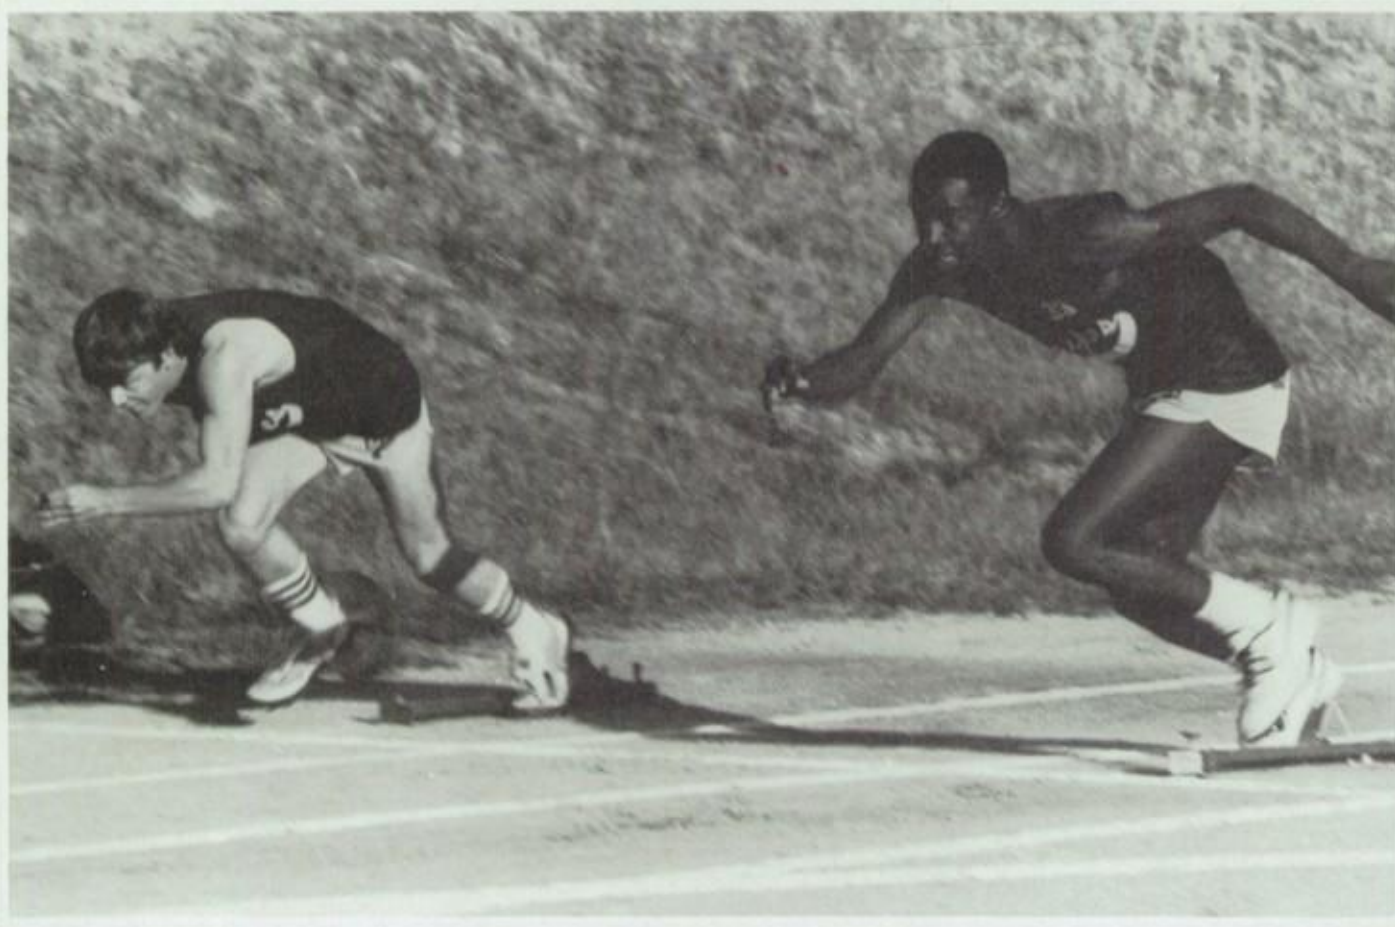

Proud of a great pitch, Matthew Price strikes out another batter for the Eagles.

After making a steal, Josh Gross attempts to dribble the ball in for a goal.

JV Cheerleaders: (FRONT) Julie Anderson, Deonna McCoy. (TOP) Georgine Hagman, Tiffany Taylor, Sonya Sutherland. (BOTTOM) Pam Forbis, Marty Ballard, Tamara Roberson.

In the homecoming pep rally, Georgine Hagman "turns it out."

Even against York, Deonna McCoy helps to lift team morale.

Sitting out of a game due to an ankle injury, Marty Ballard still helps the squad by cheering on the sidelines.

Cheering the team on to victory is easy for Tamara Roberson, especially during the team's winning streak.

While cheering the team on, Julie Anderson checks out the scoreboard.

'Here to Turn It Out'

Captain of the squad, Tiffany Taylor, responds to the crowd's high spirits.

Communicating with her audience, Pam Forbis shows her pleasure with the Clover lead.

Watching a goal line play, Sonya Sutherland anticipates a touchdown.

Backing the JV teams are the JV cheerleaders, through good times and bad.

Making posters, practicing, and fund raising took up a great deal of their time off the field. But cheering at the games was the most fun.

During practice the JV cheerleaders experiment with different pyramids.

"Really turning it out," Pam Forbis, Marty Ballard, and Julie Anderson cheer for a JV Blue Eagle score.

Against All Odds

Coach Mike O'Shields inherited a tough job as new head coach of the Eagles. A light turnout, defection of players, and injuries hurt his chances for a successful first season.

Although the season was a frustrating one, there were moments when the Eagles shined, such as their 15-12 victory over Newberry. They truly were fighting against all odds.

With a hearty 7-2 season, the JV rebounded from the losing effort of the previous season. The JV took seven straight wins before dropping two close games, a double overtime heartbreaker to Broome and one against York without several key players.

Though the season ended on a damp note, the JV Eagles had three shutouts and a first ever defeat of Clinton to chalk up an impressive season overall.

Holding back his foe, Chad Bailey drives his man back on an Eagle punt play.

Head JV Coach Tommy Cook sends in signals as Coach Robert Jackson and Coach Marc Funderburk study the defensive alignment.

Eagerly attacking the blocking pad, Matthew Price shows his fellow defensive players how it is done.

Preparing to throw a block, Michael Whitesides seeks out his blocking assignment.

On a rollout to the right side, JV quarterback Rhett Carroll throws on the run.

With the benefit of some help from a professional soccer player, Mr. Phil Orrill, the 1986 soccer team experienced the first winning season ever by a CHS team. Directed by Coach Butch Windell and Coach Mike Culp, the Eagles were further assisted by Mr. David McKeown.

Starters included: halfbacks Trapp Lewis, Sing Sayanam, and Jim Thomas; forwards Mark Orrill, Josh Gross, and Brian Cross; fullbacks Alec Templeton, Doug Collier, Charles Hurt, and Danny Tate; and Steve Barber, goalie.

Loosening up before one of their two victories over Ft. Mill, Danny Tate and Steve Enright concentrate on their exercises.

Hot at the Hoop

Fouled by a Broome player, playmaking guard Joy Davis takes the ball to the basket.

Hot at the hoop and keeping the winning tradition alive this season, the '86-87 varsity girls' basketball team finished with an 18-6 overall record and a conference record of 12-2.

Two senior girls, Ann Gardener and Joy Davis, were named to the SC All-State Basketball Team and surpassed the 1000-point career scoring mark this season. Ann also represented Clover in the North-South All-Star Game at Carolina Coliseum on April 4. Under the guidance of Coach Sheila Stewart and new Ast. Coach Judy Rast, the varsity girls improved with each game, averaging 58.8 points per contest.

With a hand in her face, Cindy Britt flies through the air to give the Eaglettes another bucket.

Getting into the action, Coach Sheila Stewart shouts instructions.

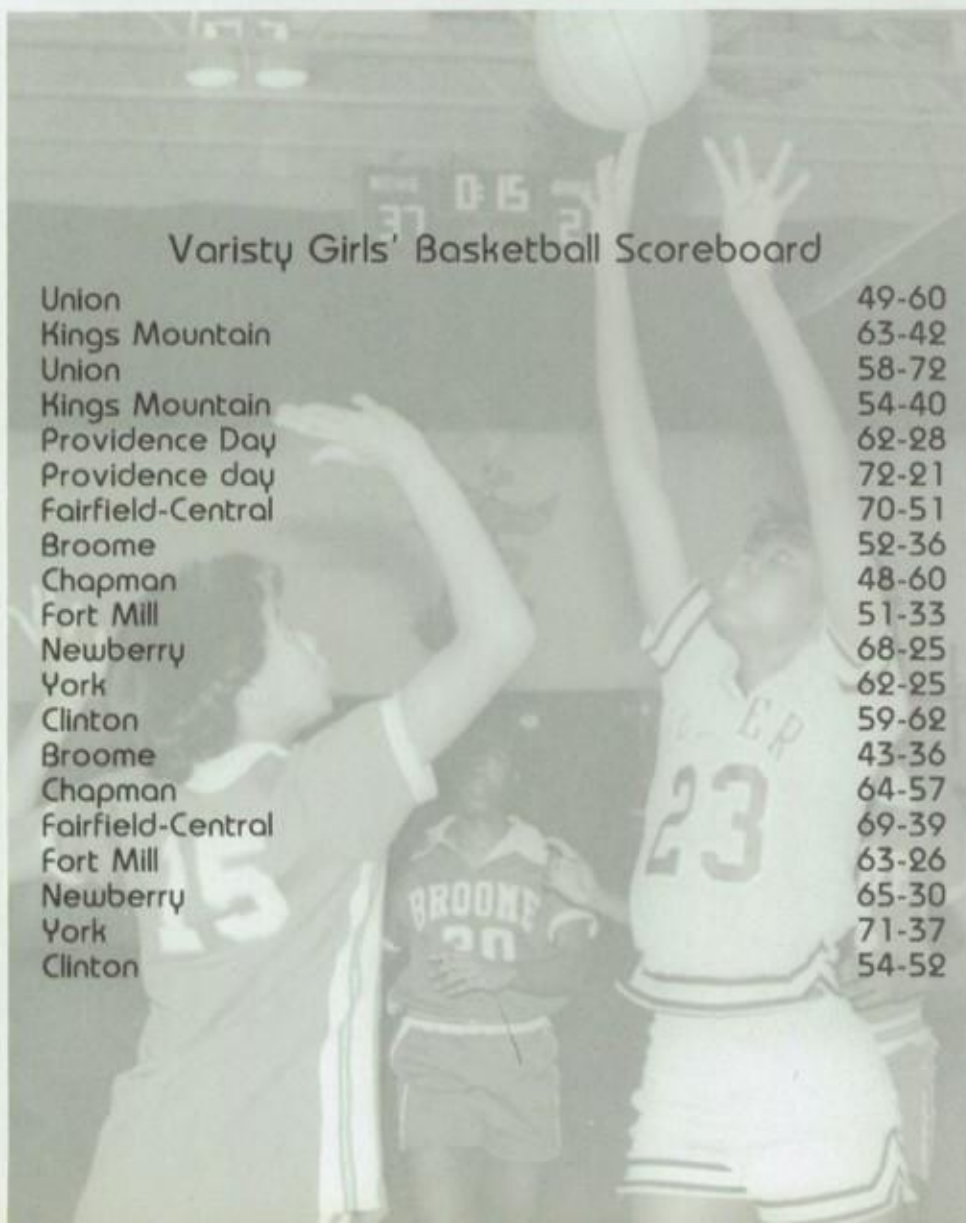

Going up for a rebound, Cindy Britt and Deborah Pressley show that Clover can be double trouble.

Scoring at the buzzer, Pam Carter fires a long one.

Starting Out Right

Fouled by a Newberry guard, center Nicky Asbury plays keepaway after a defensive rebound while looking for the outlet pass.

Even though the JV Eaglettes lost their first game of the season, they got their high school basketball careers started out right with an 8-4 season under a new coach, Miss Judy Rast.

Hustling to retrieve a loose ball, Kesha Neely makes a great save, flipping the ball back to a teammate under the basket.

Urging her players to give a more concentrated effort on defense, Coach Judy Rast reviews defensive assignments.

Faking an overhead pass, Kelly Price shows clever ballhandling skill before finding the open player.

Led by "top gun" Tammie Wilson (24) at forward, the JV Eaglettes slipped by Clinton and Fairfield-Central, smashed Ft. Mill, York, and Newberry, and dropped a 21-22 heartbreaker to Broome.

With good, tough inside play like this, Tammie Wilson easily explains how she became top scorer.

As Kelly Price sets a screen, Renee Killian drives down the left side.

Operating just inside the ten-second line, Martha Bratton passes inside.

Finishing the season with an overall record of 11-6 and a conference record of 9-5, the 1986 baseball team missed out on the playoffs for the second year in a row by only one game. "We had an overall good year," said Head Coach Tommy Cook.

Selected to play in the State All-star Baseball game, Ronnie Deal led the team in hitting (.435), runs scored (21), RBI's (20), walks (21), and tied fellow all-conference selection Dan Love with nine stolen bases.

Centerfielder Keith McClure, one of the team long ball hitters, was the only other team member with 40 at bats over .400 with .409. Hot-hitting Mike Neal had his season interrupted by an auto accident, leaving him with only 18 at bats and a .444 average after two early season victories as a pitcher.

Looking for the sign, talented newcomer Matt Price finished with a 4-4 pitching performance.

Heading for the Majors

Finishing the season with an outstanding 19-4 record, the '86 softball team took the top spot in the conference and second in the district.

Joy Davis led the team with a .432 average while Shannon Montgomery had a .429. Davis stole 23 bases, and Montgomery claimed four homeruns. Ann Gardner was the winning pitcher in all 19 victories and won the MVP Award. Catcher Leslie Adams received recognition for her superior play.

Nowhere to Run

According to Mrs. Julia Turner, during her third year as the girls' track coach, we had about one-third of the participation that other school teams had. She felt that a track would encourage participation. The team practiced in the student parking lot. Even with this obstacle, the girls improved enough in the 1986 season to overcome Indianland, 67-56.

"I think the one girl that tried the hardest and improved the most was Andrea Gross," stated Mrs. Turner.

On awards day, Tammie Wright won the MVP Award and Andrea Gross received the Coach's Award.

We do hope that someday the track teams will have somewhere to run.

Between events, Keisha Neely, Mrs. Julia Turner, Libby Rhyne, and Toni Michaels find time to smile for the camera.

Heading for the Hills

Going into the conference tournament with a regular season overall 10-7-1 record, the Eagles and the rest of the conference were sent heading for the hills as Newberry edged Ft. Mill by three strokes for the conference title. Faring better out of conference than in with a 5-3-1 slate, the Eagles were led by MVP Darin White. The Eagles dropped to 11-12-1 for the year.

Back home in the hills - River Hills, that is - Darin White follows his shot as he smashes a beautiful second shot onto the green.

'86 Golf Team: (FRONT ROW) Shane Harvell, Todd Alley, and Steven Greene. (BACK ROW) Darin White, Scott Bozeman, and Phillip Corson.

With that winning smile, Coach Paul Pratt shows confidence in his team. "No one knows their way around this course like this team. All our home matches are played here. We like heading for the hills - River Hills," the coach said.

Getting it all together is Philip Corson.

With deep concentration, Steven Greene plans out his winning putt.

Rallying up to the hole, Scott Bozeman stays in control of his game.

1986 Volleyball Team: Miss Judy Rast, Coach; Ann Gardner, Allison Brooks, Michelle Boling, Lisa Wine, Fran Spurrier, Stephanie Shand, Scorekeeper; Kim Bauer, Statistician; Stephanie Adams, Linesperson; Heather Pasour, Joy Davis, Shannon Montgomery, Leslie Adams, Pam Glenn, and Cindy Britt.

Athletics is perhaps the single aspect of high school life in which the greatest number of students participate — if not as players, then as spectators and fans.

For this reason, it is often the focal point of the schools' image and spirit. In the past few years our volleyball team — like other facets of our high school — has made impressive strides with a 12-7 record. The next few years will hold promises of even greater innovations and achievements.

Putting in a hard day's practice, Michelle Boling, Pam Glenn, and Shannon Montgomery give it their best.

Bumping the ball to set up the front line, Pam Glenn plays the back court well.

Striving hard to return Broome's serve, Allison Brooks concentrates on the ball while Shannon Montgomery backs her up.

With a powerful underhand serve, Ann Gardner releases all of her energy as she leaves the floor on the follow through.

Straining to block an opponent's shot, Cindy Britt dinks the ball into an open area.

With her patented overhead serve, Lisa Wine serves up another point.

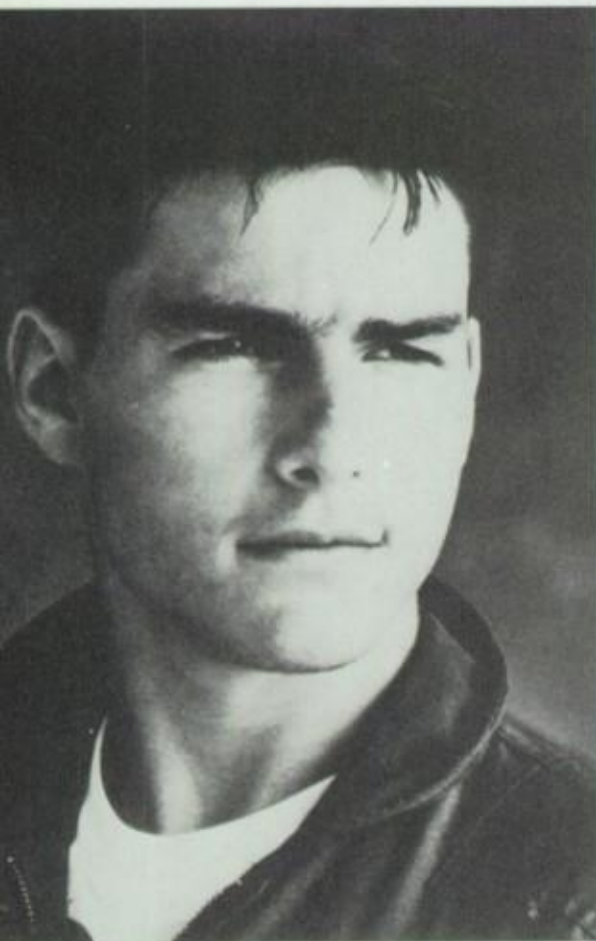

Keeping her eye on the ball, Leslie Adams hits a palm ball into the backcourt.

During a time out, Coach Judy Rast encourages her team to hold on to a two-point lead.

Across The Nation

New York Harbor July 4, 1986 was the scene of the most popular birthday party in the United States. Celebrating Lady Liberty's one hundredth birthday were such people as Ronald Reagan, Nancy Reagan and 100 Elvis impersonators.

The drought of 1986 was the worst dry spell in the Southeast ever.

"Top Gun's" Tom Cruise was one of the most popular actors of 1986.

Our nation's weakest point is its addiction to drugs. Crack is one of the most addictive drugs on the streets.

In Two Pages

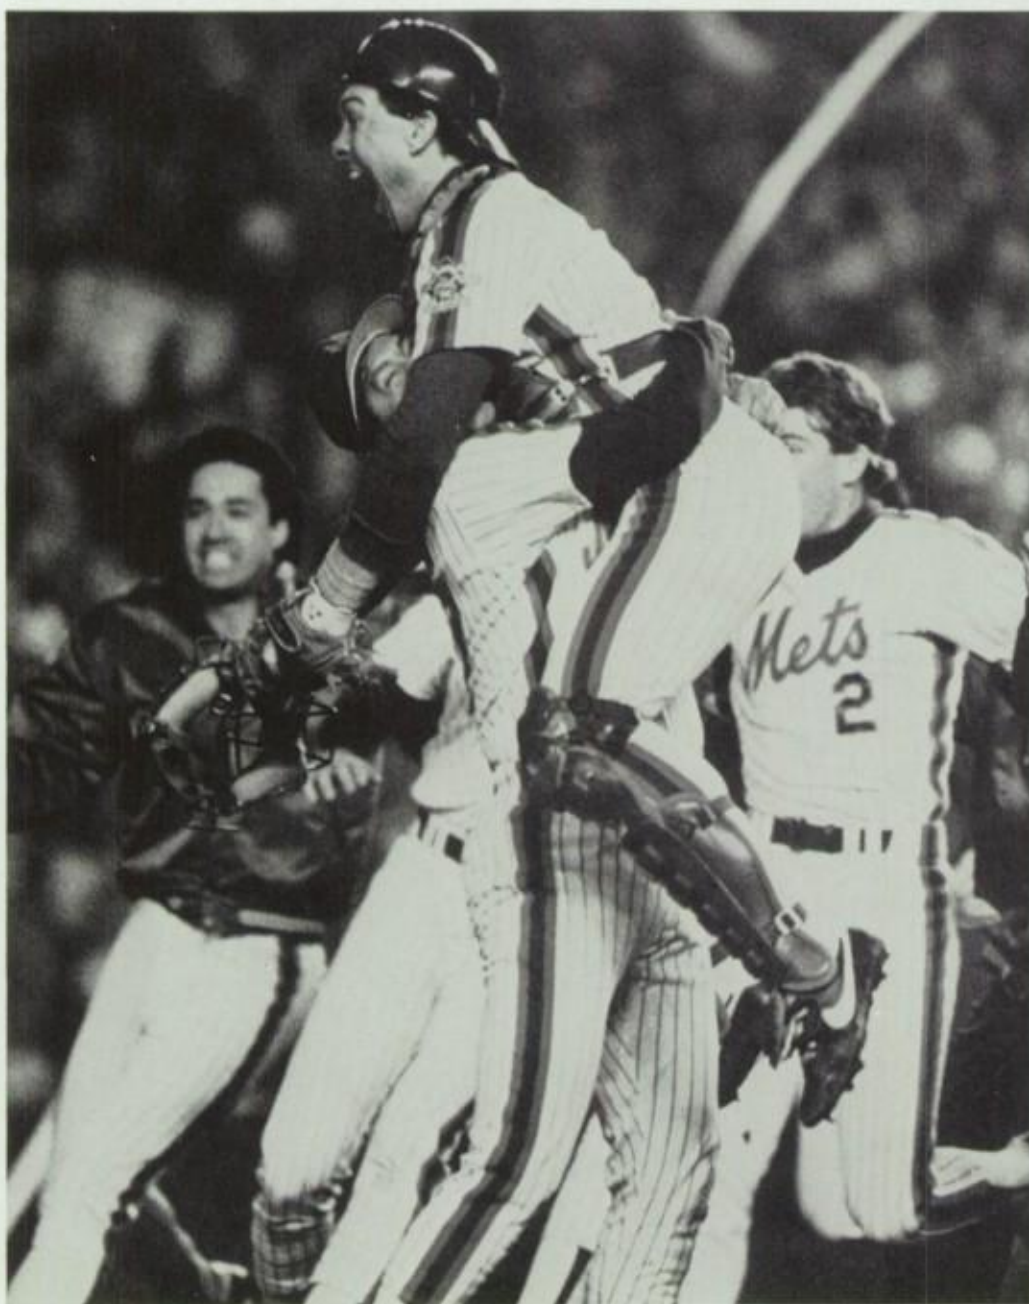

From birthday parties and weddings to beauty pageants and ballgames, the nation celebrated its good points in 1986.

Yet, it wasn't all good news. "Crack," one of the newest, most popular, and most dangerous drugs took countless lives. Also, one of the worst droughts in the history of the southeast brought area farmers to their knees. Only the cooperation of northwestern and midwestern farmers kept cattle from starving.

Surviving it all, the American spirit and sense of humor live on in Clover.

Crowned Miss America 1986 was Miss Tennessee, Kellye Cash, niece of country singer Johnny Cash of Nashville.

Hyannis Port, Massachusetts, was the scene of the July 19, 1986 wedding of Caroline Kennedy, daughter of John F. Kennedy, to Edwin Schlossberg, a New York businessman.

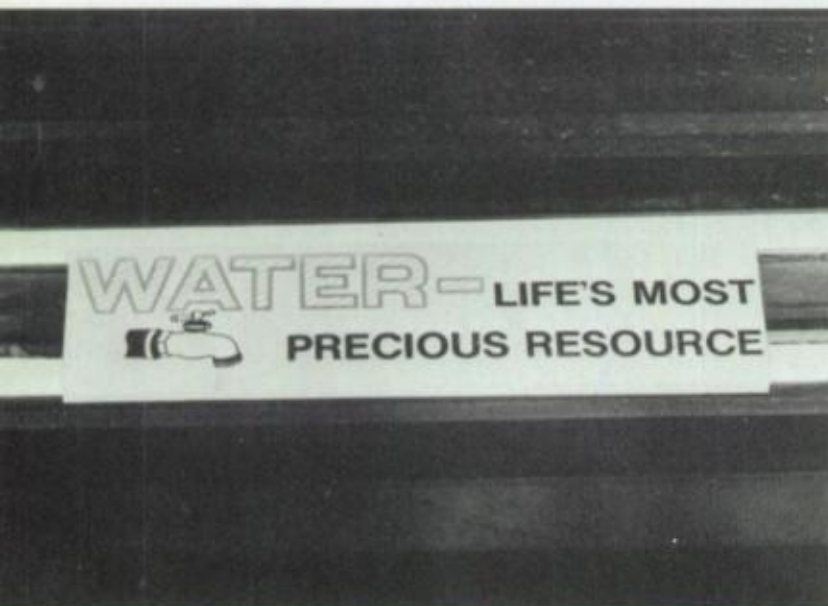

The New York Mets celebrate their 8-5 victory over the Boston Red Sox after the seventh game of the World Series.

A Year of Change

Changes took place this year. Marion Yarns was sold, gas prices fell, and rain did not.

Governor Dick Riley visited the area and declared Clover a "Great Town." Many of us already knew that.

One of the many bumper stickers advertising "Water West," a county water system for western York County.

Hay arrived from the midwest to relieve the grain shortage caused by the worst drought in years.

A new police chief took over the reigns of justice. The town pool was renovated, and citizens voted in a new water system. In addition, ground was broken for a new chemical plant.

A glut of oil caused reduction of gas prices as shown on local signs.

A group of investors bought Marion Yarns and changed its name to Tuscarora Yarns.

This year's Fall Fest brought people from all over to downtown Clover.

New Police Chief Steve Willis gets acquainted with Mr. Otis Whistine, a veteran officer.

Town officials lead groundbreaking for the new Pillsbury chemical plant.

The town pool was renovated this year.

Retiring Police Chief Lloyd Hopper receives his plaque from councilman Allen Boyd.

Working very diligently, Toshia
Friday strives for perfection in mechanical drawing.

Dressed to impress are Tina Kendrick, Lisa McConnell, and Sandra Biggers.

The Clover mascot, Amy Adams, shows off her spirit during a pep rally.

Trying to keep his cleavage up, Marty Greene shows us what he is really like during the football players' beauty contest.

Could this be a match made in Heaven? John Barnett and Joy Davis are husband and wife in the mock wedding sponsored by the Home Economics classes.

Awaiting their cue, Gary Philbeck and Brenda Currence prepare to take their stroll down the aisle in the mock wedding.

Always eager to cash checks and receive deposits, Mrs. Delores Bryant enjoys being a teller at South Carolina National Bank.

Minding the family business is an everyday task for Mr. Neil Pursley at Pursley's Auto Parts.

Ads: A Winging

The yearbook staff winged it through another great year of ad sales by working hard, literally contacting the entire business community in both Clover and Lake Wylie, and by making a new addition to the ad section, parent pages.

The yearbook staff started the organization of ad sales in June of last summer. Through the dedicated persistence of eager staff members and the leadership of top salesperson, Regina Moore, the staff's business manager, ad sales made a significant jump from last year.

In addition to business ads, parent pages were introduced this year. Parent pages were offered to the parents of seniors who wished to express their congratulations through a personal ad in the yearbook. Even though these ads were brand new this year, it was the staff's hope that they will become as common and traditional as class rings.

Now that this year has ended and a new year of ad sales has begun, the yearbook staff would like to thank all those businesses and parents who helped finance the production of the yearbook. Without your help, such a yearbook would not have been possible.

Smith's has long been the "hot spot" for women's fashion in Clover. Here, Cathy McCall shows off a full display counter.

Helping with the community's home improvement needs, Mr. John Brandon assists Mr. L. Beckum.

Making a beautiful arrangement, Beth Jackson does the job right at Shamrock Flower Shop.

New ideas. New regulations. New techniques. They're popping up all the time in the insurance world. And the personal service representatives at Watson Insurance keep on top of all these changes through continuous education. They attend loss control schools, seminars and specialized classes. All with an eye towards providing you with the most modern protection available. At the lowest cost possible. At Watson we believe there's always something more to learn. And that our customers can benefit from this knowledge.

Don't Be Afraid to Say 'No'

"Kim was a mischievous soul, but loved by us all."

CHS Teacher

"All Young Women! Do not ever be embarrassed to demand an exit from a show-off's car. If he really cared about you he would not be trying to mutilate or destroy you."

Her father

On the night of July 3, 1986, Kim Soronen entered a car not knowing that a few hours later she would face the end of a short-lived journey through life. Kim died in an auto accident of multiple trauma and mutilation. There was a memorial service held for Kim on July 6, at the River Hills Community Church. Kim's body was cremated and the ashes were spread over Lake Wiley, South Carolina by her father.

The memory of Kim will linger in the hearts of all those many people who cherished her.

Kim was born on January 4, 1968 at 1:20 A.M. in Charlotte Memorial Hospital. She died on July 3, 1986 at 9:55 P.M. in Mooresville.

WING IT!

BUT DON'T LOSE YOUR HEAD

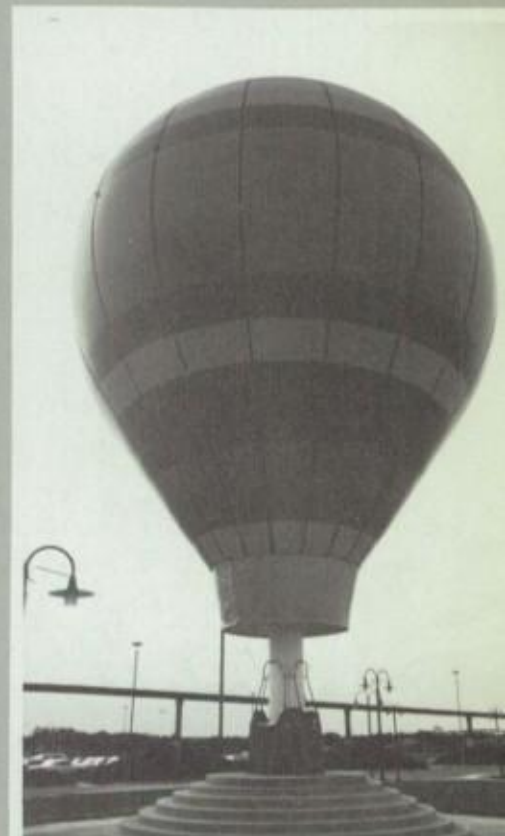

"Winged Victory," the most famous statue of the Hellenistic Age, lost her head trying to WING IT at Winthrop College. This reproduction stands in Tillman Building across from the room where students try to WING IT through the SAT.

Depending on the ability to WING IT through life could be dangerous academically and socially. A little hard work and honesty go a long way.

A fake hot air balloon from a craft shop appears to soar, WINGIN' IT through the clouds.

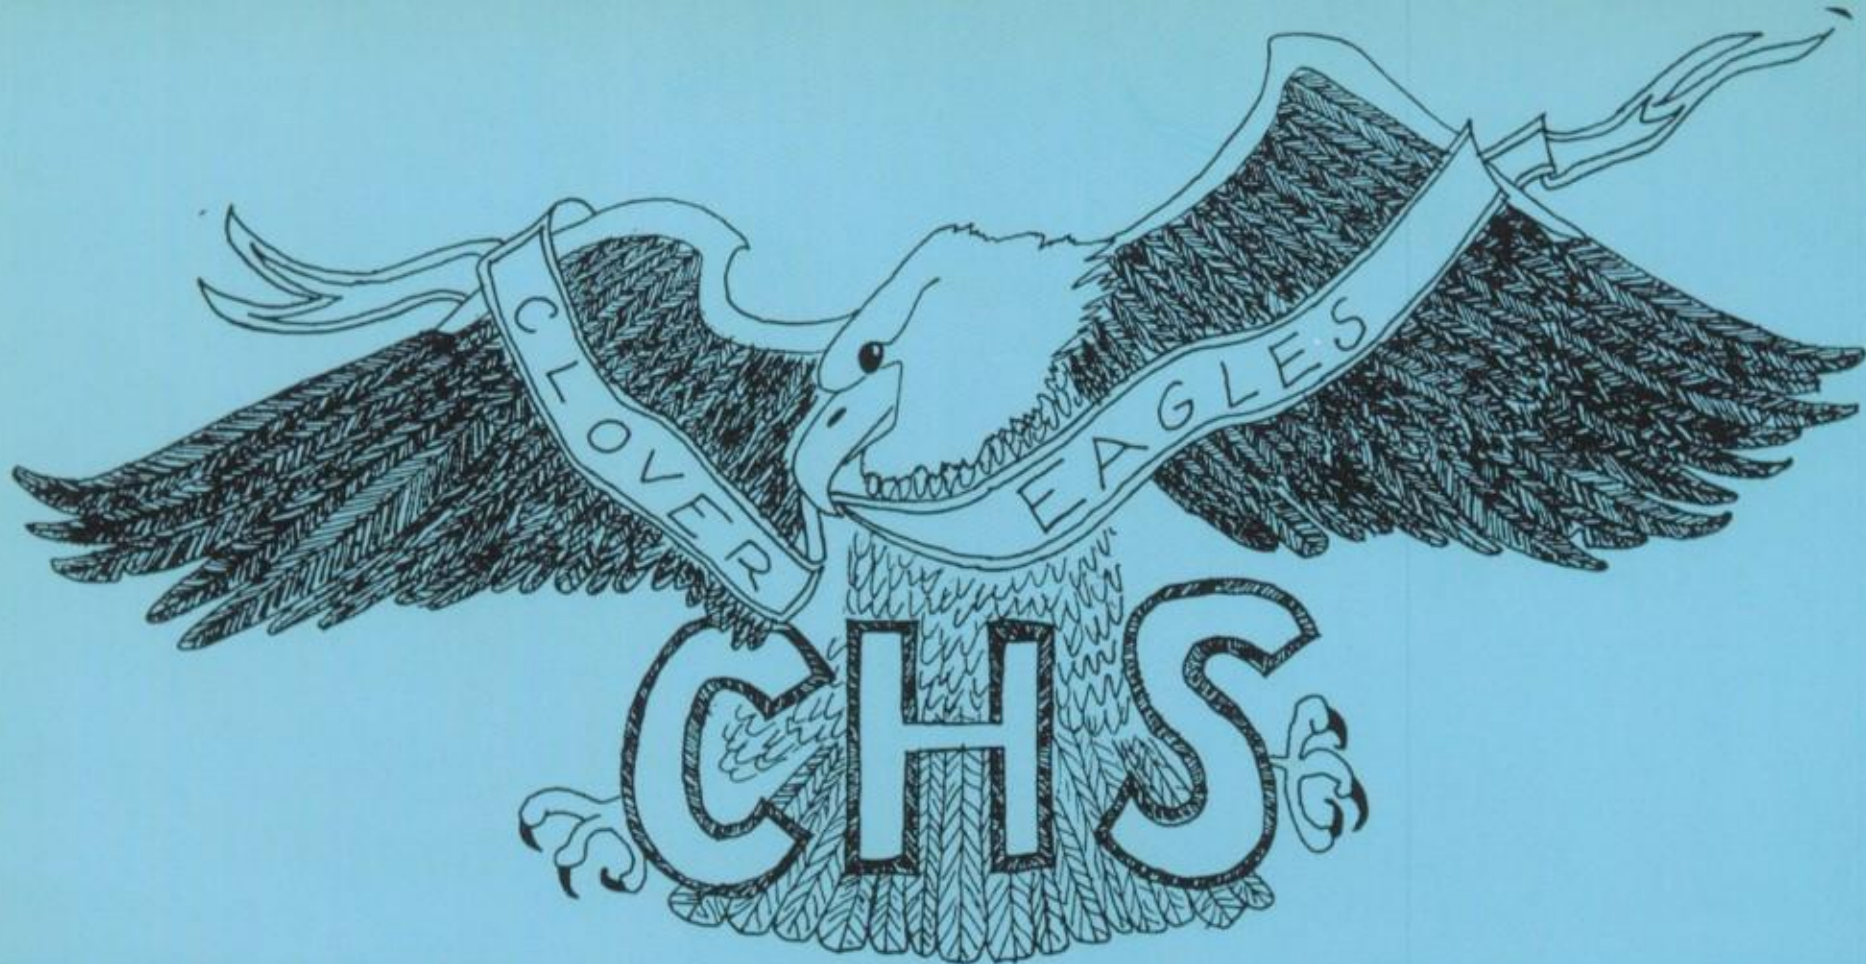

The Front Page: The hot air balloon that cannot WING IT is firmly grounded in front of the Carowinds monorail at Outlet Marketplace off I-77. Nothing needs to WING IT more than a creature of flight which cannot levitate. Can you say levitate? It's the word of the day.

Across the street from Graceland, home of Elvis Presley, stands the singer's favorite way of WINGIN' IT, the Lisa Marie.

WINGIN' IT down a Charlotte parade route, the WBCV chicken rides in front of the CHS Band in the Charlotte 600 Parade. Chickens also have trouble WINGIN' IT. Sometimes it takes courage and a good set of wings.

Well, another year and another yearbook have passed. Both were filled with stress, fun, suspense, and even a little excitement.

Now that the seniors have left for good and everyone is looking forward to a long, hot summer, the reader may think that he should forget the majority of what he has learned in school this year. After all, how much algebra and English are needed for tanning on the beach? If, however, the reader wants to retain at least one thing from the 1986-87 school year, it should be the knack of wingin' it, because one never knows when it is going to come in handy.

Wingin' It

Reserved for Jason

Cara,

Well, what can I say?
We've known each other for quite awhile now and I've loved every minute of it! you're probably the closest friend (AS A ^{GIRL} ~~PERSON~~) that I've ever known. Rather you know it or not, you and I have got a lot in common. We've had some real good times and conversations.
Without them, I would probably be a lost individual right now. I really miss you since you left.
I'd give anything if you would come back. But as long as you're happy, that's all that matters to me.
Cara, I just wanna let you know that anything you ever need, I'll always be there for ya! you're a very special friend to me and I'll never forget you. Please keep in touch. I Love ya!

Sincerely,

Jason
